Multilayer Security—Because A Moat Is Not Enough

Not that long ago, banks believed that if they put up a firewall and installed anti-malware programs they would be protected from cybercrime. Clearly that is no longer the case. Cybercriminals have become far more sophisticated, and the threats have increased and become harder to detect. A white paper from digital-banking-platform-provider Q2 identifies five layers of proactive security. Read more Welcome friends, family, and tribe!

This is newsletter #166...

Happy Monday! Reactions...I have been thinking about how fast I react lately to small unimportant things every day. Wow. I'm the life and wellness coach. I do yoga daily for 90 minutes and meditate. I take long walks and eat grain free and sugar free. What? Am I a fraud? No. I am a work in progress, like you all are. Stop the negative self-judgement and move forward. Baby steps are steps after all!

This week my YouTube video is sharing my natural skin care regime. I am often complimented on how soft, smooth, and wrinkle free my skin looks for my age, almost 52! Do you want to know what I use? Click here to view the video.

Las Vegas offered $1 million for new gaming machines at the of the close of the open market bid Ms. Marlena N. Davis ideas were chosen at the close of the bid which were the Wheel of fortune gaming machine and the All-in-one gaming machine which when manufactured the first were delivered to Silver City across from Circus Circus Casino Hotel. Never was Marlena paid but Shot repititiously and sexually molested out of all human relationships. As a stroke victim she regained her ability to work and was told by Las Vegas employees that the City or State contacted them and terminated her for she was disable at the time she worked multiple jobs and found McDonald's was skimming off of not only her, but all employees 15 to 20%. It was stated in Chicago at the Tribune Building everyone knows Mcdonalds put a hit on you years later for being good. When she proved her allegation McDonald's contacted her with apologies to her and her Manager. The 3 jobs she was working was 1.pt time job at McDonald's, 2.pt time job, 3rd was a Sales job at an entertainment company. All jobs gave Marlena a termination notice for no reason other than a contact from the government enforcing a need for a Medical examination to retrieve a work release. Her performance was accepted by employees without the governments interference. Marlena has proven this is a governmental genocide to control minorities to replace with beauracrats relatives to enslave to create, and produce concepts that have proven to benefit and earn millions instead of minimum wages for organize crime figures. Marlena disabled many times, in many ways refused can't do. She challenged a forced Physical examination demanded by Social Security who decides what doctor to visit who could render a work release. Marlena who was shot in the head several times proved actually Dr. Lampkin, Neurologist was a Fraud and had him arrested on her visit as he didn't even know how to test for reflexes, identified a hole in her brain and didn't know what to do, he said; Order more MRI's at a cost $800.then stuck her with a safety pin. Marlena called the Police and questioned his credentials enforced that he provide a license to practice Medicine; when he couldn't they handcuffed him for practicing Medicine there for 13 years without a Medical License. The next day he became Headline News and again everyone hated Marlena for doing the right thing. It was said they could not get their drugs illegally anymore. The same thing happened at USC in Los Angeles, California Marlena was stripped of life support in the Emergency room where they covered PUC/Southern Gas Truck was visible when she was shot in the head again authorities aided/abetted shooter stating she was Invertigo-omitting she was shot--admitted her and tried to kill her upstairs on a Medical Ward asked what she was allergic to then order it when she was hemorrhaging profusedly from her vagina a Medical Doctor ordered a Gynological Specialist to examine instead Dr.Gevorkian ordered what was in the Medical Records proven to cause Anaphylactic shock previously stipulating it may cause her death.

When Dr. Gevorkian wrote the order of death.....Marlena called 911 and told LA Police the Doctor was ordering an allergin that would kill her instead of the order for a Gynecologist Specialist.

Even when Marlena told the Police her mother died in 5 minutes of an allergin injection of penicillin LAPD refused to come into the Hospital and arrest.

Dr. Gevorkian for attempted murder. Los Angeles Police stated they will turn the situation over to USC Security and Marlena's life was in jeopardy they would be transferring her out in 30 minutes to a Secured hospital--Rosemead. When they kidnapped Marlena they stopped all Medical Treatment at a cost of $85,000.00. The hole in her head never received Medical Treatment. Marlena was released 30 days later demanding an administrative review and proof of a Medical license. Marlena was told Dr. Gevorkian was transferred to Glendale Adventist. When 14 jurisdictions would not arrest Dr. Gevorkian Marlena contacted the White House in Washington , DC. 2 years later, whom turned the investigation over to Health and Human services Medical Board whom proved Dr. Gevorkian never had a License to practice Medicine or Psychiatry and informed Marlena that she got had by an orderly who could go to jail for 2 years for using a prescription pad to write any prescription. He proved to have been Cocaine Dealer near LAX Airport later and whatever is talking out of Marlena may be that without her knowledge by way and through as DMV did get busted as, (2016 $13 million Heroine bust from Marlena's 911 call on Fairfax/Wishire) with an appointment in Irvine, California a dispute with Marlena enroute to her appointment with Health and Safety her call to 911 repititiously that day netted a drug bust the perpetrator stipulated, "when Marlena arrive "you get the deed and we get the Cocaine as cops set there."

Marlena's investigation concluded with the arrest of Dr. Saldivar at Glendale Adventist Hospital who confessed to killing 104 persons this way by injecting them to kill. Dr. Saldivar stated he wanted to help them to die to take them out of their misery." Marlena never checked to see if he was licensed or not, however, no one showed concern for their actions but Marlena who knew what happened to her at USC was illegal and should be prosecuted.

Marlena had a note of the question: What is the difference between killing with a gun verses a needle in the Palm Spring, California City Clerks Office when Marlena won a case in Laguna Hills against the Police an Officer Garcia. tried her by omitting facts to institutionalize her for telling the Officer to get the astigma out of his eyes when he interrogates her. She was unlawfully taken to Desert Regional Hospital admitted then asked what she was allergic to whenever she said that would kill me he increased the dosage 5 times. A man with a white coat stepped up and intervene: he stated, "Are you sure you want to inject her with that medication knowing she is allergic:" he replied, "I'm sure," increasing dosage again. The man said, "let me see your hands--he look at his hands extending them....the man in the White Doctors coat reached in back of him fetching handcuffs--Cuffed him and escorted him off of the property on 6-21-2001 the Doctors date-of-death was 6-23-2001, the Doctor was found a mile up the road Dismembered with head decapitated. Officer Garcia confessed to an unlawfull certification stating, "she walked in front of cars but omitted they were halted on a red and she waited for the green to walk is when he snatched her. Officer Garcia confessed was fired immediately. These are the events that are prohibiting her from a CCW and right to bear arms.

After winning a Multi-million Dollar Lawsuit in the County of Los Angeles Superior Court ruled by Honorable Judge Morriss Jones. Marlena was approached in Rancho Coccumongga, California by Police Officer stating on a certificate that "Marlena Nita Davis look suspucious," and held her illegally for 30 days. The Police took her to Colton Hospital in Colton, California another attempt to murder by the Police whom asked again what was she allergic to then injected when the nurse refused for fear she may die...they told her inject her or go. Marlena went into anaphylactic shock and was revived put on a neubilizer, aveolar, and admir she had began bleeding internally and when they discharged her another doctor was going through all the charts, stating he was looking for some money re-admitted her and sold her organs for $ 65, 000. When Marlena got out she filed a police report because there began a stalking of sells of a heart and liver for that cost which neither is for sale. A police report was filed in Palm Springs, California as same actions occurred at DMV. Colton Hospital like all others held Marlena illegally to protect Officer James Merrideth, of Blue Island, Illinois and Officer Calvert of Laguna Beach, California both confessed of Forcible rape but neither is Prosecuted as Marlena is confused by 24 hour attrition, threats, sexual battery, ongoing molestation causing her to lead a wrongful life and obstructing every case from going forward. Never could Marlena be paid for her work or her losses. Her Social Security has been stolen for decades from her purses, from the desk in Cathedral City,

California Thousands

at a time up till the Police confessed in front of his partner in July 2017 where he got shot. Marlena provided a copy of the statement to come and pick up the $4,000.00 benefit check they owed at the desk in Cathedral City, California when she arrived to pick the check up it was gone the said they routed it to the bank which stated they received $400.

Each time she was a rape involved theft or hospitalization if Marlena talked. They had recently taken $3600.00 never could she have a right to privacy or her money without soneone or something touching her with screams of a Bradly in the background. Marlena has received volts to her body since suing the Chicago Police for forcible rape. 1996 to present they scream we are wherewith total strangers screaming every minute refusing to represent who they are at every till.

King Drew killer of 800 people was called in prior to the shooting of 500 person st the Madalay Bay Casino. Marlena approached him and asked how could you kill so many people and not go to jail, he responded, "hide." The ex-doctor got caught on Marten Luther king holiday when everything was closed in the cafeteria stating no of his patient's in 13 to 16 years had Aides until after he opened them up he was going to teach this new doctor the procedure of how to give them aides Marlena fled and turned matter over to the reporter's after Proving what Marlena witnessed. King Drew Hospital was taken to the ground. The doctor fled to Chicago whose Hospital spotted this act after the Third Surgery--not 800. Marlena did report him spotted on Tropicana and Decatur in front of a Jack in the Box restaurant she was injected in her left foot with something that controls from a car unit...he is still free and it was said his daughter is seperately watching and with him, warning...they are serial killers.

Allied Universal started with you now have to "tow dick" and the Police started with Marlena is now a problem not tbem, how? It is believe d Authorities are abiding and abetting this person or he is who is holding Marlena.

Federal Dirksen District Court Offered $9,999,999 if Marlena Nita Davis won the $6 Million Lawsuit filed against the Chicago Police Department whom may have put the intercom in her abdomen warning all others to stay back.

Officer James Merrideth threatened to kill Marlena in 1996 and is believed to be responsible for some of the ex-cmmunication and Torture as her investigations had fired 5 Police Chiefs like Chief Willie Williams in Los Angeles, California

Marlena Nita Davis was Raped by Officer James Merrideth and when she reported it she was unlawfully hospitalized without warning or ever having a history of any Mental Illness after the 2nd week of this hospitalization her job at the Butler Company fired her informing her that she was needed at work to come to work or her job would be fulfilled by someone else. They injected her with a medication that caused her anaphylactic shock they transferred her from Grant Hospital to University of Illinois Hospital they had injected her with a different Medication increasing dosage in their attempt to murder before being transferred, for the Chicago Police Department, to University of Illinois she was received in Emergency Cold Blue DOA-Dead on Arrival.

How by torture Marlena's ideas for the State Lotto, Paid Cable Channels such as the 1st--ShowTime, Public Transportation: Bus Announciators, Inside Video Surveillance replacing foot patrol, The accordion bus combining 2 into 1, The Ace Deuce which was introduced as The Double Decker...RTC only changed the name. Marlena who headed Ansley Business Materials which sold commodities before coming to Las Vegas Nevada whom created many products before entering Las Vegas, Nevada: Such as the Electric Car, Cordless Telephone, Cell Phone, Automatic Document Feeder, Table-top Offset Press, Color Copier, Automatic Teller Machine, Internet, Wireless Internet, Wireless Headsets, 1st Stretch Limousine, Side Mirror Blinker reflector for vehicles to prohibit collisions, created lady Starbucks emblem, ideas franchised restaurants--Jack in the Box, Wendys, putting the first White Castle Restaurant in Las Vegas, Nevada, Working on The Lords Supper Buffet or Family Restaurants franchises. My Executive Sales experience and New Concepts--creating new ideas for Television aired #1 on the syndicate for 10 years × created lyrics and music to cry which made it to #1 on the R&B charts, Billboard to Platinum not Gold. Movies were made off of Marlena's Police Reports and ideas such as; ER Revised, Seven, Cellular, Inception, The day the Earth Stood Still-Revised, etc.

Marlena Nita Davis ideas were created to Benefit the World such as the Light pole announciators to help the blind whom couldn't walk across the street without fear instantly while helping Marlena thought if the pole wad broadcasted where they were and how much time they had to cross it would help the Blind go foward everywhere. Freemasons crafted expiedently works were implemented so fast in their neighborhoods in others Marlena is just a Negro with an idea and take her Money, Id, Cell Phone (your voice should not be heard) as stripped in public, kacking. A group stated, "Evict her, Walk her, Institutionalize her, then shoot her." Since the Honorable Martin Luther King, Jr. Stood up and taught us to fight peacefully with wisdom not weapons and died for our equality. Marlena prove a child could not swing on a swing without violence from satin in Leprosy Good and God would be hit every minute by the devil. FACT: Reverend Martin Luther King and Ms. Marlena Nita Davis DID Change an Evil World for the Betterment of All Mankind.

Marlena has been shot up to 11x most recent with a 12 quage shotgun at the Disneyland gate in Anaheim, California after calling the Police and FBI on the 10 most wanted whom confirmed his name was Yaser Abdul Data Saiid when asked on a public OCTA Bus, whose driver chicken out and refused to call the sheriffs to apprehend when he said, "Yes that my name. Authorities did not who up when called to the Bus in November 2016, 2 months after being released from the Hospital held on a note: The Ten Most Wanted wants to kill her transferred by his female friend doctor later stipulated.

The FBI, Long Beach, California Police, Orange County Transportation and Sheriffs negligence are indebted to her as the cause of her being shot, harassed, and tortured. People thought it was her family hurting and stealing from her, Marlena proved it was old world gangs she called Police on as a teen to adult hood like Dewitt and his gang who raped Marlena as a child impregnating her as a child totally estranged. Could it be them holding her today never did Marlena abort the child which too could be killing her without blood for not telling of the event. Greylord, Gambit-Brody, Bulger and his hoods; Ex: Police, Drug Dealers and Wanted Felons Aided/Abetted by Authorities.

In Palm Springs, California when Marlena was working on the idea of putting Fragrances other then Powder Fresh in Deodorants a stalker got caught following her and stealing her ideas for profits when she could never get paid on videotape went to jail with $14 million and published in the News.

Officer Melanson/Officer Garcia of Palm Springs Police whom stole Identification as a Southern Gas Company employee used stolen Identification to work in Marlena's credentials caught burying a Child in Cathedral City, California possibly in retaliation from initiated Court Cases they trample with their children following prostituting. Marlena called in an area where she smelled Blood-- when the Police got finish counting dead babies it was 300 of them. The Palm Springs Police and The Mayor had a Televised special Memorial Service for the bodies found. Fact: Since renting in Palm Springs, California where they stated people with Aides torted her to enter anything screaming she raped a kid they stated with her they are not being sh...ted at."

Marlena have been burnt on fingertips every minute since filing a Lawsuit at District Court Federal on Officer James Merrideth whom threatened to kill.... from 9 volts to 600,000 to extract a statement of "I will Kill you if you don't stop.They took Marlena Nita Davis Taylor Drivers License and rights to drive in America with No Traffic Violations for decades as others used her USC rights.

Marlena Nita Davis can't get paid because of Modern day Slavery from 1960's to Present, Who prosecute the Abolishment Laws? Uhaul of Costa Mesa, California stated, "We held Marlena for 25 years to get; we want her load not her." Uhaul proved Drug/Sex Trafficking with Leonora Padilla, Extortion, Embezzlement, from a $15 million bust when she called in a suspicious truck on Grand & Halsted 1991 to present. Chicago Police proved to have ex-communicated and expulled her from her property found open for the Police to Store Drugs in her name--property she paid monthly rent for years she never visited was found open all that time without her knowledge. Chicago Police were proven to be the renters of the U-haul truck and be grudged her return then told to go leave Chicago.

Marlena being the Child who swung on the swings in Marquette Park on Kedzie in Chicago, Illinois the very first day her father let her ride a bus alone. Her dream was to play and swing on a swing; believes this is the reason 25 years of kidnap by U-haul to get was Silenced.

Marlena's Father who lived & shopped on Marquette Rd that worked everyday always said No, you can not play in the park--when you grow up I will tell you about IT. Marlena went shopping at a little thrift Store across from the Marquette park and bought a little doll--noone was in the Park so she she fulfilled her dream and swung on the swings for only 15 minutes. When her father came home from work at 7:00 p.m. Her Father retrieved her from bed and said, "My child you swung on those swings didn't you!" Marlena replied, "Yes Daddy, I did and had a wonderful time!

Mr. William W. Davis stated, "Come see what I couldn't talk about--as he led Marlena to the Television: Police in Riot gear, Cars on Fire, People getting hit with Billy Clubs, a horrible nightmare created by a child's dream to play is believed to be the reason she could never get paid for her work as a genius as a child after the riots talked to her daddy about building a shopping mall which was the first on 63rd and Halsted. Marlena had drawn a Pot-of-Gold and envisioned people going to the store to play numbers instead of the bookies running from door to door. Daddy always said, "My child that's a good idea! The State Lotto became a way of life like her idea to give people dignity at the registers decades later with her idea give Credit Cards to replace paper Food Stamps (EBT) she would hurt at their embarrassment at the counters for. being poor.

Marlena Nita Davis the only daughter of Mr. William W. Davis at that time reared by her father whose Mother died at her age of four was taught to never, alone...

Master the conditions & circumstances of every day life, but, amongst All Master All things and Did Change a World--alone as a midget--person seen as insignificant, a minority ignorant of hate but taught to labor as a child; if no job is availabe to you--CREATE your own.

Master, Mr. William W. Davis brother of the 1st Negro American U.S. Army General: Benjamin O. Davis, Uncle of the 2nd Negro U.S.Army General: Benjamin O. Davis, Jr.

Marlena Nita Davis found out what her father Never taught his children was to hate or the difference between White and Black they were Equally a Color out of a Crayola box--to judge people by the content of their character not their color. Through Education Marlena proved that in this world, We as a People are One divided by Good verse s Evil and what happened that night in Marquette Park after Marlena swung on a swing for only 15 minute with no one visible in the entire park--Satin and Leprosy attacked Colored people for simply being Good..to give Respect to all was what they could not do for some reason. The people whom labeled themselves the Klu, Klux, Klan exhibited hate, mayhem & murder for actually nothing...theu sought any reason to kill. Marlena proved just a good girls mere existence was to much for them to obey God and the Law and blamed her for the riot.

Marlena proved she could Obey God and the Law and get nothing for creating a World of happiness for all willing to receive Love not Hate and March on Amongst all men raped repeatedly by the Police which most recent in July 2017 an Officer approached the stripped infamous Marlena Nita Davis looking for stolen credentials was aproached by Officers telling her to move on in front of the Paris Hotel planter. Something had been injected in her left foot to tort control her to perform and do without her knowledge. The Police Officer decided to brag of how he layed on top of her for 15 minutes and raped her in the park then took $2,000.00 off of her when she passed out teasing in front of hundreds of people passing bye on the Las Vegas Strip. July 2017 the Officer was shot within 15 minutes of his departure of Marlena before he could leave the strip no one know whether it was his partner who killed him.... someone said it was her enemy an Officer she had filed an Internal Affair Report on the year before for exhibiting hate stating he wanted her dead in public; Rumor says he killed rhe Officer immediately and said, "he didn't know that."

All of Marlena's U. S. Constitutional rights were taken to everything since kidnapped at McCarren Airport by an Officer Lauderdale she could not exit the State of Nevada to eat his Dick he would pay," for refusing she was tresspassed, hit, hospitalized for 3 months and stripped of every USC right to fly and Medical treatment, black/blue areas they for some reason refused to X'ray were photographed still visible 3 months after Officer Lauderdale injured her attwmptwd to jail her with No Charge...a Judge would rule in his favor with 100 witnesses that Marlena did nothing illegal. Two days later this Officer Lauderdale was aired on Live News for ramming his car into another Police Car. These are Las Vegas finest who hired them we don't know but if Marlena say there is a problem 99% of the time she is correct. She was later told by Allied Barton/Universal she will Eat Dick and no longer use a cell phone, WiFi, Ebay etc, you'd get nothing until you do what we say.....

on a Flamingo bus as they attempted to rape a female Bus reported to Las Vegas Metro Police Department.

The forced extractions began at LAPD Parker Center as 85 + officers exited January 26, 2001 when Officer Americ broke 4 ribs and attempted to unlawfully jail. The Supervisor Officer Scott ordered her release as she was looking for a stolen briefcase with two cases whom offered 2 Settlements

1.$20,000,000. from the Cigarette Company 2.$500,000. from Southern Gas Company/Sempra Energy Officer Americ injured Marlena in front of Shiites cladded in shitte wear.

10-24-2017 under video footage at Desert Springs Hospital on Flamingo an ER nurse escorts a caucasion male with a grey hat to her room and points at Marlena stating that's how your $20 million look never did Marlena receive it. J

Marlena hopes the officers did not exit with her settlements, Nor Bin Laden and his group whom Stated, "We never treated our women like that as the exited LAPD Parker Center All Court cases have been Obstructed, Extracted, Manipulated, Broadcasted-'as this report is prepared it is read in nearby houses whom are said to be police and federal. A man name Ahmad stated Marlena was fronted to give over 100,000 Shiites food in Amerca."

In October 2017 as Marlena discussed with security to put a change sprout on the Transaction Machine to render Bills for Change allowed No relationships told to Tow Dicks by Allied Universal.

Marlena N. Davis is Devastated and Petrified Tortured and in Bondage-even as I write a person is screaming every minute they are going to touch me when they want to as I receive voltage and surges to my body to prohibit this contact. Please stop the 18 USC Obstruction of Justice and help Prosecute these crimes. Contact: [redacted] Please investigate for Criminal Prosecution, recoupment of losses, wrongful life and Restitution. DAYS UNTIL FILING OPENS FOR THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 165

DAYS UNTIL THE 2018 PRIMARY ELECTION: 264

DAYS UNTIL THE 2018 GENERAL ELECTION: 411

Good morning, everyone. The Republicans seem pretty close to getting Graham-Cassidy-the-other-guy-Johnson through the Senate. Not sure I have ever seen the mendacity from the backers of a proposal as I have seen with this, and it's not just me. Look here and here and here. Dean Heller's break with the governor after saying he would not break with the governor is mentioned by Vox. And in case you want to remind yourself why you should always, always listen to me, remember this? Here's a question to ponder: Is it worse for Heller politically if his bill passes and is signed into law because it makes folks even madder next year as the impacts become clear and his name is on the bill?

What's below: Paul and Steve, pot nuggets, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a temperature record.

COMING UP

Texas here I come!

GOODBYE PAUL, HELLO STEVE

I'm actually quite sad about Paul Anderson leaving the Legislature, as I said on Twitter. I heard he was not coming back at the end of the session, and I expressed dismay then. But the reality is there are too few Paul Andersons and too many fill-in-the-name-here, who legislate through the prism of the next election or a vocal minority that affects their votes. Anderson is a thoughtful guy who I personally saw pained by developments in Carson City and who was always guided by what he thought was best for the state (and we didn't always agree). This is not good for the process.

As for Steve Hill, he is perfect for the LVCVA. His legacy is assured as head of GOED. If Brian Sandoval is a master salesman for the state, Steve Hill has been the master negotiator and deal-closer. He helped change the trajectory of Nevada and especially the North. And for those about to invoke Faraday, remember it was Hill who ensured the state was protected on that gamble. Most people don't realize the quality of the staff he has assembled or the smaller, less-noticed deals he put together.

Oh, and good story, guys.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

This is the anniversary of a state and national record held by a Nevada city for the greatest temperature swing in one day – 12 degrees to 87 degrees on the same day! Where?

Wednesday’s winner: Assemblyman Elliot Anderson

The question: On this day, 11 years before the Nevada Territory existed, a president appointed a famous man as governor of the territory that included Nevada. What president and who was the governor?

The answer: Fillmore, Brigham Young.

FINTECH COMPETITION SERIES/PART 4

Will online lenders disrupt small business banking?

The online business lending mix isn't homogenous. Some players may be very appealing partners for banks. While others definitely prefer to compete, some might still find teamwork appealing. The one thing banks and these newcomers can't do is ignore each other, warns CCG Catalyst's Paul Schaus. Read more

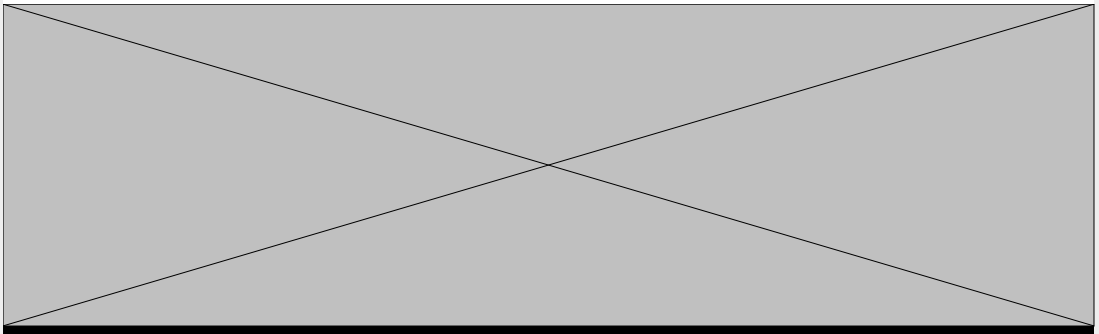
Subject: Drifting with the current forward | view in browser | view on mobile



We've watched many cities drift along the current, defaulting to a paper-based process or partially automated system for employee initiated spending. Expense reports and invoices are error prone, lengthy processes that take longer reimbursement or payment cycles. We've also witnessed the aftermath of those decisions and the pains that surface.

Myths that contribute to drifting with the current:

- Achieving automation is costly and our city doesn't have the budget for that kind of investment right now.
  - FACT: Automation and policy compliance returns far outweigh the reasonable cost of implementing a cloud-based employee initiated spend solution. Reducing back office processing to reallocate staff to resident services is a win in funding, reduction of improper payments, higher adoption of vendor negotiated discount programs and visibility.
- Our data is dependent on many different systems, it's just too problematic.
  - FACT: Connecting all your data into one system where you can achieve complete visibility into all employee initiated spending will not only help with forecasting and funds management, but will help you detect fraud, waste and abuse and report with confidence on county, state and federal mandates.
- End-users will be resistant to change or a new process will be disruptive to current priorities.
  - FACT: City employees have higher levels of job satisfaction when given the opportunity to use time-saving, efficient mobile tools.

Head upstream with SAP Concur and uncover the potential your city can achieve with an automated expense and invoice solution. We've found Managing the Tracking of State and Local Employee Initiated Spending report is a valuable place to start.

Subject: Rescinding Dianetics Day or Month

Dear Mayor,

I believe that you in the past your city inadvertently made a horrible mistake by issuing a proclamation for Dianetics Day. I am sure your Mayor at the time did not know that by doing so you were condoning the actions of the author L.Ron Hubbard, who has proven to be a liar and fraud and who's organization actively destroys families and has infiltrated many government agencies to spy on them which resulted in nine of their members going to jail including L Ron Hubbard's wife!

Currently The Church's uses the proclamation your city has given them as evidence of your support for what they do and how. Mayor Roy of Calera, Alabama rescinded theirs and I am asking you to do the same. I have included some different information here to substantiate what I am asking for and why so you have facts that your city may not have been provided with before agreeing to having your city be supportive of this organization. Mayor Roy rescinded their proclamation based on only the following:

Dianetics and Scientology are inseparable; the former is used as a technique in the practice of the latter, and the doctrines of the former are incorporated in the latter."
– The Lee Report on Dianetics and Scientology by Professor John Lee

"(a) The claim is made for dianetics, which is part of scientology, and inferentially for the whole of scientology, that between them they can positively cure all psychosomatic ailments, which it is claimed represent 70 per cent. of man's illnesses.

(b) These claims are entirely unjustified.
(c) On the contrary, scientology techniques, beyond the elementary stages, are potentially and, in some instances, positively harmful to mental health.
(d) Scientology is practised by "auditors" who have no medical training; they use dangerous techniques; they are unable to recognize symptoms and diagnose particular mental and physical conditions of ill health; they indiscriminately apply dangerous techniques irrespective of the circumstances; they not only administer the wrong treatment, but also poison their patients' minds against orthodox medicine and thus prevent them from obtaining proper medical treatment which they may require."
– Conclusions The Anderson Report, Chapter 30, point 8
Kevin Victor Anderson, Q.C. Published the State of Victoria, Australia

Despite Hubbard's claim his poor eyesight, ulcers and arthritis were never resolved and he petitioned for and received disability payments from the Navy reserve which he continued to receive while making millions of dollars from the Dianetics book that claimed to cure all of these for himself and others.

In a California Judge Breckenridge ruled;
"In addition to violating and abusing its own members civil rights, the organization… has harassed and abused those person not in the church whom it perceives as enemies .The organization clearly schizophrenic and paranoid, and this bizarre combination seems to be a reflection of its founder L Ron Hubbard. The evidence portrays a man who's been virtually a pathological liar when it comes to his history, background and achievements.

In another court case Justice Latey wrote " when comparing the truth about Hubbard with the churches published claims and said to promote himself in the cult he made these amongst other false claims:

1- Hubbard's claim was: That he was a much decorated war hero.
The truth is: He was not.

2- Hubbard's claim :That he was awarded the Purple Heart a gallantry decoration for those wounded in action
The truth is: He was not.

3-Hubbard's claim: That he was crippled and blinded in the war and cured himself with Dianetic technique.
The truth is: He was not crippled and he was not blinded.

Hubbard claims " That he was a graduate of George Washington University an atomic physicist.

The truth is: He completed only one year of college and failed the one course on nuclear physics he enrolled in.

Mr. Hubbard is a charlatan or worse. Scientology is both immoral and socially obnoxious…In my judgment it is corrupt sinister and dangerous. It is corrupt because it is based on lies and deceit and has as its real objective money and power."

Kenneth Robinson a past British Minister of Health has stated that: "The government is satisified…that Scientology is socially harmful. It alienates members of families from each other and attributes squalid and disgraceful motives to all who oppose it; it's authoritarian principles and practice. Are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers: above all,its methods can be a serious danger to the health of those who submit to them.

I think you have more than enough information here to rescind your city's proclamation. I am more than happy to discuss this further with you should you have any questions.I have LOTS more disturbing information that I am sure will help you make this decision to rescind

I have also sent this to the editors of your cities your main newspapers as they to might want to rescind any positive story they had run when you gave Dianetics this original proclamation .

Thank you for your consideration of this matter,

Brian J Sheen

5 Takeaways From DC Circ.'s Net Neutrality Ruling

The D.C. Circuit's net neutrality decision Tuesday caught many practitioners off guard with its sweeping endorsement of the Federal Communications Commission's altered internet rules and has ushered in a new era of FCC regulatory authority. Here, Law360 highlights five things you should know about the decision.

EPA Enviro Justice Goals May Affect Future Regs, Settlements

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's new technical guidance on how its analysts should incorporate environmental justice principles into their work shows how serious the agency is about applying those principles to its rulemaking and enforcement efforts and could mean new requirements for businesses covered by future EPA rules or settlements, experts said.

New Pipeline Safety Bill Turns Up Heat On PHMSA

The U.S. Pipeline and Hazardous Materials Safety Administration reauthorization bill that President Barack Obama is expected to sign into law soon heaps more significant safety mandates on the agency's crowded regulatory plate, which could further slow its already sluggish and much-maligned rulemaking pace, experts say.

IEX Wins Nod For Stock Exchange With 'Speed Bump'

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission gave the go-ahead to IEX Group's plan for a new stock exchange that comes with a built-in "speed bump" to check high-speed traders, despite protests from those traders that the move would interrupt trades marketwide.

Hong Kong Exchange To Overhaul IPO Listing Process

Hong Kong's stock exchange and securities watchdog proposed the creation of two new oversight committees Friday, saying that the new committees would make handling listing policy and initial public offering matters easier and foster new cooperation between the two bodies.

China Securities Watchdog Tightens Backdoor Listing Rules

China's securities regulator said Friday that it will take steps to curb speculation and more strictly police "backdoor listings" in a move that comes as the country looks to shore up its capital markets and prevent a repeat of the market volatility that rocked investors' confidence last year.

Tilton Says SEC Can't Reopen In-House Suit Before Mandate

Private equity magnate Lynn Tilton bashed the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's request to immediately revive its $200 million in-house case against her, telling the Second Circuit that she still has time to seek review of the appellate court's decision allowing the administrative case to proceed.

A Glimmer Of Hope In DCAA's FY 2015 Report To Congress

Fiscal year 2015 was a productive year for the Defense Contract Audit Agency. Compared to FY 2014 figures, the statistics show that the DCAA is making progress in clearing its audit backlog, but it is difficult to see how the DCAA can sustain this momentum, especially in connection with the closure of incurred cost audits — its primary mandate, say Dave Nadler and David Yang of Blank Rome LLP.

White House Privacy Rules For Health Initiative Lack Specifics

The guidance offered in the data security framework for the White House's Precision Medicine Initiative remains too broad to offer much practical utility for different health care organizations with different needs. Although "wiggle room" is important in order for participants to adapt, they are likely to be frustrated by the lack of concrete rules, say attorneys at King & Spalding LLP.

In Congress: Brexit, Puerto Rico, 2nd Amendment Showdown

Appropriations continue to dominate floor activity in both the House and Senate this week, but questions over the future of the fiscal year 2017 appropriations process will shift to the Senate, where Democrats have forced votes on firearms issues following the Orlando nightclub massacre, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Kan. Stock Promoter Says 10th Circ. Order Blocks SEC Case

A stock promoter filed a lawsuit in Kansas federal court on Tuesday seeking to halt a U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission administrative proceeding against him, saying the judge overseeing his case has already been deemed to violate the U.S. Constitution by the Tenth Circuit.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Virginia's Uranium Mining Ban Upheld By Fourth Circuit

The Fourth Circuit on Friday upheld a lower court's dismissal of a uranium company's lawsuit seeking to overturn a Virginia law banning uranium mining, deciding that there is nothing in the federal Atomic Energy Act that preempts the state from establishing such a moratorium.

GOP Reps Ask EPA To Extend Mining Rule Comment Period

A trio of Republican committee chairmen in the House asked the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on Friday to extend the comment period on a proposed rule that would require participants in the hardrock mining industry to show they can cover the costs of environmental hazards stemming from their operations.

Timber Co. Fights Obama Expansion Of Oregon Monument

A timber company on Friday challenged former President Barack Obama's proclamation that expanded the Cascade-Siskiyou National Monument, arguing in Oregon federal court that the protectionist move conflicted with a congressional decision mandating that some of the land be used for logging.

EPA Can't Second-Guess Texas Ozone Plan, 5th Circ. Told

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency wrongly rejected Texas' plans to address cross-state emissions in meeting 2008 national ozone standards and trampled over the Lone Star State's authority under the Clean Air Act in imposing a federal substitute, Texas officials told the Fifth Circuit on Friday.

AT&T Urges FCC To Nix 'Cadillac' Broadband Expansion Goals

The Federal Communications Commission should seek to fund broadband expansion in as many geographic areas as possible rather than prioritizing high speeds, AT&T said Tuesday, or else consumers in harder-to-reach areas will get left behind.

Group Blasts Industry Move Against FCC Transparency Rules

Broadband providers are inappropriately seeking to evade stepped-up transparency rules under an exemption meant for small providers, an open internet advocacy organization warned the Federal Communications Commission in a filing made public Friday, saying that their request for broad relief for all providers would effectively kill the rules.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

2-For-1 Executive Order Leaves OMB To Work Out Details

While President Donald Trump’s recent executive order reducing regulations may seem appealing in its simplicity, the White House has provided agencies with little guidance on its implementation, instructing them to call the Office of Management and Budget with questions. Yet the OMB's ability to provide answers will be impaired by a lack of clear legal standards, say Laurence Platt and Joy Tsai of Mayer Brown LLP.

A Look At DOJ's New Guidance On Compliance Programs

New guidance from the U.S. Department of Justice's Fraud Section puts chief compliance officers on notice about how the adequacy of their companies’ compliance programs is evaluated by prosecutors, say attorneys with Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP.

How The GDPR Will Impact Life Sciences And Health Care

The European Union's General Data Protection Regulation will considerably increase the sanctions and penalties that can be imposed on organizations that breach its requirements. The implications for organizations operating in the life sciences and health care sectors are likely to be particularly far-reaching, say attorneys with Ropes & Gray LLP.

Legal Pot Industry Bugged By Lack Of Pesticide Guidance

Marijuana cultivation suffers from the same pest and disease pressure as any large commercial greenhouse operation. However, the circumstance unique to this setting is that any use of a pesticide in the cultivation of marijuana is a violation of federal law, says Telisport Putsavage of Putsavage PLLC.

The Quadrennial Energy Review And Grid Security

The most recent installment of the U.S. Department of Energy’s Quadrennial Energy Review includes a number of recommendations for physical and cybersecurity protection of the nation's power infrastructure. Although the report recommends developing and implementing "necessary" security measures, it provides limited details in some areas, and does not identify revenue sources for some initiatives, say attorneys from Husch Blackwell LLP.

Blazing A Trail For More Local Taxes By Ballot Initiative

The California Supreme Court recently held that local taxes imposed via initiative are subject to less stringent requirements than taxes imposed by local governments. But in granting great deference to California's initiative process, the court gave too little regard to Proposition 218, requiring local taxes be approved by a majority of voters, say Eric Coffill and Robert Merten III of Eversheds Sutherland LLP. OCC Takes The Lead In Establishing Deregulatory Agenda

Under acting Comptroller Keith A. Noreika, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency has staked out a position as the first of the federal banking agencies to take substantial steps to implement a new financial deregulatory agenda. However, agency turf battles could begin to slow the pace, say V. Gerard Comizio and Nathan Brownback of Fried Frank Harris Shriver & Jacobson LLP. Read more »

Dealing With Difficult Lawyers

Some lawyers tend to be overly aggressive, regarding law practice as a zero-sum game in which there are only winners and losers. The best response is to act professionally — separating the matter at hand from the personalities. But it is also important to show resolve and not be vulnerable to intimidation, says Alan Hoffman of Husch Blackwell LLP. Read more »

COMEY TO TESTIFY TOMORROW ABOUT TRUMP-RUSSIA INVESTIGATION

Obstruction of Justice is No Small Matter and Comey is No Small Witness

Elizabeth Goitein | TIME

Tomorrow's hearing probably won't provide many clues, since Comey wouldn't be the right person to ask about conflicts of interest that fall short of criminal activity. Nonetheless, we'd do well to remember that there are issues at stake in the Russia-Trump investigation that are far less salacious, but every bit as serious.

Identify Your Hospice's Risk Areas and Take Action to Strengthen Compliance

One of the most important compliance blueprints for hospices and other healthcare organizations every year, the OIG work plan lays out the audits, evaluations and other projects for the Centers for Medìcare & Medìcaid Services (CMS) that the HHS Office of Inspector General plans to conduct in the year ahead.

If you understand the OIG's work plan, you will know where to focus your attention when it comes to fraud and investigative activities of the federal government, and you can nìp problems in the bud and avoid expensive and time-consuming audits. The OIG has been active in the hospice area in the past, but do you understand all the activities planned for 2018?

Join us for this informative session with expert speaker Susan Balfour, to discuss what to expect in hospice enforcement actions for 2018, based on the OIG work plan for 2018 and what we witnessed in 2017. This is the key for planning your 2018 compliance activities.

You will learn how to use a risk assessment prioritization tool to assess your internal and external environment and create an action plan that fits your hospice. You will also be able to review a summary table of OIG activities in one easy-to-use summary document

Why You Should Attend

With this session, you will be able to identify your hospice's risk areas and take action to strengthen compliance in those areas. You will gain insights on how to plan agèncy-specific audits and monitoring and how to effectively deploy scare resources. Read more

Session Highlights

- Analysis of the OIG FY2018 work plan hospice-related activities
- Next steps with the Hospice Quality Reporting Program
- How to conduct an agèncy-specific risk assessment
- Medìcare Part D and hospice: how things are going and what may come next?

- Eligibility and higher levels of care: more focus coming?
- Benefit leakage: how are we doing in this area?
- Q&A Session

Axing Deadwood Tax Regs Of Little Use To Businesses

The Trump administration's deregulatory agenda may be marginally helped by the U.S. Department of the Treasury's latest proposal to get rid of nearly 300 obsolete tax regulations, but Treasury's exercise is more likely intended to help the government's public image than have any real impact on businesses. Contesting FERC's Right To Impose Retroactive Surcharges

In Verso Corp. v. Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the commission is arguing that it has broad authority to make regional transmission organizations impose surcharges on customers where necessary to pay refunds ordered under Section 206 of the Federal Power Act. The D.C. Circuit's decision in this dispute will have significant implications for FERC's authority going forward, say attorneys with Bracewell LLP. Read more »

Drawing A Road Map For Nationwide Health Info Sharing

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services recently released its draft Trusted Exchange Framework, setting forth a guide for a public-private partnership designed to promote interoperability among health information networks. 4 Takeaways As ACA Repeal Debate Kicks Off Republican efforts to repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act took center stage Wednesday on Capitol Hill as key committees started debate on controversial new legislation.

Analysis

Odds Stacked Against House Bills To Kill Bank Class Actions

Legislation currently working its way through the U.S. House of Representatives has the potential to eliminate class actions against banks and other financial firms by making it harder to get past procedural hurdles, experts say, but it likely faces a tough road ahead, especially in the Senate.

Hawaii Gets OK To Challenge New Trump Immigration Ban

A Hawaii federal judge on Wednesday gave the go-ahead for the state to challenge President Donald Trump's executive order blocking the entry of citizens from six Muslim-majority countries, positioning a hearing on the constitutionality of the newly revised immigration ban for next week.

House Passes $578B Defense Spending Bill

The House of Representatives on Wednesday again passed the $577.9 billion funding bill for the U.S. Department of Defense, as the body works toward funding the government for a fiscal year that is almost 6 months old.

Analysis

Exposed CIA Tactics Open Doors For Non-Gov't Hackers

In the wake of Wikileaks' exposure Tuesday of the Central Intelligence Agency's sophisticated spying methods, privacy and data security attorneys say companies and individuals are now in a race to maintain what little protection they have against hackers that may soon hold a detailed playbook thanks to the jaw-dropping revelations.

Gorsuch Could Be Headache For 'Administrative State'

If Judge Neil Gorsuch is confirmed to the U.S. Supreme Court, he will try to jettison the wide deference courts currently pay to federal regulators such as the Environmental Protection Agency and other denizens of the "administrative state," a prominent Republican lawyer said Tuesday at a conservative Washington, D.C., think tank, citing a recent Gorsuch opinion attacking the so-called Chevron doctrine.

Analysis

Ex-NJ AG Spared Prison Based On Reputation, Attys Say

A now-infamous United Airlines Inc. bribery scheme may have tarnished the legacy of onetime New Jersey Attorney General and former Port Authority Chairman David Samson, but his long career in government and the private sector still carried enough weight to help him avoid prison, attorneys say.

DOT Report Over Truckers' Rest Regs 'Rigged,' Union Says

The general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters on Tuesday said that a U.S. Department of Transportation study claiming there were no benefits to the Obama administration regulations tightening commercial truckers' daily and weekly driving time limits was "rigged by the trucking industry."

EMPLOYMENT

4th Circ. Won't Rehear Fired County Atty's Free Speech Suit

The Fourth Circuit on Tuesday refused to revisit the February decision of an appeals panel that found no violation of constitutional free speech protections in the firing of a former assistant attorney for Fairfax County, Virginia, after her election to a city council seat.

Judge Blocks La. Exotic Dancer Age Limit Law For Now

A Louisiana federal judge on Wednesday halted a state law increasing the minimum age required to work as a nude dancer from 18 to 21, saying the law is too sweeping because the restrictions would also incorporate types of artistic expression clearly regarded as constitutional speech.

Ill. AG Asks Justices To Halt Worker Pay Amid Budget Crisis

Illinois' attorney general pushed forward with plans to stop paying state workers while there is no appropriation from the state, filing a petition of leave to appeal to the Illinois Supreme Court on Tuesday night after the attorney general's office failed to convince a county judge to halt pay last month.

CPA Group Backs New Push To Harmonize State Income Tax

The American Institute of CPAs on Wednesday threw its weight behind a renewed legislative push to streamline income tax payments for taxpayers who occasionally work outside their home states, calling a reintroduced bill that previously cleared the House of Representatives a balanced measure that would simplify tax compliance.

E-Books Ineligible For Lower VAT, European Court Says

The European Court of Justice ruled Tuesday that European Union members cannot apply lower value-added taxes to electronically submitted books, holding that only physically shared materials such as CDs are eligible for a reduced tax and that the disparate treatment is not discriminatory.

US Had Top Statutory Biz Tax From G20 Members: Report

A new report from the Congressional Budget Office released Wednesday shows that the U.S. had the highest statutory corporate tax rate among G20 countries in 2012, while it came in fourth for the highest effective rate on returns from marginal investment.

IMMIGRATION

Dems Move To Defund, Block New Immigration Ban

Several Senate Democrats on Tuesday undertook to thwart President Donald Trump's new immigration ban with a bill to withhold federal funding for his executive order's enforcement and to designate the ban illegal under the Immigration and Nationality Act.

House Judiciary Committee Calls For EB-5 Reforms

Members of the U.S. House Committee on the Judiciary expressed support during a hearing on Wednesday for efforts to increase the minimum investment needed to participate in the EB-5 immigrant investor program and for rescinding the ability of states to designate high unemployment areas for investment.

DOJ Balks At Hearings For Immigrant Kids In 9th Circ. Appeal

The federal government has urged the Ninth Circuit to reverse a district court decision ordering it to provide bond hearings for unaccompanied immigrant children detained by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, saying that only HHS, not immigration judges, can make decisions about their custody.

NATIVE AMERICAN

Ex-DOI Head Salazar Questions Conn. Tribal Casino Plans

Former Interior Secretary Ken Salazar sent a letter on behalf of MGM Resorts International to Connecticut Gov. Dannel Malloy on Tuesday, saying that a proposed law to allow a company co-owned by the tribes behind the Foxwoods and Mohegan Sun casinos to operate a third casino could cost the state its share of those facilities' slot machine revenues.

Sen. Flake Files Resolution To Nix FCC's Privacy Rules

U.S. Sen. Jeff Flake, R-Ariz., on Tuesday introduced a resolution that would roll back the Federal Communications Commission’s new broadband privacy rules under the Congressional Review Act, a move that appears to follow through on his pledge from last month to take action against the measures.

FCC Relaxes Rules For Rebroadcasting AM Stations

The Federal Communications Commission has updated the allowable location of an FM translator station for rebroadcasting the signal of an AM broadcast station, according to a final rule posted online Wednesday.

ACLU, Public Knowledge Mount Net Neutrality Defense

Public interest, civil rights and other advocacy groups including the ACLU and Public Knowledge on Tuesday urged Congress and the Federal Communications Commission against undoing 2015 net neutrality rules, saying investment in networks and innovation have continued unabated.

Senate Dems Push FCC’s Pai To Safeguard E-Rate Program

A dozen Senate Democrats led by Sen. Richard Blumenthal, D-Conn., and Ed Markey, D-Mass., asked Federal Communications Commission Chairman Ajit Pai on Tuesday to safeguard the E-rate program that connects schools and libraries to broadband after he retracted a staff report on progress in updating it.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Beware Unintended Consequences Of Class Action Reform

The U.S. House of Representatives currently has before it a bill — H.R. 985 — intended to reduce abusive class action and mass tort practices that undermine the integrity of the legal system. Class action litigation does need reform, but some features of this legislation could perpetuate existing problems and create new ones, say Anthony Anscombe and Mary Beth Buckley of Sedgwick LLP.

Assessing Likelihood Of Survival For SEC Pay Ratio Rule

Preliminary steps taken thus far by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission with respect to its final pay ratio rule may be seen as a setup for later action that could scale back or even totally scuttle a number of major policy initiatives that had been undertaken by the Obama administration, say Andrew Oringer and Aryeh Zuber of Dechert LLP.

Courts Should Act Broadly In Favor Of Claim Assignability

The Supreme Courts of Nebraska and New Jersey have recently joined the majority of U.S. jurisdictions in holding that the proper balancing of public policy concerns weighs against enforcement of nonassignment clauses, but these two decisions also reveal a schism in the majority position that should be addressed, say Leonard Powell and Brian Scarbrough of Jenner & Block LLP.

ADA Compliance For Financial Cos. In The Crosshairs

Through its enforcement actions, the Justice Department has clearly taken the position that Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act covers access to websites, online tools and mobile apps for public accommodations. Recent demand letter tactics pose an additional ADA enforcement method that carries increased regulatory, enforcement and litigation risks for financial institutions, say attorneys with Buckley Sandler LLP.

Eliminating The Accredited Investor Concept Is Problematic

While Michael Piwowar, acting chairman of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, may view defining accredited investor as "a line-drawing exercise fraught with peril," eliminating the line may be even more perilous, say attorneys with Orrick Herrington & Sutcliffe LLP.

Webinar: EMV Rollout Presents Unique Opportunities for Banks - Register Now >

A 60-minute webinar covers the impact of EMV rollout this year, how banks can prepare for the possible outcomes, and how they can engage with customers about the change.

The rollout of EMV (smart) cards and terminals in 2015 will have a significant impact on reducing card-present fraud. It will likely result in a surge in card-not-present and other types of fraud as criminals shift to easier targets. The smart-card rollout presents banks with a unique opportunity to engage with retail and business customers. Banks need to be prepared not only to explain what the new cards are and do, but discuss the possible outcomes, and how the bank can assist.

A 60-minute interactive webinar explores the impact of EMV rollout and how banks can:

• be prepared for the possible outcomes

• reinforce customers' trust

• strengthen ties with merchant customer

EXPERT ANALYSIS

OPINION: Texas Must Adhere To The 8th Amendment

When Moore v. Texas is argued on Nov. 29, the U.S. Supreme Court will have an important opportunity to reject an unscientific state-law standard that allows the wrongful and unconstitutional execution of persons with intellectual disability, according to Mark Earley, former attorney general of Virginia, and Mark White, the 43rd governor of Texas.

Make College Great Again: Higher Education In The Trump Era

With the election of Donald Trump, colleges and universities should prepare for a very different U.S. Department of Education. And not just for-profit schools stand to benefit. Let's look to the priorities of the GOP in Congress to see what may be in store, say Kenneth Salomon and Christopher Murray of Thompson Coburn LLP.

What Trump's Election Means For The ACA

President-elect Donald Trump campaigned on an unspecified promise to “repeal and replace the Affordable Care Act,” but its future will not be dictated by the new White House team. Rather, it will be the result of a process factoring in the policy preferences and relative political power of Republicans and Democrats in Congress, the Trump administration, and health care stakeholders, says Philo Hall of Epstein Becker & Green PC.

FDA Draft Sheds Light On Software As A Medical Device

Companies that develop software for medical uses should be aware that the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has issued draft guidance classifying the endless variety of software as a medical device, and imposing risk-based criteria for evaluating the safety and effectiveness of such software. But a lack of detail on certain issues may be confusing for manufacturers, say Barry Boise, Sharon Klein and Katrina Long of Pepper Hamilton LLP.

Cybersecurity Forecast: Trump's 'Warfare Of The Future' Plans

During the campaign, President-elect Donald Trump did not extensively outline a cybersecurity strategy, but we can gain some insight into his agenda from information provided on his website and from his partnerships with both political and nonpolitical figures, says Meaghan Pedati of McGuireWoods LLP.

Will FCC Privacy Rules Create Challenges For ISPs?

The Federal Communications Commission's new rules limit internet service providers' usage of consumer data, which will impact their profits and pressure them to increase fees for users. However, the incoming Republican administration may ignore or even undo these rules, says John F. Stephens of Sedgwick LLP.

A Primer On The Presidential Appointee Vetting Process

With the election over, the process of selecting individuals to fill the next administration’s key appointed positions is quickly shifting into high gear. For those who are called to serve in such positions, the process entails extensive vetting of professional credentials and a host of personal background check issues, say attorneys with Covington & Burling LLP.

Subject: Out of Network Providers: Maximize recovery against health plans and generate more revenue

Good morning,

Patients are increasingly seeking out-of-network (OON) services and this trend is expected to continue. As consumer demand drives out of network activity, ínsurance companies are coming up with OON benefits integrated in their policies.

Since OON reimbursement tends to be higher than in-network reimbursement, payers use different strategies to discourage it, including bill reduction tactics, limits on benefits policies and third-párty rental agreements that lower reimbursement. Out-of-network represents the last great opportunity for many providers to increase their reimbursement. But remember, what has worked for you in the past is no longer effective in recovering revenue for your practice. The climate has changed and so must you!

Join expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., in this On-demand Webinar—"Everything the Out-of-Network Provider Needs to Know to Generate More Revenue for its Practice" tomorrow, Tue, Jun 28, 2016, to get deeper insights on effective revenue recovery techniques for your out-of-network services. Get strategies to maximize recovery against health plans while ensuring that your patients pay their fair share of charges. Thomas will analyze and discuss in detail the procedures necessary to be successful as an OON provider—starting with scheduling and involving the entire revenue cyclè.

Plus, you will receive instructions for revising patient forms, drafting appeals and balance bill letters, and steps necessary in holding the health plan accountable to the law.

You'll get 1 AAPC CEU from this event.

Session Highlights:

- Discussion on Out-of-Network claims
- Out-of-Network v. In-Network—the advantages and disadvantages
- The importance of patient disclosures and upfront estimates of charges
- ERISA: Friend or Foe?
- How to use ERISA law to appeal denied and under-reimbursed claims for employer-sponsored plans
- Are You Getting an Appropriate Response From the Health Plan?
- What is a recoupment and what to do when faced with one?
- How to get a full and fair review in case of a recoupment?
- Affordable Care Act (ACA) Emergency Services Mandate
- How to object to and defend health plan recoupments
- The importance of Charity Care Program/ Financial Hardship Policy
- Review of dispute resolution for emergency services
- Review of dispute resolution for non-emergency "Surprise Bills"
- Timing of Benefit Determination
- Manner and Content Rules
- Fee Forgiveness (ínsurance fraud)—how to avoid them
- Interplay with State Insurancè Laws
- Disclosure rules
- Dispute Resolution for Emergency and Non-Emergency Services
- Insights on Affordable Care Act and the emergency services mandate

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Medicare 2015-2016 CMS Billing Updates and Strategies

Good Morning,

This is the time of the year when CMS becomes much more aggressive towards auditing providers to ensure regulatory and reimbursement compliance. Plus it's time to staying on top of compliance requirements to get the reimbursement you deserve. Missing a single update can cost you, whether it's a fee schedule change, a new ABN form, or an added F2F documentation requirement. We want you to stay on top of CMS updates, while also treading cautiously to avoid compliance pitfalls and OIG target areas, which can be tough, especially when economic worries are already forcing healthcare settings across the country to slide into the red.

In addition to this, OIG's 2014 Report reveal expected recoveries of more than $4.9 billion consisting of nearly $834.7 million in audit receivables and about $4.1 billion in investigative receivables, which include about $1.1 billion in non-HHS investigative receivables from areas such as the States' shares of Medicaid restitution. which means you need to be extra careful to avoid billing errors and stay out of OIG hit list. And with Medicare fee schedule cuts threatening bottom lines, you need a comprehensive resource by your side to answer your reimbursement and documentation questions and to protect yourself from serious scrutiny and unpleasant payback requests.

This is where Medicare Compliance & Reimbursement Insider comes into play. This handbook will help you stay on top of CMS updates and at the same time make sure you get the reimbursement you deserve.

Here are some of the topics and updates we've covered in this special report:

- Understanding CMS 855 B
- to ensure compliant reimbursement from Medicare2015-2016 CMS Billing Updates and Strategies
- Tune In to Key Changes Listed in 2015 Medicare Physician Fee Schedule
- Collect Most Accurate Payments for Your Practice

Well, Mayor, I deleted my copy this morning! If anything, "Everyone is entitled to his/her opinion." Then perhaps your very important point. "Please remember, however, that this country was founded by immigrants."

Amazing my one-liner response justified this lengthy litany of his perspectives.
Two things (actually 3) since he's thinking himself king and thus is most judgmental:

1. "acknowledgement" should be acknowledgment
2. Hasn't he studied enough history to realize we (the historical "we") are all immigrants and probably most were church-mouse poor at one point?
3. who made him king?
4. Should we answer or not?

Mayor Goodman,
Thank you for your acknowledgement. Please read my summary of "Adios America" below.
Also, because some people are more influenced by feelings than facts, I thought you might be interested in my summary of this NYT book review, "Against Empathy: The Case for Rational Compassion" by Paul Bloom:
"Empathy, he argues, is a poor moral guide.... favouring the one over the many... empathy is untampered by reason, emanating from the murky bayou of the gut. He prefers a kind of rational compassion - a mixture of caring and detached cost-benefit analysis. ... To those who say empathy is essential to morality, he would reply that morality has many sources. Many 'wrongs' - like littering or cheating on your taxes - have no distinct victims to empathise with. Nor does it appear that the most empathetic people behave the most ethically. There have been hundreds of studies... the results are 'meh'. ... empathy is generally a bad tool to use for allocating resources. ... is part of the reason why governments and individuals care more about a little girl stuck in a well than about events that will affect millions. Consider parenting... almost all parents have a terrible time tolerating the discomfort of their children. Yet it's often essential (going to the dentist, doing homework, spending a night away from home). ...rationality in political domains often does seem to be in short supply."

"Adios, America!" by Ann Coulter. Excerpts below:

1. For forty years, the people have tried to tell politicians they want less immigration, but the politicians won't listen. Every single elite group in America is aligned against the public - the media, ethnic activists, big campaign donors, Wall Street, multimillionaire farmers, and liberal "churches." They all want mass immigration from the Third World to continue. Both political parties connive to grant illegal aliens citizenship and bring in millions more legally, and the media hide the evidence. ... How immigration is changing our country is a lot more important than most of the "news" we hear about endlessly. The media will pound away at Chris Christie's 'Bridge gate', apocryphal fraternity rapes, the Augusta National Golf Club's membership policies, 'white privilege... But getting the truth about immigration is nearly impossible. The media tell us: ... Immigrants are doing the jobs Americans just won't do: Americans are perfectly happy to do all manner of jobs - they just won't do them for $7.00 an hour. Unions used to care about that, but now they just want political power.... Amnesty will be Fantastic for the Economy: Unless we're talking about the Mexican economy, this is patently ridiculous. Adding another 30 million poor, unskilled, non-taxpaying, welfare-receiving people to America is good only for government workers and employers who refuse to mechanize their operations or pay Americans one dollar more. ... The problems stemming from unchecked immigration are all over the news. You'll just never be told they are problems of immigration - children living in poverty, childhood obesity, teen pregnancy, out-of-wedlock births, abysmal high school dropout rates, income inequality, 'homegrown' terrorists, massive Medicare frauds, internet crime, identity theft, prison overcrowding, the vast number of uninsured used to justify Obamacare, sex trafficking, the epidemic of child rape, the destruction of our national parks, drunk driving casualties, drug-resistant tuberculosis, measles and other viral outbreaks, bankrupt government pension, low reading and math scores and shorter 'Americans'. ... why is it a crisis that illegal aliens are 'living in the shadows'?... It's supposed to be uncomfortable to break the law. ... How did all those illegal aliens get into the shadows in the first place? They weren't kidnapped and dragged across the border... But 'living in the shadows' is evidently better than living in Guadalajara, otherwise, there's an easy solution. Democrats aren't big on amnestying other lawbreakers. they don't hysterically demand amnesty for accounting cheats or polluters - not even for "the children" of accounting cheats and polluters. Enron executives were hard workers. They loved their families and wanted the best for them, just I'm sure MS-13 gang members love their families.... When the bathtub is overflowing, the very first thing you do is: TURN OFF THE WATER. ... obviously, any amnesty functions as a magnet for more illegal aliens. Nothing shows the bad faith of amnesty advocates with more blinding clarity than their steadfast refusal to seal the border. Ordinary people see this and know they're being lied to. ... China built a thirteen-thousand mile wall several centuries before Christ, and it's still working. ... For whom is a 'world without borders' an ideal? People who don't much care for America, I gather. ... Congress has repeatedly voted to build a border fence. But somehow, the fence never gets built - and Congress does nothing. ... amnesty supporters tried a surprise argument: To stop illegals pouring across the border, congress had to pass amnesty. They were hoping to stun us into silence with the stupidity of their argument. ... The 1986 Simpson-Mazzoli Act was supposed to end illegal immigration forever: Give us amnesty one time, then: Never again. As with all laws that combine the bitter with the sweet, such as tax hikes and spending cuts, we got one and not the other. The amnesty came, but the border security never did. Illegal immigration sextupled. There have been a half dozen more amnesties since then... . "The moral thing to do" is usually defined as "following the law." ... To paraphrase what President Bush used to say about terrorists: The anti-amnesty side has to be perfect every time; the pro-amnesty side only has to win once. Then the country is finished. 2. ... shouldn't politicians be more concerned with what citizens think of them than what foreigners do? ... Wouldn't any sane immigration policy be based on the principle that we want to bring in only immigrants who will benefit the people already here? ... Try calling another country's embassy and asking to immigrate there. Consulate: What do you want? You: Well, I can't read or write, I have no skills, and I've got nine kids. Oh and by the way. If I can't make it in your country, would you mind cutting my family a check once a month? ... Our "family reunification" policies mean that being related to a recent immigrant from Pakistan trumps being a surgeon from Denmark. Our government does such a terrific job at choosing who gets to immigrate to America that 52 percent of legal immigrant households with children are on government assistance. In all, nearly 60 percent of immigrants - legal and illegal - are on government assistance, compared with 39 percent of native households. Why would any country voluntarily bring in people who have to be supported by the taxpayer? ... The immigrants get a taxpayer subsidy to work for the rich, and the rich get a break on the maid. This cozy deal is funded by the long-suffering middle class. The anti-American crowd used to dash off to fight with Communist insurgencies in Third World jungles. But the fun of being self-righteous was sometimes cut short when they ended up in prison.... Rather than hating America from abroad, today's radicals can hate it right here at home by bringing the Third World to America! ... Being openly hostile to America has become a part of ethnic pride. US Rep Luis Gutierrez calls on his own country (technically the USA) to "stop the deportation of our people . ... Gutierrez told Newsweek that he has "only one loyalty, and that's to the immigrant community."

Whose taxes will be raised to make up the shortfall? Not the people who don't pay any taxes at all. Employers don't care. They want the cheap labor NOW.... We're seeing exactly what Vladimir Lenin is supposed to have said about capitalists: 'They will sell us the rope with which to hang them.' ... Whey shouldn't employers be on the hook when their cheap labor becomes a public charge or commits a crime? ... An immigration law premised on the idea that America owes the rest of the world would be bad enough. But Third World immigration + massive welfare state + political correctness = The end of America. 4. America is not the natural state of the world. The natural state of the world is Darfur. The British Empire spread Anglo-Saxon culture around the globe - Protestant morals, individualism, and the rule of law. Most British colonies rejected those values. Only the ones populated by actual British people - America, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand - managed to hold on to them and, as a result, prospered. The empire's most successful experiment was the United States. Anyone who hesitates for a moment to recognize that some groups have it over other groups in producing free and prosperous nations has been brainwashed beyond reclamation.

5. America has already taken in more than one quarter of Mexico's entire population. ... Is that diverse enough yet? Why is it better that the ethnic population of our country be changed? ... Immigration of the past half century has been a homicide made to look like a suicide. ...a natural process? ... It's more like Americans are trying to stop an Army Corp of Engineers project that will flood the valley where they live in order to build a hydroelectric plant that will help one powerful corporation.

6. ... Until 1970, American immigrants did better than the natives - as any sane immigration policy would require. They made more money, bought more houses, and were more educated. By contrast, the post-1970 immigrants are far more likely to be unemployed and live in poverty that the native Americans. More that a third of the post-Kennedy act immigrants don't even have a high school diploma. ... In some bizarre notion of turn-about-is-fair-play, it is assumed that backward societies have the right to relocate to the countries of their former colonizers. I thought they hated those guys (the colonizers)? ... In just a few decades, Minnesota has gone from being approximately, 99 percent German, Dutch, Finnish, Danish, and Polish to 20 percent African immigrant, including at least one hundred thousand Somalis. And that's not counting the Somalis who have recently left the country to fight with al Queda and ISIS. One hundred thousand is just an estimate. We don't know precisely how many Somalis the federal government has brought in as "refugees" because the government won't tell us. ... Kate Towle, the parent leader of a high school group called "Students Together as Allies for Racial Trust" explained that diversity skills "have to be developed like math, history." Maybe it would be better for students to be learning math and history, rather than the important skill of getting along with Somalis. It doesn't seem to be working anyway. There are still violent ethnic brawls that send students to the hospital. What did we do to Somalis? ... absolutely nothing. But now these immigrants, who arrived yesterday, will get affirmative action over white Americans. ... Luckily, every Somali in Minnesota who has a job works for an ethnic grievance outfit - for example, the Somali Justice Advocacy Center, the Somali Resources Aid Associates, the African Development Center, and the Confederation of Somali Community in Minnesota. (And those are just some of the jobs being created by immigrants!). ... half of Somalis in Minnesota unemployed and 80 percent living at or below the poverty level... Recent mass murders committed by legal immigrants: The seven people murdered by Chechen immigrants Dzhokhar and Tamerlan Tsarnaev, who planted a bomb at the Boston Marathon, the four people fatally shot in a Carson City IHOP by... the Mexican-born Eduardo Sencion, the thirteen soldiers killed at Fort Hood by Major Nidal Malik Hasan, son of Palestinian immigrants, the thirteen people murdered by Vietnamese immigrant Jiverly Wong, at an American Civic Association in Binghamton, New York, the thirty-two people murdered at Virginia Tech by Seung-Hui Cho, a South Korean immigrant.... no one notices the immigrant crime wave because the media hide the evidence.

8. When did Americans get together and decide we want 30 percent of all immigrants to be from a single country and that country should be Mexico? If we're going to take almost all our immigrants from a single country, why not Denmark? There appears to have been only on Danish prisoner in New York State in decades - and, again, that was a Muslim. ...nearly 90 percent (of criminal aliens imprisoned in the states in 2009) were from one of eight countries: Mexico, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Jamaica, El Salvador, Honduras, and Guatemala. ... What other country on earth would be so stupid? We have studies showing Hispanics are underrepresented in Hollywood, at top colleges, in the federal government, and in the national media... You know where else Hispanics are underrepresented? In the US military. You'd never know it... but Hispanics are half as likely to enlist in the military as either whites or blacks. ... Hispanic males in the US are more than three times as likely to spend time in prison in their lifetimes than white males. ... The vast majority of all drugs in America - heroin, cocaine, marijuana, and increasingly, methamphetamine - are brought in from Mexico. Most of the heroin sold in the US is grown south of the border, and Mexican cartels transport nearly all of it. ... More than 40,000 Americans were killed from all illegal drug use in 2010, surpassing car accidents and shootings as a cause of death. ... Today, China is once again battling drug smuggling because like America, it also has a poor, corrupt nation with a massive humanitarian crisis on its border; Not Mexico, but North Korea. Guess what China did? It built a fence! Despite stern warnings from the New York Times, China put a thirteen-foot barbed wire fence on its border, patrolled by armed guards. And you know what, it's working! ... Is an American citizen more likely to be murdered by a Muslim terrorist or by a Mexican? According to CNN, 29 Americans have been killed in Islamic terrorist attacks in the US since 9/11. I don't know why they excluded 9/11, so by my count, it's 3,029. In fact, let's round it up to 4,000 to cover the last several decades. According to the GAO's extremely conservative figures, Mexicans alone - forget other immigrants - have murdered a minimum of 23,000 Americans in the last few decades. ... If this were happening in Israel, forget a fence - Netanyahu would be bombing Mexico. ... President Eisenhower put a general in charge of the INS, who proceeded to round up and deport illegals in an operation dubbed "Operation Wetback." HBO's Bill Maher would be saying of our southern neighbors: "Americans have 349 Nobel Prizes; Latin Americans have 16. That seems like kind of a big advantage for Team America." ... Far more Americans are murdered by Mexicans, per capita, than Israelis are murdered by Palestinians. 11. The three young girls kidnapped and held as sex slaves for more than a decade in a boarded-up house in Cleveland had been held by Ariel Castro. ... But then it turned out Castro wasn't the only Hispanic raping young girls - on his block. ... While investigating the Castro case, detectives happened upon Acevedo... he had raped and killed two of his neighbors...

Chandra Levy's killer turned out not to be Democratic Congressman Gary Condit, but Ingmar Guandique - an illegal alien from El Salvador, given temporary amnesty by President Bush. (Does that guy have any brothers? I'd love to see another one like him in the White House!). The one Central Park rapist that even liberals admit was guilty was Hispanic Matias Reyes. After the other attackers had finished with the victim, Reyes came across the joggers beaten and bloody body, and raped her himself.

12. ... environmentalists used to care about gridlock, overcrowding, loss of parkland, and exhaustion of natural resources. Not anymore. Today's environmentalists turn a blind eye as 25 million people tramp through delicate ecosystems, set fire to national parks, kill livestock, dump tons of soiled diapers and Pepsi bottles in the desert, and deface ancient Native American sites. Political correctness demands that no one notice immigrants' toll on the environment. ... Of the 77 human-caused fires on federal or tribal land in Arizona between 2006 and 2010 investigated by the GAO, a cause could be determined in 60 cases. Fully half of those were caused by illegal aliens. ...One of the reasons the GAO was able to review only 77 fires was that the BLM and the Forest Service couldn't spare any agents for investigations. They were too busy protecting 'firefighters and their equipment from illegal aliens.' Apparently, when illegals see border patrol agents, they try to distract them by throwing lighted matches in the brush to start fires. Not only do illegal immigrants intentionally set wildfires, but they violently attack firefighters trying to extinguish the blazes. Firies are allowed to rage, because fire crews are forced to wait for law enforcement protection. ... The Forest Service had once gamely suggested trying to identify 'the group most likely to start fires,' but once the evidence was in, they buried it. To blame illegal aliens would be playing the 'blame the perpetrator' game. ... Because of new border restrictions after 9/11 - I guess it was possible to tighten the borders! - our dear friends in Mexico moved their drug cartel operations directly into America's parks. ... 'These guys shoot people'... Armed illegal aliens were in control of our national parks, so government officials leapt to action by shutting down the parks. A majority of Organ Pipe Cactus National Monument was closed to US citizens for more than a decade because it was too dangerous.

... For a glimpse into America's future, consider how Mexicans treat their own environment. In Mexico's most famous national park, a ten-thousand-year-old evergreen forest designated by presidential decree as a biosphere reserve, illegal loggers chop down about seventy mature tress a day... While environmentalists from around the world send millions of dollars to Mexico preserve the forest... For decades, Mexican refuse ended up on San Diego's world-famous beaches by way of the Tijuana River. ... One solution would have been for Mexicans to stop throwing their garbage in the river. ... Instead, US taxpayers funded a sewage treatment plant on the border at a cost of $239.4 million. Mexico chipped in $17 million. ... Where are the environmentalists? For 50 years, they've been carrying on about overpopulation; promoting family planning, birth control... The Sierra Club began sounding the alarm over the country's expanding population in 1965 - the very year Teddy Kennedy's immigration act passed - and in 1978, adopted a resolution expressly asking Congress to 'conduct a thorough examination of US immigration laws.' For a while, the Club taked about almost nothing else. "It is obvious" the Club said two years later, "that the numbers of immigrants the US accepts affects our population size and growth rate," even more than 'the number of children per family.

Over the next three decades, America took in tens of millions of legal immigrants and illegal aliens alike. But suddenly, about ten years ago, the Sierra Cub realized to its embarrassment that importing multiple millions of polluting, fire-setting, littering immigrants is actually fantastic for the environment! The advantages of overpopulation dawned on the Sierra Club right after it received a $100 million donation from hedge fund billionaire David Gelbaum with the express stipulation that - as he told the LA Times - 'if they ever came out anti-immigration, they would never get a dollar from me.' It would be as if someone offered the Catholic Church $100 million to be pro-abortion. But the Sierra Club said: Sure! Did you bring the check? Obviously, there's no reason to listen to them on anything.

... Not only did the Sierra Club never again say another word against immigration, but, in 2004, it went the extra mile, denouncing three actuals environmentalists running for the Club's board, by claiming they were racists who opposed mass immigration. The three 'white supremacists' were Dick Lamm, the three-time Democratic governor of Colorado; Frank Morris, former head of the Black Congressional Caucus Foundation; and Cornell professor David Pimentel, who created the first ecology course at the university... America's premiere hate group, the Southern Poverty Law Center, jumped into the fray, with multimillionaire con man and SPLC head Morris Dees running for the Sierra Club board simply to smear the three real environmentalist candidates... But, evidently, what poor Southerners need most is a massive influx of foreign poor people competing for their jobs. ... In 2012, Sierra Club executive director Michael Brune announced that the Club officially supported mass immigration - amnesty, no borders, more legal immigration, the whole nine yards.

13. Normally, (Carlos) slim is the kind of businessman the (NY) Times - along with every other sentient human being - would find repugnant. Frequently listed as the richest man in the world, Slim acquired his fortune through a corrupt inside deal giving him a monopoly on telecommunications services in Mexico. But in order to make money from his monopoly, Slim needs lots of Mexicans living in the US, sending money to their relatives back in Oaxaca. Otherwise, Mexicans couldn't pay him - and they wouldn't have much need for phone service, either, other than to call in ransom demands. Back in 2004, before the Times became Slim's pimp - a Times article stated: "Clearly... the nation's southern border is under siege." But that was before Carlos Slim saved the Times from bankruptcy. Ten years later, with a border crisis even worse that in 2004, and Latin America pouring across the border, the Times indignantly demanded the Obama "go big" on immigration and give "millions of immigrants permission to stay". ...

Republicans are terrified of saying anything about immigration for fear of being called 'racist.' ... The fact that most immigrants are Hispanic provides excellent cover for the elite's monumental self-interest. Here's a tip for the GOP: Don't talk about the illegal aliens. Talk about Carlos Slim, Talk about rich Americans finding a solution to 'the servant problem.' Talk about one-hit wonder Mark Zuckerberg underpaying his computer programmers while 32 percent of American graduates in STEM fields can't get job and the rest haven't seen their salaries rise for more than a decade. Talk about how Bill Clinton couldn't find someone to be his attorney general because of the prevalence of illegal alien employees in households of the '1 percent'. Determined to appoint a woman attorney general, Clinton kept producing women with illegal alien nannies (Zoe Baird, Kimba Wood). ... The elites just can't grasp that most Americans raise their own kids, make their own beds, cook their own food, and drive their own cars. ... America will be Brazil, with a well-pampered, itty-bitty upper class, amid an ocean of poor people. ... It's a sweet deal the elites have: They get to have cheap nannies and lawn boys in the whitest towns in America - and feel morally superior at the same time!

14. The vast majority of all legal immigrants - two thirds- get in on "family reunification" policies each year. In other words, America has no say about the single largest category of immigrants... Entire villages from Pakistan are dumped on the country, based not on their expertise in nuclear engineering, but because everyone in the village is related to the first guy who got in. If they're not, in the strict sense, related, they'll lie. In 2008, the State Department suspended the family reunification part of the African refugee program because DNA testing showed that only 20 percent of 'family members' were actually related. We'll still take as many refugees from Africa, but they won't have to lie about being related anymore. ... The special agricultural amnesty of 1986 is a good example of how even the most reasonable-sounding immigration law will inevitably be turned into a pipeline for criminals, welfare cases, and terrorists. ... illegal alien farmworkers who could prove they had done seasonal farmwork for a total of ninety days between May 1, 1985 and May 1, 1986, would be granted temporary legal status. what could go wrong? In the first three years of the program, 888,637 agricultural amnesty applications were identified as fraudulent - but only 60,637 of those were denied. Overwhelmed with amnesty applications under just this one provision, the INS found it to be a big time-saver to simply ignore fraud. ... Mohammed Salameh, another terrorist convicted in the 1993 World Trade Center bombing, was also in the US because of Schumer's special agricultural worker amnesty. The unskilled 19-year-old first came to the US on a tourist visa because, as the US consulate later explained, someone in the office "took a chance" on Mohammed. Mohammed not only had never worked on a farm, but he was not even in the country until 1988, two years after the special amnesty became law, though it was explicitly limited to those who had worked on farms in the US in the year before May 1, 1986. By the most basic definition of the law, Mohammed was not eligible, but he was allowed to stay in the US and obtain a work visa - while the INS processed his petition. Moving with the lightning speed of a government agency, the INS rejected his petition for amnesty as a farm worker three years later. Then, Mohammed applied for a general amnesty, claiming he had been living continuously in the US from 1980 to 1986. Actually, he was a teenager in Jordan then, but again, Mohammed was allowed to stay while the INS considered his request. As it considering, Mohammed bombed the World Trade Center.

How about all those brainy, high-tech H-!B immigrants that Senator Orrin Hatch keeps telling us about? ... the cheap-labor advocacy group Partnership for a New American Economy excitedly tweeted that two - yes two - of the five LindedIn founders were "born in Europe"!... Here's my counter tweet: 98.7% fo the founders of important Silicon Valley companies were born in America! 99 percent are white men! ... Professor Norman Matloff: 'The vast majority of H-1B's, including those hired from US universities, are ordinary people doing ordinary work, not the best and the brightest. On the contrary, the average quality of the H-1Bs is lower that theat of the Americans. ... The main advantage of foreign labor over native workers, Matloff explains, is aht H-1B workers are indentured servants: They can't quit without risking deportation. so American employers get to pay less for standard computer programming work. ... They want cheap people. Mass-immigration advocates push ethnic stereotypes about high-IQ immigrants, but then go crazy whenever anyone suggests we actually bring in high-IQ immigrants. ... The average Indian IQ is staggeringly low: 82. That's about the same as the average IQ in Afghanistan - 84; Panama - 84; Dominican Republic - 82; Paraguay - 84; Yemen - 85; and Tonga - 86. We take more immigrants from India than from Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, Greece, Iceland, Ireland, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Sweden, Switzerland, Spain, and the Czech Republic put together. Why are we discriminating...? The answer is: Because those immigrants would tend to fill the kinds of jobs rich people have.

15. The only thing that stands between America and oblivion is a total immigration moratorium. ... It's evident that the government can't be trusted to use three brain cells in admitting immigrants, so its discretion has to be completely revoked. No matter how clearly laws are written, government bureaucrats connive to confer citizenship on people that a majority of Americans would not want to let in as tourists, much less as our fellow citizens. ... No other fix will work. Congress could just insist that immigrants pay taxes, learn English, not collect welfare, and have good moral character, except the problem is: It already has. All those laws were swept away by INS officials, judges, and Democratic administrations. Doing it again won't produce a different result. ... Even if we could trust the government on immigration - and we can't - there are the legions of immigration lawyers, lobbyists, nonprofits, and general miscreants whose single-minded mission is to turn America into the Third World hellhole of liberal fantasies. ... The billion-dollar immigration industry has turned every single aspect of immigration law into an engine of fraud. The family reunifications are frauds, the 'farmworkers' are frauds, the high-tech visas are frauds - and the asylum and refugee cases are monumental frauds. ... the only result of our asylum policies is that we get good liars. Taxpayers subsidize sleazy immigration activists who coach immigrants to lie to immigration officials. Document mills produce phony passports, school records, and medical reports. ... immigration judges approve 92 percent of all "credible fear" asylum applications.

16. ... if Romney had won 71 percent of the Hispanic vote in 2012, instead of 27 percent, he still would have lost. On the other hand, had he won just 4 percent more of the white vote, he would have won.

17. America's suicidal immigration policies are the single biggest threat facing the nation. What happens with immigration will determine whether America continues to exist or becomes a Third World republic...

Mayor Goodman,
I was disappointed to watch you on your KCLV show Friday evening supporting illegal aliens. Worse yet was the inclusion of two guests, both of who were also advocates of illegal aliens. Wouldn't it have been fair to host an equal amount of speakers in opposition? Is the care and feeding of illegal aliens a part of the city charter? I doubt it. We need the illegal immigrants to return to their native countries. Your positions lure more of them here and encourage them to stay. Why don't you start looking out for US citizens first? Don't you realize that the reason people from third world countries sneak into the US is ultimately because they can't stand being around other third world people. Plenty of skilled people from developed countries are waiting patiently for admission to the US. Is it fair to reward those whose very first act into this county is illegal? You can disguise the problem by saying they are fleeing high crime rates, violence, rotten economy... but this deception hides the real reason. Why would you want to turn us into a third world country? If you feel so concerned about them, there is an easy solution: move to a third world country to help them where they are.

Please read:

The Immigration Solution, by MacDonald, Hansen & Malanga

While the cheapness of the immigrants' labor may benefit a very few industries and provide some upper and le-class families with cut-rate gardeners and nannies, it adds very little to our national standard of living. On the other side of the ledger, the costs these immigrants impose on US taxpayers for health care, schooling, welfare, and (all too often) incarceration far outweigh the benefits they offer. In California, the National Academy of Sciences found immigrant families cost each native-born household an additional $1,200 in taxes per year. Although a net loss for the US, such workers are an unalloyed boon for Mexico. Their ability to find work north of the border is an essential safety valve for Mexico's failed economy and stubbornly unreformed political culture, and the remittances these workers send home are indispensable to Mexico, constituting its second largest source of hard currency. No wonder the Mexican government – especially through its consuls in the US – vigorously fosters the illegal migration of its nationals into its northern neighbor. … But those earlier huddled masses of immigrants yearning to breathe free, however tired and poor they may have looked, were in fact on average more skilled than the native-born population of a century ago. In addition, the less-developed economy of that era also had a vastly greater need for immigrants without skills than does today's knowledge economy. More important, the US immigration system of that period was a machine for selecting the most enterprising and energetic migrants. With no welfare system whatever, those who came were those who thought they could make use of the opportunity and freedom America offered by their own efforts. Grateful for the chance, these newcomers were only too glad to assimilate to their new land as best they could, and their children did so wholeheartedly. Not so today. The first child born in America to an immigrant entitles his or her family to child-only welfare payments – a hefty-looking sum to a recent migrants from a peasant village. … Deprived of work, illegals would return home, just as 60 percent of immigrants from the first great migration eventually left these shores when they couldn't make it here. ...our new policy should select newcomers not because they are someone's brother or adult child or elderly parents, or because they successfully sneaked into the country some years ago, but because they have some special skill... that will enrich our nation. … Thousands arrive illegally from Mexico into California each year... They come in such numbers because a tacit alliance of Right and Left has created an open-borders policy, aimed at keeping wage labor cheap and social problems ever fresh, so that the ministrations of Chicano studies professors, La Raza activists, and all the other self-appointed defenders of group causes will never be unneeded. … nearly one quarter of California's inmates are aliens from Mexico. The pro-labor left found that the industrious new arrivals whom it championed eroded the wages of its own domestic low wage constituencies - the Labor Department attributes 50 percent of real-wage declines to the influx of cheap immigrant labor. … when I was ten, in 1963, all suburbanites mowed their own lawns – many with push mowers. Now almost everyone hires the job out. Nannies for toddlers and grannies, unheard of then, are now ubiquitous... Rural schools used to begin in mid-September to ensure that we natives could pick grapes to earn our school clothes and shoes. Today not a single student in California would do such hot, dirty work, now considered demeaning. … So we allow illegal aliens to obtain California driver's licenses – the foundation for all other means of legal identification – and to pay reduced in-state tuition at the University of California, thereby providing several thousand dollars in discounts not available to American citizens from out of state. Whether you break the law to reach California or immigrate legally, it makes little difference in how you drive, send your kids to college, or draw on the public services of the state. … I often suggest to teachers who tell aliens that our culture is racist, exploitative, and sexist that they should live in Mexico themselves to fathom why millions are dying to obtain what they so casually dismiss.

… America does not have a vast labor shortage that requires waves of low wage immigrants to alleviate; in fact, unemployment among native-born unskilled workers in high – consistently about double the nations' overall unemployment rate. … an unusual coalition of business groups, unions, civil rights activists, and church leaders thwarted the call for restrictions with passage of the inaptly names 1986 Immigration Reform and Control Act, which legalized some 2.7 million unauthorized aliens already here, supposedly in exchange for tougher penalties and controls against employers who hired illegals. The law proved no deterrent, however, because supporters, in subsequent legislation and court cases argued on civil rights grounds, weakened the employer sanctions. Meanwhile more illegals flooded here in the hope of future amnesties from Congress, while the newly legalized sneaked their wives and children into the country rather than have them wait for family-preference visas. The flow of illegals into the country rose to between 300,000 and 500,000 per year in the 1990's, so that a decade after the legislation that had supposedly solved the undocumented alien problem by reclassifying them as legal, the number of illegals living in the US was back up to about 5 million. … In many American industries, waves of low-wage workers have also retarded investments that might lead to modernization and efficiency. Farming, which employs a million immigrant laborers in California alone, is the prime case in point. Faced with a labor shortage in the early 1960's, when President Kennedy ended a 22-year-old guest-worker program that allowed 45,000 Mexican farm hands to cross over the border and harvest 2.2 million tons of California tomatoes for processed foods, farmers complained but swiftly automated, adopting a mechanical tomato-picking technology created more than a decade earlier. Today, just 5,000 better-paid workers – one-ninth the original workforce – harvest 12 million tons of tomatoes using the machines. The savings prompted by low-wage migrants may even be minimal in crops not easily mechanized. … If the benefits of the current generation of migrants are small, the costs are large and growing because of America's vast range of social programs and the wide advocacy network that strives to hook low-earning legal and illegal immigrants into these programs. A 1998 Nationals Academy of Sciences study found that more than 30 percent of California's foreign-born were on Medicaid... compared with 14 percent of native –born households. The foreign-born were more than twice as likely as the native-born to be on welfare, and their children were nearly five times as likely to be in means-tested government lunch programs. Native-born households pay for much of this, the study found, because they earn more and pay higher taxes – and are more likely to comply with tax laws. Recent immigrants, by comparison, have much lower levels of income and tax compliance.

... This call for 'human rights' is a clever one, for it hides its radical status in a rhetorical safe harbor. What, exactly, are the 'human rights' that the US is denying illegal aliens? They have unfettered access to free medical care, free education, welfare for their children, free representation in court when they commit crimes, every due process protection during criminal prosecution that the Constitution guarantees citizens and legal immigrants, the shelter of labor laws, and the miracles of modern industrial society like clean water, the control of infectious diseases (including the ones they bring with them), and plumbing. The only putative 'right' they lack - and that, of course, is the 'human right' to which they and their ambassadors refer - is the right to legal status regardless of illegal entry. ....

No one will take the assurance that 'this time we mean business' seriously. If the executive branch is not willing to enforce the current law against violators, a new set of laws will not suddenly strengthen its resolve... border defenses have been fortified over the years, but the drill has been: if you can get past the border patrol, you are home free. The most important action the government could take to end illegal immigration would be to penalize employers that unlawfully hire illegal aliens... After 9/11, the department of Homeland Security deported fifteen hundred illegal Pakistanis. An additional fifteen thousand then left voluntarily, reports Jessica Vaughan of the Center for Immigration Studies. There is no reason to think this enforcement-through-attrition strategy won't work as well for Hispanic illegals.

It would be useful for open-borders optimists to spend some time in the Los Angeles Unified School District, which is 73 percent Hispanic, and where just 40 percent of Hispanic students graduate. (Nationwide, 53 percent of Hispanics graduate from high school...) Of those Hispanic students who do graduate, just 22 percent have completed the course work necessary for admission to a four-year state college - which means that of all Hispanic students who enter in ninth grade, fewer than 15 percent will graduate ready for college. Immigrant advocates have fiercely opposed in court a long-deferred California high school exit exam, which would require students to answer just over 50 percent of questions testing eight-grade-level math and ninth-grade-level English. The California Research Bureau predicts that if the exam becomes a reality, Hispanic graduation rates would drop well below 30 percent. ... Schools spend huge sums trying to improve the Hispanic graduation rate, even hiring 'outreach consultants' for dropout prevention. One Santa Ana consultant's approach is predictably multicultural. "We need to teach teachers that students need to be proud of where they are coming from," she told me. But, of course, Hispanic school failure derives not from ethnic neglect - the Sana Ana schools glorify the Hispanic heritage to a fault...
...a high level of immigration translates to increased levels of crime. Between the foreign-born generation and their American children, the incarceration rate of Mexican American jumps more than eightfold...
Pro-amnesty forces promote that illegal immigrants "risk everything for the dream of freedom"... However lousy the Mexican economy, there are few, if any, political freedoms enjoyed by Americans that Mexico denies. It is the Yankee dollar, not untasted freedom, that brings the vast majority of illegals here.

...in spring 2006 American witnessed millions of illegal aliens who not only were unapologetic about their illegal status but were demanding that their hosts accommodate their own political grievances, from providing driver's licenses to full amnesty. The largest demonstrations - held on May Day, with thousands of protesters waving Mexican flags and bearing placards depicting the Communist insurrectionist Che Guevara - only confirmed to most Americans that illegal immigration was out of control and beginning to become politicized along the lines of Latin American radicalism. I chronicled in Mexifornia the anomaly of angry protesters waving he flag of the country they vehemently did not wish to return to , but now the evening news beamed these images to millions. In short, the radical socialism of Latin America, seething in the angry millions who flocked to support Venezuela's Hugo Chavez, Bolivia's Evo Morales, and Mexico's Andres Lopez Obrador, had now seemingly been imported into our own largest cities. ...

Crippled America

We are the only nation in the world whose immigration system places the needs of other nations ahead of our own. … Too many people have forgotten the Mariel boatlift. … The Mexican government has published pamphlets explaining how to illegally emigrate to the US. … It's a great way for those governments to get rid of their worst people without paying any price.... Operation Wetback... was successful. It was a joint effort between the INS and the Mexican government. Special immigration teams were created to quickly process and deport illegal immigrants. One of the reasons it worked is that people who were caught were given to Mexican government agents, who moved them into central Mexico, where they could find jobs. ...In the first year, more than one million people were sent back. ...Why should we absorb the expense of keeping criminals in prisons? Let their countries of origin deal with the problems they sent us. If they refuse to take them back, we can stop issuing visas to those countries, preventing their citizens from legally visiting the US. I also would triple the number of immigration officers we currently employ until the wall is built. … Currently there are about 5,000 officers attempting to enforce the existing immigration laws against the more than 11 million illegal aliens. Compare that to the... 35,000 officers in the New York Police Department. Since 9/11 we have tripled the size of the border patrol but haven't substantially increased the number of ICE officers – the officers who enforce immigration laws. … We have to cut off federal grants to sanctury cities... We need to have real penalties for people who overstay their visas. … Most important is ending or curtailing so-called birthright citizenship, or anchor babies. … It is estimated that about 300,000 of these children are born here annually. That's 300,000 children who are entitled to all the rights and privileges granted to American citizens because their mothers entered this country illegally... There are businesses that specialize in making this happen! They call it 'birth tourism'…. And those people take advantage of the system and come here illegally should never enjoy the benefits of being a resident – or citizen – of this nation. So, I am against any path to citizenship for undocumented workers or anyone else who is in this country illegally. They should – and need to – go home and get in line. And you know who agrees with me? The Mexicans, the Chinese, and all the people from other countries who want to be here legally and can't get a visa or fit into a quota... We can be generous and do all of this humanely. But the security and prosperity of American citizens have to come first. .. (Chapter 3)

I believe in putting the needs of American citizens first, always.... There's an old phrase that, sadly, you rarely hear anymore, "Made in America". We will start saying this again. (Chap. 10)

Subject: Coding and Billing for Mid-level practitioners

Dear Colleague,

Incident to billing is a target area in the OIG Work plan. Is your practice ready to withstand an Audit in the area of correct documentation, coding and billing for Mid-Level providers? To make your job even harder, different states and different payers can have different rules.

Non Physician Practitioners (NPPs) are playing an important role and are beneficial to your practice/facility, but if you don't know the specific rules for billing NPP services, you could lose deserved reimbursement — or worse, face fraud charges and denials.

You need to know the answers to these questions before you start billing NPP services:

- Which services can your NPP perform and what are the options for billing them?
- What are the split/shared E/M visit basic requirements, Private Payer differences and what it does not apply to?
- Office setting vs. hospital setting: How do split shared rules differ between the two — and what problems can arise?
- What levels of supervision are required at the various locations for a NPP to provide services?
- What are the NPP and incident-to risk areas and specific audit considerations?
- Can CMS's "incident-to" rules be applied to non-CMS payers?
- What if the non-Medicare payer does not credential or recognize the NPP's NPI?
- How to determine who has the ability to bill for services and when?

Not knowing the answers means your practice or facility will face denials, lost revenue, or worse — fraud charges.

To avoid this, you need a trusted resource that provides expert answers to your questions on NPP billing and coding rules and helps you understand the compliance risks in utilizing NPPs.

The good news is, we have a great new guide that can save you time and headaches. Brought to you by The Coding Institute, the Non-Physician Practitioner Handbook includes tips and tricks, expert-answered reader questions, and sample tools to ensure you learn the pros and cons of hiring NPPs, as well as the ins and outs of ethically maximizing reimbursement for NPP encounters.

Take a look at some of the key areas covered in Non-Physician Practitioner Handbook:

- Boost your productivity and income by adding an NPP, but weigh the pros and cons first
- Follow 3 easy steps to keep your NPP coding incident-free
- Report shared visits properly to avoid being a CERT statistic
- Overcome close scrutiny of incident-to billing with these 3 tips
- Watch out for top risk areas when adding NPPs
- Can the attending bill for a NP's procedure? Give credit where credit is due
- Quickly determine if you can bill your NPPs service incident-to the physician
- Avoid substitute physician billing challenges with these 13 tips
- Learn how to bill same-day physician/nurse practitioner services
- Identify whether a multi-provider visit could be a shared service
- Avoid NP billing snafus with this advice
- Perfect your NP facility procedure billing
- Capturing PA's work for initial nursing facility visits? Not so fast
- Check payer policies when billing incident-to services
- Make distinguishing between new vs. established patient a breeze
- PA assisting at surgery? Check these tips to bill properly

Narrative

On today's date and time, victim Floyd Mayweather Sr., came to Metro Police Records to report a Fraud.

Mayweather stated the following:

On or about June 24, 2015, the suspect, Ann Barlow, and the victim, Floyd Mayweather Sr., entered into a business partnership. Ann Barlow stated she was a publisher and that she would promote Mayweather's Sr. foundation, the Floyd Mayweather Foundation, and that she was also a tax preparer.

During the course of the last two months, Ann has stolen money from the account that belongs to Mayweather Sr.'s, foundation. The monies that are in the account are used to assist people. Suspect Ann Barlow began removing monies from this account for personal use. She also gained access to Mayweather Sr., social security number and the social security number was used to open up credit cards without his permission.

Mayweather Sr., stated at no time did he give her permission to remove, borrow or otherwise take away any funds from his foundation and from any bank accounts. On 09/15/15, a letter from Mayweather Sr., attorney, Taylor L. Randolph, Esq., sent a Notice to Cease and Desist Communication and Notice of Termination of Unenforceable Agreement, to the suspect Ann Barlow. This letter stated she was to cease and desist all communication with Mayweather Sr. Even after the letter was sent to her, Ann Barlow continued to harass Mayweather Sr., to include making face-to-face contact with him, taking pictures and continuing to ask him for money.

It was also learned through the course of this report, Ann Barlow was also extorting money from two other alleged victims, Dieter Wiesner and Johnny Gill's friend (name unknown). Ann allegedly extorted approximately $10,000.00 from Dieter and approximately $7,000.00 from Johnny Gill's friend. Both of these victims will be forthcoming and this report taker will add their information to this report upon receipt.

Documents are included with this report as attachments and will be scanned into Onbase.

RE: Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation

NOTICE TO CEASE AND DESIST COMMUNICATION AND NOTICE OF TERMINATION OF UNENFORCEABLE AGREEMENT

Dear Ms. Barlow,

This firm represents Floyd Mayweather Sr. and Floyd Mayweather Foundation (collectively "Mr. Mayweather") with respect to the agreement Mr. Mayweather entered into with Positive Image Consulting Services & PR ("PIC") dated June 24, 2015 (the "Agreement"). Please direct any future correspondence to this office.

This correspondence is our formal notice to you and PIC to cease and desist all further communication with Mr. Wayweather except for the reasons specifically set forth in applicable federal law. All future calls, inquiries and correspondence should be directed to this office only.

Further, this correspondence is Mr. Mayweather's notice to PIC of the termination of the Agreement. As is explained below, the Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law because there was no meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC. Further, even if the Agreement were somehow enforceable, this letter marks the end of it.

It is well settled in Nevada that basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012). A meeting of the minds exists only when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. See Id. Without a meeting of the minds between the parties as to the essential terms of the contract, there is nothing to enforce.

Here, the Agreement is unenforceable since there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and PIC concerning its essential terms. Mr. Mayweather understood that he was signing for the purpose of setting up a foundation to raise money to help people with auto immune disease. Mr. Mayweather believed that the purpose of the Agreement was so that he could have assistance with setting up the foundation, since he has no prior experience in that area. He signed the Agreement for that specific purpose. He never had any intention to enter into any sort of agreement for public relations representation with PIC or any other entity.

Ph: 702-877-1313 Fx: 702-233-5597 tr@randolphlawfirm.com www.randolphlawfirm.com

However, the Agreement, which was prepared by PIC and presumably contains its intentions, speaks to an arrangement for public relations consulting. If Mr. Mayweather had understood that what he was signing concerned public relations consulting instead of assistance in setting up a foundation for auto immune disease, he never would have signed it. There was clearly never a meeting of the minds when it comes to the Agreement, since each party's understanding of the basic intentions of the Agreement are completely distinct from one another. Because there was no meeting of the minds concerning the Agreement's essential terms, there is nothing to be enforced from it.

Moreover, in the virtually inconceivable case that the Agreement were to somehow be determined enforceable, PIC has already violated its terms and breached the Agreement at least twice. The terms of the Agreement provide that "the Basic Fee does not include certain costs and expenses all of which require prior approval by client." See Addendum A (emphasis added). As paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement further provides, Mr. Mayweather agreed to begin paying the "Basic Fee" starting January 1, 2016, and it was to be a total of 10% of earnings derived by PIC and nothing more.

Therefore, any cost or expense whatsoever to Mr. Mayweather through December 31, 2015, and then any cost or expense beyond the Basic Fee after that, must be specifically authorized by Mr. Mayweather according to the terms of the Agreement. On at least two occasions PIC has already forced or attempted to force Mr. Mayweather to incur certain costs and expenses without his prior approval. First, PIC called Mr. Mayweather's financial advisor Mark and asked him to wire upwards of $60,000 from Mr. Mayweather's bank account without Mr. Mayweather's prior knowledge.

Then, again without consulting Mr. Mayweather, PIC set up a fundraising event at Caesars and to Mr. Mayweather's knowledge PIC received $10,000 from Dieter Wiesner. These funds were wired without Mr. Mayweather's knowledge and consent and we hereby demand that you refund these funds to Dieter Wiesner. Mr. Mayweather has not seen these funds, nor does he want to benefit from any such deposits purportedly made to benefit Floyd Mayweather Foundation.

Both examples as detailed above represent breaches of the Agreement since any such action would obviously require Mr. Mayweather's specific approval under the Agreement.

Further, since the Agreement is not enforceable and hereby terminated as of the date of this correspondence, any agreements and/or contracts that have been entered into deriving from the Agreement are hereby also deemed terminated and unenforceable. Mr. Mayweather does not have extensive knowledge of what these agreements and/or contractual obligations these may be, but one such agreement that was brought to his attention by Marsha Stewart is the Non-Disclosure Agreement entered into on August 11, 2015 by and between Mr. Mayweather and/or PCI and Marsha Stewart. Mr. Mayweather is not a signatory to this Non-Disclosure Agreement and hereby releases Marsha Stewart from any contractual obligations related to same. It is Mr. Mayweather's understanding that Marsha Stewart has already noticed you of the termination of the Non-Disclosure Agreement.

Finally, seeing as the contract does not limit either parties ability to do so in any way, it is plain that the Agreement may be terminated for any or no reason by either party. Pursuant to Paragraph 5(a) of the Agreement, in the event of termination, Mr. Mayweather shall pay PIC "all amounts due... through the date of termination." As was discussed above, the total amounts that could ever be due to PIC under the Agreement include the Basic Fee and any pre-approved costs or expenses. As is also explained above and in Paragraph 4(a) of the Agreement, the Basic Fee expense does not start until January 1, 2016. And as of right now, there have been no costs or expenses pre-approved by Mr. Mayweather pursuant to the Agreement. As such, since the Agreement is terminated as of the date of this correspondence, there are no fees due to PIC as of the date of termination and both parties can go their separate ways without any further liability to one another.

Very truly yours,

FLOYD MAYWEATHER SR., an individual; FLOYD JOY MAYWEATHER FOUNDATION, a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, Plaintiffs, vs. ANN BARLOW, an individual; TIM CHAN, an individual; DOES I through X, inclusive; ROE CORPORATIONS XI through XX, inclusive, Defendants.	CASE NO.: A-15-725238-C DEPT NO.: XXXI COMPLAINT [EXEMPT FROM ARBITRATION AS AMOUNT IN CONTROVERSY EXCEEDS $50,000]

Plaintiffs Floyd Mayweather Sr. ("Mr. Mayweather"), an individual, and Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation (the "Foundation"; collectively with Mr. Mayweather, the "Plaintiffs"), a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation, complains against the defendants Ann Barlow ("Barlow") and Tim Chan ("Chan"; collectively with Barlow, the "Defendants") as follows:

1. Mr. Mayweather is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.
2. The Foundation is a Nevada Non-Profit Corporation headquartered in Clark County, Nevada.

3. Upon information and belief, Defendant Barlow is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

4. Upon information and belief, Defendant Chan is, and at all relevant times was, a resident of Clark County, Nevada.

5. The actions complained of herein occurred in Clark County, Nevada.

6. The true names and capacities of the defendants designated as Doe or Roe Corporations are presently unknown to Plaintiffs at this time, who therefore sue said defendants as fictitious names. When the true names and capacities of these defendants are ascertained, Plaintiffs will amend this Complaint accordingly.

7. At all pertinent times, Defendants were agents, servants, employees or joint venturers of every other Defendant, and at all times mentioned were acting within the scope and course of said agency, employment, or joint venture, with knowledge and permission and consent of all other name Defendants.

8. Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer who previously suffered from Sarcoidosis.

9. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged with Defendant Barlow in order to get assistance setting up a non-profit corporation for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that former fighters often suffer from.

10. On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather entered into a contract with Barlow for the purpose of getting assistance setting up the above-mentioned non-profit (the "Agreement").

11. Unbeknownst to Mr. Mayweather, the Agreement, which Barlow prepared for Mr. Mayweather's signature, concerned an arrangement for public relations consulting rather than an arrangement for obtaining assistance in setting up a non-profit foundation.

12. Mr. Mayweather would not have signed the Agreement had he known it concerned public relations consulting.

13. The Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016.

14. The Agreement provided that any other costs or fees must be approved by Mr. Mayweather.

15. On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation.

16. The Articles of Incorporation name Barlow as registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as members of the board of directors.

17. On or before July 31, 2015, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

18. As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $13,845.19.

19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions.

20. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96.

21. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

22. Upon information and belief, Barlow used the funds from the Bank Account for personal endeavors.

23. On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter.

24. Despite the correspondence, Barlow continued to attempt to be involved in Mr. Mayweather's dealings.

25. On or about September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report concerning Barlow's conduct.

26. To Plaintiff's knowledge and belief Defendant is using his name and image on various websites and media, such as facebook, twitter, Instagram and others without his permission and Plaintiff is seeking Defendant to seize same.

27. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' actions, Plaintiffs have been required to engage the services of an attorney, incurring attorney's fees and costs to bring this action.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Unenforceable Agreement)

28. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

29. Nevada contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration. See Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012).

30. Because Mr. Mayweather and Barlow failed to have a meeting of the mind concerning the essential terms of the Agreement, it is unenforceable under Nevada Law.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Declaratory Relief – Termination of Agreement)

31. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

32. The terms of the Agreement provide that it may be terminated by either party at any time for any or no reason.

33. If it were ever enforceable, Plaintiffs' correspondence terminated the Agreement as of September 15, 2015.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Fraudulent Misrepresentation)

34. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

35. Barlow falsely represented to Mr. Mayweather that the Agreement pertained to him gaining assistance in setting up a non-profit organization.

36. Barlow knew that the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and intended to induce Mr. Mayweather into signing by telling him the Agreement was about the Foundation.

37. Mr. Mayweather relied on Barlow's misrepresentations and has incurred more than $10,000.00 in damages because of that reliance.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Constructive Fraud)

38. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

39. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

40. Defendants breached that duty by misrepresenting their intentions for the Foundation and embezzling funds.

41. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

FIFTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Fiduciary Duty)

42. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

43. As members of the Foundation's board of directors, Defendants owed Plaintiffs a fiduciary duty.

44. Defendants breached that duty.

45. Defendants have incurred more than $10,000 in damages because of Defendants' breach.

SIXTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of Contract)

46. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

47. The Agreement provides that any and all costs to Mr. Mayweather must be approved before incurred.

48. Barlow participated in at least 17 financial transactions involving Mr. Mayweather's money and failed to ask for approval.

49. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

SEVENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Breach of the Implied Covenant of Good Faith and Fair Dealing)

50. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

51. Mr. Mayweather and Barlow entered into the Agreement and Barlow owed Mr. Mayweather a duty of good faith arising from the Agreement.

52. An element of fiduciary duty existed between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow.

53. Barlow breached the duty of good faith and fair dealing by engaging in misconduct involving taking funds from the Foundation.

54. Barlow's breach of contract has caused Plaintiffs to incur more than $10,000.00 in damages due to Barlow's breach.

EIGHTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Unjust Enrichment)

55. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

56. Defendants unjustly retained the money or property of Defendants against fundamental principles of justice or equity and good conscious.

NINTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Conversion)

57. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

58. Barlow committed a distinct act of dominion wrongfully exerted over the funds in the Bank Account.

59. Barlow did not have a right to the funds in the Bank Account.

60. The funds in the Bank Account belong to Plaintiffs, and Barlow's act was in derogation, exclusion, or defiance of Plaintiffs' right and title to those funds.

TENTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF
(Protection Order)

61. Plaintiffs incorporate every preceding paragraph as though fully set forth herein.

62. Barlow continues to harass Mr. Maywcather despite correspondence and instruction not to.

63. Mr. Mayweather requires a protection order from the Court in order to prevent Barlow's continued harassment.

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs pray for judgment against Defendants as follows:

1. That the Court declare the Agreement unenforceable under Nevada law.
2. That the Court declare the Agreement terminated as of September 15, 2015.
3. That the Court grant judgment in favor of Plaintiffs in an amount greater than $10,000.00 to be determined at trial, plus interest, costs and attorneys' fees.
4. That the Court award Plaintiffs punitive damages in an amount to be determined at trial.
5. That the Court grant a protection order in favor of Mr. Mayweather against Barlow.
6. For such other and further relief that the Court may consider just and proper.

DATED this 25th day of September, 2015.

AFFIDAVIT OF TAYLOR L. RANDOLPH

I, Taylor L. Randolph, counsel for Plaintiffs in the above-captioned matter, hereby declare the following:

1. I am an attorney with the Randolph Law Firm, P.C. and based on the verified Complaint I have knowledge of the facts set forth herein and Plaintiff is competent to testify thereto if called upon to do so. I make this Declaration of support of Plaintiffs Motion for Temporary Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction on Order Shortening Time (the "Motion").
2. Good cause exists to expedite the hearing on this Motion, since the Plaintiffs could be potentially stolen from and otherwise harassed without the Court's intervention.
3. After personal attempts for a phone conference and communication by mail, and sincere effort to do so, I have been unable to resolve this matter without Court action.
4. Without an order from this Court, the Defendants will continue to have access to the Plaintiffs' property and be able to harass Mr. Mayweather. Every day that passes before a hearing on this issue could cost Mr. Mayweather both his money and sanity.
5. This Application for Order Shortening Time is made in good faith.
6. I swear under Penalty of Perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

I. INTRODUCTION

This is a straightforward Motion. Plaintiffs are asking this honorable Court to order two things:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the agreement the Plaintiffs and Barlow entered into on June 24, 2015 is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

The straightforwardness of this Motion comes from the simplicity of the facts, which show that the Court has good cause to enter a protection order in favor of the Plaintiffs and to declare the above-mentioned agreement unenforceable or otherwise terminated. As is shown below, because Plaintiffs are likely to win on the merits of these issues and would be irreparably harmed without the Court's help, this Motion should be granted.

II. RELEVANT FACTS

Mr. Mayweather is a former professional boxer and current professional boxing trainer. During a period of time in the past, Mr. Mayweather suffered from Sarcoidosis, an inflammatory disease that often affects former boxers. On or about June 1, 2015, Mr. Mayweather engaged Barlow for the purpose of gaining her assistance in setting up a non-profit organization for Sarcoidosis and other ailments that typically affect former fighters. Mr. Mayweather had no personal experience setting up non-profit corporations, and was made to understand that Barlow did.

On or about June 24, 2015, Mr. Mayweather signed a contract that was prepared by Barlow (the "Agreement"). Mr. Mayweather understood that the Agreement concerned the Foundation, the non-profit that he wanted to start. However, the Agreement actually concerned an arrangement for Barlow to provide public relations consulting for the Plaintiffs. Mr.

Mayweather did not know the Agreement concerned public relations consulting and would not have executed it had he known. The terms of the Agreement provided that Mr. Mayweather would pay Barlow 10% of his earnings starting January 1, 2016, and that any other fees or expenses would require specific approval from Mr. Mayweather.

On or about July 31, 2015, Barlow filed Non-Profit Articles of Incorporation with the Nevada Secretary of State to form the Foundation. The Articles of Incorporation list Barlow as the Foundation's registered agent, and the Defendants and Mr. Mayweather as the members of the board of directors. Shortly before that point in time, Mr. Mayweather opened a bank account at Chase Bank as Floyd Joy Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation (the "Bank Account").

As of the morning of September 11, 2015, the Bank Account had a balance of $13,845.19. On September 11, 2015, Barlow made 7 teller withdraws from the Bank Account totaling approximately $8,603.00, and used the Bank Account's debit card to spend roughly $4,500.00 on approximately 10 other transactions. By September 12, 2015, the Bank Account's balance was $722.96. Barlow was not authorized to withdraw or spend money from the Bank Account.

On or about September 15, 2015, Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow ordering her to cease and desist all contact with Mr. Mayweather, and further explaining that the Agreement was unenforceable or otherwise terminated as of the date of the letter. Despite the letter, Barlow has continued to attempt to contact and be involved with the Plaintiffs and their dealings. On September 22, 2015, Plaintiffs filed a police report about Barlow's conduct.

III. ARGUMENT

A. Legal Standard.

The Nevada Supreme Court has stated that a "preliminary injunction is available if an applicant can show a likelihood of success on the merits and a reasonable probability that the non-moving party's conduct, if allowed to continue, will cause irreparable harm. The district court may also weigh the public interest and the relative hardships of the parties in deciding whether to grant a preliminary injunction." Clark Cnty. Sch. Dist. V. Buchanan, 112 Nev. 1146, 1149, 924 P.2d 716, 719 (1996) (internal citations omitted); see also NRS 33.010 (codifying the cases in which "[a]n injunction may be granted"); see also Dixon v. Thatcher, 103 Nev. 414, 415, 742 P.2d 1029, 1029 (1987).

B. Plaintiffs Are Likely to Succeed on the Merits of Their Action for a Temporary Restraining Order and for Declaratory Relief.

a. There is good cause to enter a temporary protection order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

Barlow has removed and used funds from the Bank Account without authorization from the Plaintiffs, the Bank Account's owners. In addition, after being asked by Mr. Mayweather both verbally and via correspondence from his attorney to cease all further contact with Plaintiffs, Barlow continues to attempt to communicate and come into contact with Mr. Mayweather. Furthermore, the Defendants set up the Foundation in a manner that allowed them to gain access to Mr. Mayweather's property, which they took. Without the Court's intervention in this manner, there is no way to confidently say Barlow's actions will not continue. As such, there is good cause to enter an order restraining the Defendants from any and all contact and involvement with the Plaintiffs and their property.

b. The Agreement is unenforceable under Nevada law or was otherwise terminated as of September 15, 2015.

"Basic contract principles require, for an enforceable contract, an offer and acceptance, meeting of the minds, and consideration." Certified Fire Prot. Inc. v. Precision Constr. Inc., 283 P.3d 250, 255, 128 Nev. Adv. Rep. 35 (2012) (emphasis added) citing to May v. Anderson, 121 Nev. 668, 672, 119 P.3d 1254, 1257 (2005). A meeting of the minds exists when the parties have agreed upon the contract's essential terms. Id. citing to Roth v. Scott, 112 Nev. 1078, 1083, 921 P.2d 1262, 1265 (1996).

Here, there was never a meeting of the minds between Mr. Mayweather and Barlow concerning at least one absolutely essential term of the Agreement. Namely, it's purpose. Mr. Mayweather was certain that the Agreement was about him receiving help in setting up a non-profit corporation. In contrast, it is clear from the content of the Agreement that Barlow's understanding of the purpose of the Agreement was completely different, since she drafted it and it concerns public relations consulting. Because there was never a meeting of the mind about the Agreement's purpose, it should be declared unenforceable.

Alternatively, if the Agreement were determined to be enforceable, the Court should acknowledge through an order that it was terminated as of September 15, 2015. The Agreement does not set out any notice requirement for termination, making it terminable upon demand. On September 15, 2015, counsel for Plaintiffs sent correspondence to Barlow terminating the Agreement. As such, the Court should find that the Agreement did in fact terminate as of that date.

C. Plaintiffs Will Suffer Irreparable Harm Absent Injunctive Relief.

Without the Court's intervention, there is no way to prevent the Defendants from taking property that belongs to the Plaintiffs. The Bank Account was opened by Mr. Mayweather prior to the official creation of the Foundation with the Nevada Secretary of State by Barlow. Barlow was not supposed to have access to the funds in the Bank Account. However, because Barlow filed the Articles of Incorporation naming herself as a board member, she was able to gain unauthorized access to the account. She also continues to harass Mr. Mayweather despite a cease and desist letter from his attorney. Without an order from this Court, the Plaintiffs will not be able to stop Barlow from accessing the Bank Account or harassing them. Such access would irreparably harm Plaintiffs.

Additionally, Plaintiffs would be irreparably harmed if the Agreement were not to be declared unenforceable or terminated as of September 15, 2015 since that means Barlow could potentially earn up to 10% of Mr. Mayweather's earnings beginning January 1, 2016. Mr. Mayweather never intended to obtain public relations consulting and should not be forced to pay for it. Even if the Agreement is enforceable, the fees were contractually not obligated to start until January 1, 2016, and therefore no fees would be due upon termination. Mr. Mayweather would be irreparably harmed by any termination date that falls on or after January 1, 2016, making the September 15, 2015 proper.

D. Public Interest and the Relative Hardships of the Parties Favor Granting This Motion.

Public interest favors granting this Motion because it is against public policy to force citizens to endure obligations that arose from a contract that they did not fully understand. It is best for the public that parties who attempt to contract but do not have a meeting of the minds as to the ultimate purpose of the contract are able to void their agreement. Public interest demands that the Agreement should be determined unenforceable, and if it is not, then that it should be considered terminated.

The potential hardships to the Plaintiffs in the event this Motion is not granted could be severe, since the Defendants would continue to have access to their property. On the other hand, in granting this Motion, the Court would not be taking anything away from the Defendants.

Given the scenario in this case, it is clear that the relative hardships of the parties favors granting this Motion.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the above-mentioned reasons, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court order the following:

1. That the Defendants be restrained from any and all further communication, contact, and association with Plaintiffs and their business; and
2. That the Agreement is unenforceable or, in the alternative, was terminated as of September 15, 2015.

DATED this 28 day of September, 2015.

Public Relations Agreement

This Agreement ("Agreement") between Positive Image Consulting Services & PR, Inc. ("Firm"), And ("Client")Floyd Mayweather Sr./Floyd Mayweather Foundation

Client and Firm understand and agree that:

1. Client engages and retains Firm as Client's personal consultant for Public Relations services for Floyd Mayweather Foundation and Client's Publicist as outlined in Addendum "A" to this Agreement (the "Project").

2. This Agreement constitutes the sole and complete agreement between the Parties hereto, superseding and invalidating all previous agreements, both written and oral by Artist with any other Publicist, Personal Consultant or PR Firm. Publicist will report directly to Client as it relates to but not limited to prior approvals, career plans and projects. Publicist will have a working relationship with Attorney, Manager and Agent; however will only be subordinate to Client.

3. To promote quality workmanship and on-time performance by Firm, Client will provide Firm on a timely basis with the information and materials necessary for Firm to perform the services specified in this Agreement and generally to carry out the Project. The Basic Fee (as defined in paragraph 4 below) is premised on 20 hours per week spent working and providing services to Client including travel when necessary. Client agrees to fees arising from talent cost, third party cancellation charges, and other additional costs and expenses; all costs and expenses arising out of delays caused by Client will be borne by Client and Client will pay them upon invoice. All additional fees require prior approval by Client.

4. (a) Client agrees to pay Firm a basic fee (the "Basic Fee") per month for Firm's services under this Agreement starting January 1, 2016 with an end date of June 1, 2021. Client agrees to a term of 5 years for Public Relations services with Ann Barlow starting June 1, 2015. Public Relations services rendered from June 1, 2015 until December 31, 2015 for Client were rendered by "no compensation" to Firm or Publicist; however the "Basic Fee" for public relations services will be determined on or prior to January 1, 2016. Client agrees to compensate Firm at 10% of gross earnings derived directly or indirectly from Firm which includes but not limited to endorsements, public appearances, and products. Firm agrees to invoice Client on the first day of the month for that month's services, and Client agrees to pay such invoice by the 30th of that month.

(b) All out-of-pocket expenses pre-approved by Client and other costs are in addition to the Basic Fee and are to be paid by Client upon presentation of invoice and upon such further terms as provided in Addendum A, as stipulated hereto.

5. (a) Upon termination of this Agreement, Client shall pay Firm for all amounts due Firm at that time including but not limited to any amounts due as provided in paragraph 4(a) above and all other costs for work done and liabilities incurred (including any obligations incurred with third parties) relating to the Project through the effective date of termination

AZ FM (initial)

(b) The provisions of paragraphs 8 and 9 shall survive any cancellation or termination of this Agreement, whether for cause, without cause or pursuant to a cancellation or termination right provided in this Agreement.

6. Notwithstanding paragraph 4(a) above, if one or more Acts of God or other causes beyond the parties' control renders the performance of services or provisions of material or other performance by either party impossible or delays it for six (6) months in the aggregate, either party, upon prompt written notice to title other specifying the event(s) or cause(s), will be excused from such nonperformance or delay, and either party then has the right to terminate this Agreement on further written notice to the other.

7. Firm and its personnel working on the Project pursuant to this Agreement are independent contractors and not employees of Client or Firm. Firm carries all insurance necessary to comply with the workmen's compensation and employer's liability laws of the state(s) in which Firm's work is to be performed for Client.

8. Client will fully protect and indemnify Firm from any claim of infringement or violation of any copyright, patent, trademark or other right of any kind of any person, or any claim of libel or slander, relating to any materials supplied by Client, its employees, agents, members or guests, or any materials as to which Client is responsible for securing any necessary or desirable permissions and releases.

9. During the entire duration of the agreement and three years after its termination, for any cause whatsoever, the Client and the Firm undertake not to hire as salaried employee, nor use directly or indirectly, the other contracting party's employees, sub-agents, former employees and former sub-agents.

10. All prior understandings and negotiations between Firm and Client, both written and oral, are merged in this Agreement, which is the entire agreement between them. No representation, inducement or promise has been made or relied upon by either party, unless expressly set forth in this Agreement. This Agreement may be altered or changed only in writing signed by both parties.

11. Either party may not assign this Agreement without other party's prior written consent.

12. The validity, interpretation and performance of this Agreement shall be controlled by and construed under the laws of the State of Nevada.

13. Publicist shall advise, disclose, and report directly to Client only, in this a Client and Publicist relationship shall be established without prior consent, rights or advice from a Manager or Agent.

14. The Firm, Publicist and Client agree to a Non Disclosure Agreement concerning all existing, future projects and discussions between each other. Furthermore, Publicist reserves the right of first mention and release of projects, images, photographs, and videos to the general public and media. Client and Publicist agree to keep all such information under confidentiality for the period of this agreement and 3 years after the agreement terminates.

AK FM (initial)

15. Client agrees to give Publicist sole right as Publicist to advise, counsel, and act as the liaison between the general public, journalist and media. Publicist will attend all press junkets, interviews with Media, escort Artist at all red carpet events and issue statements on behalf of Client. Publicist reserves the right to attend all but not limited to all public appearances, interviewing, and meetings involving Client.

16. The parties understand that Publicist's position is that of an independent contractor. Publicist may appoint or engage other persons, firms or corporations to perform any and all services (both routine and non-routine) that this Agreement states Publicist shall perform. Publicist's services are not exclusive - Publicist is now and shall continue to perform somewhat similar services for other artists and other businesses.

17. The following addendum and schedules are attached to and form an integral part of this Agreement:

ADDENDUM A

Services and product(s) to be performed and delivered by Firm.

Re: Floyd Mayweather Sr. claims fraud in Vegas lawsuit against Ann Barlow

Honorable Mayor Goodman,

My name is Ann Barlow. I am the sister in law of Council Ricki Barlow and faithful church member of Pastor Michael Hatch at Prayer Center Rival Church for the past 14 ½ years. I am writing to you for support. I was recently summoned with a civil lawsuit with Floyd Mayweather Sr. whom I worked for as his Publicist and Executive Director of Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation. I engaged in the Public Relations Agreement on June 24, 2015 and formed Articles of Incorporation for Non Profit, Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation on or about July 31, 2015. The mission of the foundation was to bring awareness and research to Sarcoidosis and other Autoimmune Diseases. Mr. Mayweather was diagnosed with Sarcodosis, however currently in admission. I planned along with other Board of Director, Tim Chan a soft launch of the foundation, "VIP Pre Fight Reception" on September 11,2015. Although it was verbally agreed by witnesses (as late as September 11, 2015) for his appearance, he did not appear. The "Fight to Make Difference" Pre Fight Reception was held at Carmines Italian family style restaurant located inside the Forum Shops. The purpose of this event was to soft launch the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation.

The foundation received donations to afford the expenses of hosting event, in which allegations state I withdrew money for 'personal endeavors'. All monies deposited and withdrew are verified by invoice and/or receipts. Mr. Mayweather did not deposit any of his personal money into the Floyd Mayweather Sr. DBA Mayweather Sr. Foundation account. The foundation raised the sum of $16,600 from sponsors which were allocated for hosting the soft launch of the Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation and operating expenses. I still have in my possession a cashier's check from the foundation payable to Floyd Mayweather Sr. for $2500 that he would have received as an appearance fee had he showed up. I also have a check for $2000 from a sponsor payable to Floyd Joy Mayweather Foundation; The check was not deposited into Mayweather Sr. Foundation account due to name discrepancy on the check vs. account name. We were scheduled to change account name after filing officers, however due to training camp it was prolonged.

I received a phone call by Deputy Allan on 10/1/15 to pick up court documents in which I picked up on 0/2/15. The documents notified me of a hearing scheduled for October 15, 2015 at 1:30pm in Department 4 located at 200 Lewis Avenue in Courtroom 7D Floor 7 for allegedly stalking and harassing Mr. Mayweather Sr. The documents included a police report that was filed on September 22, 2015 for obtaining money under false pretense and harassing along with a Cease and Desist Communication and Termination of Agreement from Attorney Randolph Taylor dated September 15, 2015. Apparently the Cease and Desist letter went to a previous address listed on Secretary of State Website. On October 3, 2015, I was sub-served with a Summons for civil lawsuit from Floyd Mayweather Sr. claiming fraud and other allegations. (Please reference attachments) I have supporting evidence of my innocence in all allegations.

I am requesting your prayers and support in this matter. The reputation of my character and my family name is at stake along with my future business affairs. I have faithfully volunteered and participated in The National Day of Prayer, City-Wide Unity Prayer hosted by Pastor Michael Hatch, Domestic Violence

Awareness, Breast Cancer Awareness, Shade Tree, Rescue Mission, Salvation Army, Yellow Ribbon, NAACP, Political campaigns for Councilman Ricki Barlow, Campaign Manager for Laura Perkins, Andre Agassi Foundation, and founded Virtuous Women of Power a Non Profit Organization to empower women in business and ministry just to name a few. I will gladly supply references upon request.

I've reached out to your son, Ross Goodman on October 8, 2015. I am prayerfully hoping for representation from an attorney that is aggressive and accustom to high profile cases, however I am without financial resources. I believe Attorney Ross Goodman is capable of presenting all supporting evidence for my innocence and also a counter lawsuit for slander and defamation of my character. I have received harassing phone calls by a mutual acquaintance of myself and Floyd Sr. and had my vehicle's windshield cracked. No matter what disagreements a family may have at times, at the end of the day we are always there for each other as I have supported my brother in law, Councilman Ricki Barlow on every campaign and other events he has held throughout the duration of his office. I certainly do not want our family name slandered in a city that we have all lived in for many years and love! The RJ Newspaper listed this case in an Article on October 6th which can be viewed on www.reviewjournal.com/news/las-vegas/floyd-mayweather-sr-claims-fraud-vegas-lawsuit.

I am requesting a meeting or phone call with you to share further details of my case in effort to clear my personal and family name in the community. It has come up on several occasions during the course of allegations that I am the wife of Councilman Ricki Barlow instead of brother in Law. I do not want his name slandered or our family name ''Barlow" damaged by default of untrue allegations.

I sincerely appreciate your time, prayers and support. As you may know, this is a very difficult time for me. Thank you and Oscar Goodman for decades of tireless dedication and efforts in the wonderful City of Las Vegas. I can be contacted at [redacted] or reached via cell phone at [redacted]. My home address is [redacted]

DAYS UNTIL THE NEVADA PRESIDENTIAL CAUCUS: 232

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 ELECTION: 491

Good morning, everyone. It's good to be back. It's good to be back. It's good to be back. Maybe if I write it enough times, I will actually believe it. Hard to express just how relaxing my week away was, dear Flashees. No Nevada news, lots of sleep, too much eating. Yes, glorious it was.

But now reality bites. Hard. I see I didn't miss much, beyond Rand Paul's dalliance with Cliven Bundy. What was he thinking? Don't forget: When I interviewed Paul six months ago, he wanted no part of Bundy and had no idea how the states would manage federal lands. Seems an awfully bizarre choice, substantively and politically.

What's below: Heck is in, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about Joe Heck.

COMING UP

It's going to be a Heck of a day. Soon: Roberson for Congress. Tonight: Heck will be on "Ralston Live." Don't miss it!.

HECK OF A RACE

With Rep. Joe Heck in against Catherine Cortez Masto a few days after the second-quarter deadline for fundraising, the Nevada Senate race is now guaranteed to be a marquee one this cycle. Why? Not just because it promises to be competitive, but because the Democrats cannot afford to lose Harry Reid's seat if they hope to recapture the Senate. And Prince Harry, while perhaps not quite as engaged as he might be for himself, will not want his seat to end up in GOP hands, just as Paul Laxalt did not want the same seat to fall into Reid's 30 years ago. The national pundit class will call the race a tossup, which is expected. And I have to say: Even though the Democrats generally have had an advantage in recent presidential years here, and their nominee this cycle is not burdened by a House ethics probe, Heck's work ethic and determination and Cortez Masto's lack of experience in this kind of crucible make this one very difficult to call. It is a tossup.

One last historical note: Heck knows it was Team Reid that knocked him out of the state Senate in 2008 with a cipher candidate. This is a rematch on a much bigger stage.

A QUARTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – The latest voter registration numbers show little change from last month. The Democratic edge statewide remains at just a little more than 55,000 voters. It's early, but the way that number starts to move will tell us a lot.

Nugget No. 2 – Great look at per pupil funding by the Guinn Center. Save those charts.

Nugget No. 3 – Yes, the Douglas County GOP is worried about voter fraud and the vote being hacked. Ladies and gentlemen, your GOP.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

All I got today: This is the first day of the U.S. Senate race. (My historian is off.)

(Hat tip to William Lefkovics at @HistoryNevada. Follow him for great stuff every day.)

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

With Joe Heck in the news, name two candidates he has defeated and two he lost to, but you cannot name John Oceguera or Erin Bilbray.

Friday (10 days ago) winner: KLAS's George Knapp

The question: "You look like a goddamn rat pack!" What great film star said it on this date in history?

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Ex-gamer Pete Bernhard was first. Name the actress and the movies: She died fighting a plague; she played a woman with a dark secret having an affair with a younger man; she plays a woman who took extreme measures to forget her ex-boyfriend; she plays a woman who loses her true love at sea. The answer: Kate Winslet in "Contagion," "The Reader," "Eternal Sunshine of the Spotless Mind" and "Titanic."

Subject: Rescinding Dianetics Day or Month

Dear Mayor,

I believe that you in the past your city inadvertently made a horrible mistake by issuing a proclamation for Dianetics Day. I am sure your Mayor at the time did not know that by doing so you were condoning the actions of the author L.Ron Hubbard, who has proven to be a liar and fraud and who's organization actively destroys families and has infiltrated many government agencies to spy on them which resulted in nine of their members going to jail including L Ron Hubbard's wife!

Currently The Church's uses the proclamation your city has given them as evidence of your support for what they do and how. Mayor Roy of Calera, Alabama rescinded theirs and I am asking you to do the same. I have included some different information here to substantiate what I am asking for and why so you have facts that your city may not have been provided with before agreeing to having your city be supportive of this organization. Mayor Roy rescinded their proclamation based on only the following:

Dianetics and Scientology are inseparable; the former is used as a technique in the practice of the latter, and the doctrines of the former are incorporated in the latter."
– The Lee Report on Dianetics and Scientology by Professor John Lee

"(a) The claim is made for dianetics, which is part of scientology, and inferentially for the whole of scientology, that between them they can positively cure all psychosomatic ailments, which it is claimed represent 70 per cent. of man's illnesses.

(b) These claims are entirely unjustified.
(c) On the contrary, scientology techniques, beyond the elementary stages, are potentially and, in some instances, positively harmful to mental health.

(d) Scientology is practised by "auditors" who have no medical training; they use dangerous techniques; they are unable to recognize symptoms and diagnose particular mental and physical conditions of ill health; they indiscriminately apply dangerous techniques irrespective of the circumstances; they not only administer the wrong treatment, but also poison their patients' minds against orthodox medicine and thus prevent them from obtaining proper medical treatment which they may require."
– Conclusions The Anderson Report, Chapter 30, point 8
Kevin Victor Anderson, Q.C. Published the State of Victoria, Australia

Despite Hubbard's claim his poor eyesight, ulcers and arthritis were never resolved and he petitioned for and received disability payments from the Navy reserve which he continued to receive while making millions of dollars from the Dianetics book that claimed to cure all of these for himself and others.

In a California Judge Breckenridge ruled;
"In addition to violating and abusing its own members civil rights, the organization… has harassed and abused those person not in the church whom it perceives as enemies .The organization clearly schizophrenic and paranoid, and this bizarre combination seems to be a reflection of its founder L Ron Hubbard. The evidence portrays a man who's been virtually a pathological liar when it comes to his history, background and achievements.

In another court case Justice Latey wrote " when comparing the truth about Hubbard with the churches published claims and said to promote himself in the cult he made these amongst other false claims:

1- Hubbard's claim was: That he was a much decorated war hero.
The truth is: He was not.

2- Hubbard's claim :That he was awarded the Purple Heart a gallantry decoration for those wounded in action
The truth is: He was not.

3-Hubbard's claim: That he was crippled and blinded in the war and cured himself with Dianetic technique.
The truth is: He was not crippled and he was not blinded.

Hubbard claims " That he was a graduate of George Washington University an atomic physicist.

The truth is: He completed only one year of college and failed the one course on nuclear physics he enrolled in.

Mr. Hubbard is a charlatan or worse. Scientology is both immoral and socially obnoxious…In my judgment it is corrupt sinister and dangerous. It is corrupt because it is based on lies and deceit and has as its real objective money and power."

Kenneth Robinson a past British Minister of Health has stated that: "The government is satisified…that Scientology is socially harmful. It alienates members of families from each other and attributes squalid and disgraceful motives to all who oppose it; it's authoritarian principles and practice. Are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers: above all,its methods can be a serious danger to the health of those who submit to them.

I think you have more than enough information here to rescind your city's proclamation. I am more than happy to discuss this further with you should you have any questions.I have LOTS more disturbing information that I am sure will help you make this decision to rescind

I have also sent this to the editors of your cities your main newspapers as they to might want to rescind any positive story they had run when you gave Dianetics this original proclamation .

Thank you for your consideration of this matter,

Brian J Sheen

Subject: [Marketing Mail] Healthcare fraud: Recent court cases, SIU investigations, fraud allegations and findings

If you cannot see this email properly, please click here

Good morning,

Fraud investigations are increasing from both governmental agencies and ínsurance specíal investigation units. Medical providers need to use best practices to avoid even the appearance of fraud. Once suspected, fraud allegations can put your practice on the radar for years and can be difficult to resolve or lead to large recriminations, fines, and even license revocation or suspension. This likely could result in significant lost revenue and bankruptcy.

In this Live Audio Conference by expert speaker, Thomas J. Force, Esq., you'll learn about the most common fraud actions brought against healthcare providers and get strategies to avoid audits. Thomas will analyze recent court cases, fraud allegations, findings of fraud, and SIU investigations into fraud. He will also share strategies and techniques for avoiding those practices that may lead to fraud allegations. Additionally, Thomas will reveal current best practices that you can implement in your organization.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

CRIMINAL INDICTMENT

VIOLATIONS:

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1341—Mail Fraud (Counts One through Eight) (as to all defendants);

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1343—Wire Fraud (Counts Nine through Seventeen) (as to all defendants);

Title 18, United States Code, Section 1957—Engaging in Money Transactions in Property Derived from Specified Unlawful Activity (Counts Eighteen through Twenty) (as to defendant FUJINAGA); Title 18, United States Code, Section 2—Aiding and Abetting (Counts One through Twenty as to defendant FUJINAGA, Counts One through Seventeen as to defendants JUNZO SUZUKI and PAUL SUZUKI).

CLV003035

The Grand Jury Charges that at all times relevant to the Indictment:

BACKGROUND

1. Defendant Edwin FUJINAGA was a United States citizen, residing in Las Vegas, Nevada.

2. Defendant Junzo SUZUKI ("J. SUZUKI") was a Japanese citizen, residing in Tokyo, Japan.

3. Defendant Paul SUZUKI ("P. SUZUKI") was a Japanese and United States citizen, residing in Tokyo, Japan.

4. MRI International Inc. ("MRI") was a Nevada Limited Liability Corporation located and operated in Las Vegas, Nevada. Defendant FUJINAGA owned and controlled MRI as its President and CEO. MRI operated a Service Center located in Tokyo, Japan. Defendant J. SUZUKI was at various times MRI's Executive Vice President (Asia Pacific), and Defendant P. SUZUKI was at various times General Manager of MRI's Japan operations.

THE SCHEME AND ARTIFICE TO DEFRAUD

5. From at least 2009 and continuing until at least in or about April 2013, FUJINAGA, J. SUZUKI and P. SUZUKI, and others known and unknown to the Grand Jury, aided and abetted by each other, made, and caused to be made, numerous material misrepresentations and omissions designed to fraudulently induce investors to transmit money to MRI.

6. As part of the scheme and artifice, the defendants represented, among other things, that MRI was engaged in the business of purchasing medical accounts receivable

CLV003036

("MARS"), that is, debts owed by recipients of medical services or products to the individuals or entities that provided those services. MRI purported to purchase the accounts from providers at a discounted rate and then collect on the accounts from the patients owing money. MRI's profit from this activity, according to the defendants, was generated from the difference between the price at which MRI purchased the MARS and the amount MRI collected on them due to MRI's purportedly superior collections capability.

7. As a further part of the scheme and artifice, the defendants, and others working with them, solicited investments in MRI by offering Certificates of Investment (hereinafter "Certificates"), claiming to provide investors with consistent, predictable returns resulting from its superior collections ability. The defendants marketed and sold the Certificates primarily, if not exclusively, to Japanese citizens through MRI's Service Center in Tokyo. Bearing a face value equal to the amount of the initial investment, the Certificates promised a series of interest payments which would accrue and be paid, along with the principal, when the Certificates reached a specified maturity date. When the Certificates reached maturity, investors were given the option to reinvest the total amount due and owing into a new Certificate instead of receiving a "liquidation," or cash payment of the amount they were due.

8. As a further part of the scheme and artifice, the defendants fraudulently induced investments by knowingly publishing, mailing, distributing, and transmitting promotional materials that falsely represented that MRI would use any money invested in the Certificates exclusively to purchase MARS, the purported profitable business of MRI. The defendants also falsely represented to investors that investment money would be held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada using a "lock box" method that prevented MRI, or anyone else, from expending investment money for any purpose other than the purchase of MARS. Based on these and other false and fraudulent representations and promises, the defendants induced thousands of investors to invest a total of over $1.5 billion in MRI Certificates.

9. As a further part of the scheme and artifice, and contrary to all representations the defendants made to investors, MRI functioned almost entirely as a Ponzi scheme, that is, money solicited from new investors was used to pay prior investors' maturing investments.

10. As a further part of the scheme and artifice, and contrary to all representations the defendants made to investors, the defendants regularly expended investor money for things other than purchasing MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, paying for personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

11. As a further part of the scheme and artifice, the defendants made such other false, fraudulent, deceptive, and deceitful representations as necessary to advance their fraudulent scheme, conceal their fraudulent activities from others, avoid detection, enrich themselves, and cause devastating losses to their victims.

COUNTS ONE THROUGH EIGHT
Mail Fraud
(Title 18, United States Code, Section 1341)

12. The allegations set forth in paragraphs 1 through 11 are incorporated herein in full.

13. From at least 2009 to in or about April 2013, in the State and Federal District of Nevada and elsewhere,

EDWIN FUJINAGA,
JUNZO SUZUKI, and PAUL SUZUKI,

defendants herein, with others known and unknown to the grand jury, and aided and abetted by each other, did devise and intend to devise a material scheme and artifice to defraud and for obtaining money and property by means of materially false and fraudulent pretenses,

Thank you for contacting me about the city's issuing proclamations for DIANETICS DAY in the past. Before any consideration of the issues you bring forward, I asked my staff to review the past five years in reference thereto. The response:
"We have provided a Proclamation every year for the last four years to Maureen Bird as her request, however, we have never done a Dianetics Day or Month Proclamation in the City of Las Vegas."

Subject: Rescinding Dianetics Day or Month

Dear Mayor,

I believe that you in the past your city inadvertently made a horrible mistake by issuing a proclamation for Dianetics Day. I am sure your Mayor at the time did not know that by doing so you were condoning the actions of the author L.Ron Hubbard, who has proven to be a liar and fraud and who's organization actively destroys families and has infiltrated many government agencies to spy on them which resulted in nine of their members going to jail including L Ron Hubbard's wife!

Currently The Church's uses the proclamation your city has given them as evidence of your support for what they do and how. Mayor Roy of Calera, Alabama rescinded theirs and I am asking you to do the same. I have included some different information here to substantiate what I am asking for and why so you have facts that your city may not have been provided with before agreeing to having your city be supportive of this organization. Mayor Roy rescinded their proclamation based on only the following:

Dianetics and Scientology are inseparable; the former is used as a technique in the practice of the latter, and the doctrines of the former are incorporated in the latter."
– The Lee Report on Dianetics and Scientology by Professor John Lee

"(a) The claim is made for dianetics, which is part of scientology, and inferentially for the whole of scientology, that between them they can positively cure all psychosomatic ailments, which it is claimed represent 70 per cent. of man's illnesses.

(c) On the contrary, scientology techniques, beyond the elementary stages, are potentially and, in some instances, positively harmful to mental health.
(d) Scientology is practised by "auditors" who have no medical training; they use dangerous techniques; they are unable to recognize symptoms and diagnose particular mental and physical conditions of ill health; they indiscriminately apply dangerous techniques irrespective of the circumstances; they not only administer the wrong treatment, but also poison their patients' minds against orthodox medicine and thus prevent them from obtaining proper medical treatment which they may require."
– Conclusions The Anderson Report, Chapter 30, point 8
Kevin Victor Anderson, Q.C. Published the State of Victoria, Australia

Despite Hubbard's claim his poor eyesight, ulcers and arthritis were never resolved and he petitioned for and received disability payments from the Navy reserve which he continued to receive while making millions of dollars from the Dianetics book that claimed to cure all of these for himself and others.

In a California Judge Breckenridge ruled;
"In addition to violating and abusing its own members civil rights, the organization… has harassed and abused those person not in the church whom it perceives as enemies .The organization clearly schizophrenic and paranoid, and this bizarre combination seems to be a reflection of its founder L Ron Hubbard. The evidence portrays a man who's been virtually a pathological liar when it comes to his history, background and achievements.

In another court case Justice Latey wrote " when comparing the truth about Hubbard with the churches published claims and said to promote himself in the cult he made these amongst other false claims:

1- Hubbard's claim was: That he was a much decorated war hero.
The truth is: He was not.

2- Hubbard's claim :That he was awarded the Purple Heart a gallantry decoration for those wounded in action
The truth is: He was not.

3-Hubbard's claim: That he was crippled and blinded in the war and cured himself with Dianetic technique.
The truth is: He was not crippled and he was not blinded.

Hubbard claims " That he was a graduate of George Washington University an atomic physicist.

The truth is: He completed only one year of college and failed the one course on nuclear physics he enrolled in.

Mr. Hubbard is a charlatan or worse. Scientology is both immoral and socially obnoxious…In my judgment it is corrupt sinister and dangerous. It is corrupt because it is based on lies and deceit and has as its real objective money and power."

Kenneth Robinson a past British Minister of Health has stated that: “The government is satisified…that Scientology is socially harmful. It alienates members of families from each other and attributes squalid and disgraceful motives to all who oppose it; it's authoritarian principles and practice. Are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers: above all,its methods can be a serious danger to the health of those who submit to them.

I think you have more than enough information here to rescind your city’s proclamation. I am more than happy to discuss this further with you should you have any questions.I have LOTS more disturbing information that I am sure will help you make this decision to rescind

I have also sent this to the editors of your cities your main newspapers as they to might want to rescind any positive story they had run when you gave Dianetics this original proclamation .

Thank you for your consideration of this matter,

Brian J Sheen

Good morning and welcome to a Tuesday edition of The Daily Indy!

Quote of the day

"The administration's budget in my opinion is anti-Nevada and I'm not happy about it. Not one bit."
--- Sen. Dean Heller in a speech to the Legislature

Being in three places at one time

The Indy often produces in-depth stories on policy issues and political trends. Our reporters spend a lot of time co-researching and co-writing pieces so we can cover the Legislature and Southern Nevada issues in what we hope is a new and different way. But when more than once piece of news breaks at the same time, our team can divide and conquer, too. Yesterday morning, we sent Michelle Rindels to ask the governor about the alleged voter fraud in 2016, Jackie Valley and photographer Jeff Scheid to ask for more information from the secretary of state's deputy (on camera), and Megan Messerly and Riley Snyder to live-tweet and then write about Sen. Dean Heller and Rep. Mark Amodei's joint town hall in Reno. Our front page shows the difference between having just one or two political and/or government reporters vs. an energetic, versatile team of four.

Today's stories

Leading the site this morning: Dean Heller came to Carson City and spoke to the Legislature. Like others before him, he didn't say much controversial.

Our Carson team is all over bills passing out of the house where they began. The deadline is a week from today.

"The Clark County School District uses a computer program that's older than its high school seniors..." So begins another Jackie Valley special report on education.

On our Opinion page: An architect says the time to increase Nevada's commitment to renewables is now.

ICYMI

Riley Snyder and Megan Messerly live-tweeted Sen. Dean Heller's town hall and then wrote it up. The editor found national Democrats using the town hall to pound Heller in cyberspace.

Michelle Rindels found Gov. Brian Sandoval defending his DMV and being kept in the dark by the secretary of state on the voter fraud probe. More updates, too, from the SOS and the ACLU.

Tweets of the Day

One of the biggest general frustrations we hear from our readers is about the seeming disconnect between lawmakers and long-standing needs around the state. Case and point: For years, the administration of the Clark County School District has been criticized for, well, just about everything under the sun. Some of that criticism has been legitimate. Some has been trumped up political rhetoric. But almost none has centered on one of the biggest actual problems the district has: the stunning lack of modern technology - i.e., hardware and software that would enable speed, agility, and reliable data tracking and reporting - in a system comprised of 35,000+ employees and 300,000+ students. The featured tweets above show how many people deal with the disconnect: dismay or sarcasm.

Metro Chamber members:

IMPORTANT information you need to know – If you accept credit card payments from clients or vendors, you need to be aware of the following regulation that takes effect on October 1, 2015:

All businesses without the new EMV chip technology will be liable for fraudulent purchases effective October 1, 2015, unless they are using the newest EMV or Apple Pay terminals.

- Currently, if an in-store transaction is conducted using a counterfeit, stolen or otherwise compromised card, consumer losses from that transaction fall back on the payment processor or issuing bank, depending on the card's terms and conditions.
- Effective Oct. 1, 2015, the deadline created by major U.S. credit card issuers MasterCard, Visa, Discover and American Express, the liability for card-present fraud will shift to "whichever party is the least EMV-compliant in a fraudulent transaction" which means, if you are not EMV compliant, your business is at risk.

The Metro Chamber is conducting a special free webinar to brief members about this important change and how to be compliant. The webinar takes place TOMORROW, September 18, 2015, at 10:00 a.m. To sign up, please contact Danica Torchin at 702.586.3834 or dtorchin@lvchamber.com.

Editor s POV

With the heartbreaking images from Notre Dame Cathedral's tragic fire and the horrible bombings in Sri Lanka fresh in our memories, we look to international developments in this issue. Our colleagues around the United States – as well as in Asia, Europe, Israel, and Mexico – help GT to guide clients through the maze of legal issues worldwide. Here, we provide updates on Brexit, changes in copyright laws in the EU (and the U.S.), a quarterly China newsletter, information on chain-of-supply issues for offshore manufacturing, cryptocurrency, access to websites for the disabled, and an array of other issues. Let us all hope for a fast rebuilding in Paris and Colombo, and continued building of bridges of understanding throughout the world.

Subject: [Marketing Mail] CMS 855 B, OIG Target Areas, CMS Billing Updates, PECOS, ABN form updates, NPP reimbursement, Medicare MSP standards, and much more

Good Morning,

We are almost trending towards Q3 2015 and this is the time of the year when CMS becomes much more aggressive towards auditing providers to ensure regulatory and reimbursement compliance. Plus it's time to stay on top of compliance requirements to get the reimbursements you deserve. Missing even a single update, such as a fee schedule change, can cost you dearly.

Medicare compliance has become even more challenging with a number of regulatory and federal changes implemented in 2015 and what's about to come in 2016. In the first half of FY 2014, OIG reported 465 criminal actions against individuals or entities that engaged in crimes against HHS programs; and 266 civil actions, which include false claims and unjust-enrichment lawsuits filed in Federal district court, civil monetary penalties (CMP) settlements, and administrative recoveries related to provider self-disclosure matters.

Heightened federal scrutiny and penalty enforcement have physician practices/hospitals across the healthcare spectrum concerned that even a genuine error might result in their practices to come under some serious scrutiny and unpleasant payback requests. You need to stay abreast with some of the latest updates by Medicare in 2015 on the Enrollment process, Documentation Guidelines for compliant reimbursement, PECOS, NPP Reimbursements, OIG target areas, ABN form updates, Medicare MSP Standards and much more.

Here are some of the topics and updates we've covered in this special report:

Mr. Carlsen:

Today's City Council meeting is a short one and there will NOT be a 1:00 p.m. planning session. The City Council Meeting starts at 9:00 a.m. this morning and there are only 61 scheduled items. Many of those are on the consent agenda and some are requested to be abeyed to a later meeting. You should appear at the City Council meeting at 9:00 am or soon after. There is no indication as to the exact time that your item will be heard.

Subject: Response to the Concerns that you expressed on our brief phone call yesterday

Dear Mayor Pro Tem:

First, I have been up all night writing this, and am going to try to catch a hour or two of sleep based on the understanding that my item won't be heard until after 1 pm. But, if I wrong, please, please let me know. In any case, there were two major concerns that you expressed in our brief telephone conversation yesterday. The first was that you fear that you will have to grant everyone a waiver from the 660 foot rule if you grant this requested waiver. And then, you said if you grant my request for a waiver, and don't give the next person a waiver, then you are going to wind up in court. You will soon be convinced that it is extremely unlikely that either fear will ever come to fruition, and, to be frank, I think what I have to say, below, will convince you and that the hazards of litigation are actually greater if you do not grant this requested Special Use permit.

CONCERN NO: 1 "We will have to grant everyone a waiver from 660 foot guideline if we grant a waiver for 1700 Bannie".

First, let me state that I am not an attorney, but I do have a Masters Degree in Taxation, and as a result of my education as a CPA, as well as 30 years of practical experience, I am fairly well versed in the concept of legal precedence having read thousands of tax court cases. However, I am copying City Attorney, Bryan Scott, with this email so that he can correct me when and if I might be wrong and otherwise advise you (privately) as to whether he agrees or disagrees with anything that I have said, below). In fact, do the shortness of time, I am going to try and copy other city council members as well.

First, a legal precedent is an application of a law to a set of factual circumstances. But, by definition, a prior legal precedence is limited to only a future set of circumstances that are factually similar to the circumstances that have been adjudicated. When a party tries to assert that a past precedent should be applied to a current set of circumstance that assertion is defeated any time the opposing party can demonstrate that a case is "distinguished on its facts" meaning that the facts of the instant case are significantly, or materially, different that than the facts involved in the adjudicated case. There are several facts and circumstances that are uniquely peculiar to my application that will negate nearly all conceivable attempts to cite my case as precedent for another SUP requiring a waiver from the 660 foot guideline. For example:

1. Any Absentee owners who do not occupy the premises as their primary personal residence in the way that I do, cannot cite this case as a valid legal precedent.
    a. Hence, right off the bat, a very large percentage of your STR rental permits will be barred from trying to cite this waiver as legal precedent.
2. Even if you have any owner occupied applicant, like me, who seeks to cite my case as a legal precedent, they will be barred from doing so UNLESS they also have the highly rare and peculiar circumstance (like me) where the distance measure from lot line to lot line is less the 660' yardstick, but, yet, is substantially over the 660' distance when measured between one STR dwelling unit to the other.
    a. In my case, the distance between my house and the other STR dwelling unit is nearly 700 feet, well over the 600 foot reference.
    b. The use of a lot line to lot line measure creates a constitutionally forbidden bias against rural communities as it creates a different result in rural communities than say downtown. In other words, why should two STR rental units that are 700 feet apart be allowed in more densely populated communities like downtown while two STR units that are 700 feet apart in a rural community are disallowed.
        i. This result also violates the law of common sense as why should a STR applicant with a large lot, that provide a big buffer between neighbors as to noise, etc., be discriminated against as compared to an applicant that is proposing to operate a STR in dwelling unit where the operation is much closer and much likely to interfere with the quiet enjoyment of neighbors.
    c. The point is that these circumstances create a potential legal vulnerability if the City Council were to deny this waiver request that simply would not exist in any other application unless they had identical facts as mine. The potential for expensive and costly litigation that can cost the City significant dollars (even if it the City is ultimately adjudicated as correct) is an important and legitimate factor for the City to consider in making its judgments in the course of doing business as a City. Hence, any other STR or SUP application that does not contain this same potential litigation risk can be distinguished on it facts such that any decision made here cannot be used a precedent to force the city make the same decision in another set of circumstances that may be similar, but lack the same level of litigation risk.
3. And even if another future applicant can claim another set similar facts, and is not yet tripped up by items described 1 and 2, in trying to assert a legal precedence, here is yet another material fact that will be hard to match:
    a. It should be remembered that the whole purpose of the 660' foot guideline is to try and control and limit the number of households that might be affected by a STR operations. If one draws a circle around my property, the "sphere of influence" or "footprint" of any STR at 1700 Bannie is substantially smaller than the "footprint" or most STRs because the whole west side of that circle spans out an over industrial property rather than residential property. Hence, a STR operation at 1700 will affect less than half the size that the wingspan of a typical STR would affect.
    b. One must be careful not to let the tail wag the dog and blindly try to follow the 660 foot guideline even to the detriment to the underlying purpose of the guideline. It seems silly to derail an STR application with a highly desired small footprint because it barely clips an arbitrary and constitutionally challenged guideline. If the City were to waive the 660 foot rule for an STR application that has an extraordinarily small sphere of influence, such as the case for 1700 Bannie, then any other application seeking such a waiver, can be distinguished, on its facts, from being able to cite this 1700 Bannie Avenue as precedent unless it can also show that it has the same extraordinarily small "half-circle" Sphere of influence as 1700 Bannie.

4. Then we have another highly unusual fact that is unique to this application. We have handful of neighbors who have intentionally used lies and misrepresentations in attempt to sabotage this SUP process. I have been libeled and slandered in this process. Witness the attachment where a neighbor has purported to represent the neighborhood as the leader of the defunct Scotch Eighties Association falsely told neighbors that the neighborhood meeting that I was holding to explain what I was trying to do with my house was "NOT SACTIONED" by the City, and commanded that this meeting is not to be attended. This meeting was not only sanctioned by the City, the City charged me something like $500 for the mailing list needed to send out the meeting notice. Then we have another neighbor, a zealous opponent to any and all STR applications, who went around the neighborhood totaling inventing a scare tactic stories suggesting that I had said that I was going to run a ghost themed Short term rental where people would be encouraged to come spend a night at a haunted house and conduct séances, etc. This was patently false, and I have attached email and text messages which clearly advised that what I wanted to do, and which was the complete opposite of the outlandish claims that she was making in order to drum up neighborhood opposition. But apparently, in her mind, and that of her cohort, the end justified the means. Similarly, these two also spread malicious rumors and falsehoods that all of Raider Nation was going to come and throw wild parties and it can be easily demonstrated as to how these people twisted facts and spread falsehoods in order to incite neighbors and manipulate their perceptions. The actions of this small group is analogous to an attempt to poison the objectivity of a jury pool and should not be tolerated. This City Council created this SUP process, and frankly, it is the duty of the City Council to clean up this libelous and slanderous cesspool and rid its SUP process of this behavior. This duty falls on the entire City Council, not just you, Mayor Pro Tem. And, if, as part of seeking to protect the SUP process from this kind of behavior, the City seeks to send a message by granting this application, and refusing to allow this behavior to be successful, then it would be extremely difficult for any subsequent applicant to cite this Bannie case as precedent unless the same sort behavior that has occurred here has also occurred in that case causing the City to take similar steps to clean up its SUP process. The SUP process was created to give neighbors a voice; not to give neighbors a chance to sabotage the process with lies and falsehoods and acts of libel and slander. Good rule of thumb: If the City wants to do something about all the people out there running illegal STR's then, think about how your SUP process treats people who have NOT behaved illegally and instead have come forward and have paid lots of money to the City only to be put thru the ringer.
5. As you will soon see, at the City Council meeting, I will be proposing that this Application be granted subject to some rather unique terms and conditions. It is very doubtful than any other applicant will agree to these same terms and conditions, and that itself is yet another distinguishable fact, that will obviate any attempt to use 1700 Bannie Avenue as a legal precedent.
6. There are actually more distinguishable facts that I can cite, but for the sake of brevity I am going to stop here, but would be happy to expound upon request.

CONCERN 2: "We will wind up in Court if we grant a waiver at 1700 Bannie"

Now, this part gets very difficult for me because it is hard to convey a realistic assessment of the potential hazards of litigation without sounding like I am making threats to sue the City. However, with all due respect, and I really mean that, WITH ALL DUE RESPECT, I think you are far more likely to wind up in court if the City Counsel DOES NOT grant this SUP than if you Do grant this SUP. As noted in the discussion above it will be very difficult for any applicant to argue that there is legal precedent that entitles them to an automatic waiver based on this case, and it is highly unlikely that anyone would be able to introduce any litigation, let alone succeed, in court on a claim that you must also grant them a SUP because you granted one at 1700 Bannie. In contrast, it is not my normal personality to be overly combative, preferring, instead, to try to work with people towards reasonable solutions. However, as should be evident from this email, I feel that like I have been put through hell during this SUP application process, where some very inappropriate actions have wrongly poisoned these proceedings. I have come forward, in good faith, as a law-abiding citizen, in valiant attempt to try and follow the rules despite terribly unfair obstacles. I cannot help but feel that any denial would be an unfair and unjust result (especially under the terms and conditions that I will put forth at today's meeting). I am sure that Mr. Scott will tell you that any assessment of any hazards of litigation will require an assessment of a person's ability to fund and finance litigation, obtain top flight legal counsel, and produce "colorable legal arguments". I know people, my brother knows people, and Juliann knows people, so it should not be hard to imagine that I might be able to put up a formidable fight if I feel like I have been done wrong. And, Mr. Scott can give you an assessment as to they types of legal arguments that can be made, many of which have been hinted at in this email. But, there are also some things that happened between my initial application for a STR license on March 31, 2017 and the time that I even first met you, Mayor Pro Tem, that could give rise to a legal complaint. I have never mentioned this, frankly, because I have been trying to work within the system, and not against it. But it would be wrong to assume that "nice guys" cannot or will not sue people when wronged. I have had to do that when I found myself the victim of a six figure fraud, and while I hate having to be in litigation, there are legal remedies for people who have brought financial harm to others via libelous lies and slander. Those behaviors have sought to sabotage my lawful due process in requesting this permit, and what remain unknown, at this point, is whether the intentional poisoning of neighborhood opinions, and the weight that the City accords these poisoned opinions will contribute to any denial of a permit. Frankly, I am absolutely amazed that I have received so many neighborhood statements given the attempt to poison and manipulate neighborhood opinion with lies. I have four more statements, now, in addition to the dozen that I previously sent you to bring up the total to 16, as of now, with at least a couple more that still might come in before my application is heard in the afternoon session of today's city council meeting.

Then, of course, there are other legal vulnerabilities previously noted in this email, and there are really no significant damages resulting from any intentional lies and falsehoods perpetuated by a neighbor unless there is a denied permit. Please don't get me wrong. I am not suggesting that you, or anyone else, at the city had anything to do with the perpetuated lies and falsehoods, but you could be called to testify as to the extent that the neighborhood opposition that was engendered by the lies and falsehoods was a contributing factor for denial, if in fact this permit is denied.

I also disagree with another thing that you said on the phone. I was not wrong to talk about plans with my sister and her Raider fan friends, or about how I want to try and rid my house of the ghost stigma, and resulting diminution in value. I just simply told the truth about what I was intending. To the extent that neighborhood hysteria was whipped up by the lies and misrepresentation of others, then the resulting consequences are their responsibility and cannot and should not be put back on my shoulders for simply being honest and truthful about what I would like to do.

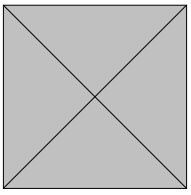
Subject: Blockchain is best known as the digital ledger platform behind Bitcoin.

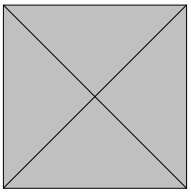
Wednesday, January 17 | 11am PT/2pm ET | Register now

Blockchain is best known as the digital ledger platform behind Bitcoin. But now the secure, decentralized technology used to track digital currency transactions is poised to disrupt the real estate industry – and that could have big implications for government agencies. Advocates say blockchain will digitize the often lengthy and convoluted paper trail associated with real property transactions – driving down costs, improving accuracy and reducing fraud. Some believe this shift ultimately could make property transactions as quick and seamless as stock trading.

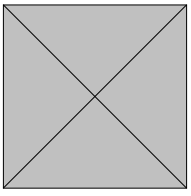
Featured Speakers:



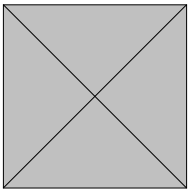
John Mirkovic, Deputy Chief of Staff, Recorder of Deeds, Cook County, IL



Mark Ladd, President, Property Records Industry Association (PRIA)



Keith Nichols, Managing Director, Thomson Reuters Tax & Accounting Government



Morgan Wright, Former Senior Advisor, US State Department, Antiterrorism Assistance Program & Senior Fellow, Governing Institute

Join us on January 17 at 11am Pacific/2pm Eastern for an interactive, hour-long webinar where we'll discuss what blockchain means for government offices that store and process property records, assess property values, collect property taxes and regulate the real estate industry. You'll learn more about:

- What blockchain is and how it works
- How it potentially impacts your agency and community -- and how you can prepare
- Where government blockchain pilots already are underway

BofA, JPMorgan, Wells Fargo Take 2nd Shot At Living Wills

Bank of America Corp., JPMorgan Chase & Co., Wells Fargo & Co. and two other giant banks have submitted revised versions of the so-called living wills that federal regulators rejected under threat of sanctions earlier this year, federal regulators announced Tuesday.

Investor Watchdog Slams NYSE Plan On Termination Forms

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's investor advocate sent a letter to the commission on Monday slamming plans by two NYSE Group exchanges to give firms more time to file notices when employees are fired, saying the added time could encourage fraud.

SEC Says Tilton's Latest Challenge Is Barred By Prior Case

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission urged a New York federal judge Tuesday to toss a case from private equity mogul Lynn Tilton challenging the constitutionality of its in-house administrative proceedings, saying the court lacks jurisdiction under a recent Second Circuit ruling in another Tilton suit.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Environmentalists Urge Obama Not To Expand Gulf Drilling

Nearly 70 environmental groups asked President Barack Obama in a letter on Tuesday not to expand oil drilling in the Gulf of Mexico in the 2017-2022 Outer Continental Shelf Oil and Gas Leasing Program, saying that energy extraction in that region has already "wreaked havoc" on Gulf Coast communities and ecosystems.

Enviros Get Corps Memo Added To Water Rule Appeal

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on Tuesday mostly won their bid to keep social media posts and internal memos out of the Sixth Circuit appeal of their Clean Water Rule, with environmental groups landing one memo they sought and industry challengers and states coming up dry.

Best Of Times And Worst Of Times For International IP

While the intellectual property environment is healthy, the international trade environment is not. The troubling situation raises the question of whether prevailing anti-trade sentiment will undercut IP harmonization progress and jeopardize the future of the global IP system, say Jay Erstling and Amy Salmela of Patterson Thuente Pedersen PA.

A Step Toward A Limited-Purpose Fintech Charter

The recent unveiling of a regulatory framework that fleshes out the receivership provisions of the National Bank Act continues to pave the way for the rollout of a limited-purpose financial technology banking charter. Nevertheless, uninsured national banks as well as fintech firms would be wise to critically review the proposal, say attorneys with Arnold & Porter LLP.

LEGAL INDUSTRY

Government's Willful Blindness Theories Put Lawyers At Risk

The government's recent focus on holding individuals accountable for corporate misdeeds is supporting the rise of aggressive theories of prosecution, including the idea that even absent actual knowledge, they should have known something was amiss — and defense experts say that's an especially dangerous development for attorneys.

Those with good people skills are generally empathetic and have the innate ability to step out of their own shoes and into the shoes of another person. If you can do that, you'll be able to understand your clients' needs, their expectations and what is keeping them up at night, says Phil Cha, vice chairman of the environmental law group at Archer & Greiner PC.

Rainmaker Q&A: Deans & Lyons' Chad Castille

When I found out a potential client who kept rescheduling our meetings loved to play racquetball, I decided to pitch the idea of setting up our meeting over a game. The only issue was that I had never played racquetball. We ended up playing and he enjoyed beating me in every match. His company is still a client today and he still enjoys beating me in racquetball, says Chad Castille, a managing partner at Deans & Lyons LLP.

Panama Papers amps pending rules at Treasury

Yesterday the Treasury Department announced several actions to strengthen financial transparency and combat the misuse of companies to engage in illicit activities. Treasury announced a Customer Due Diligence (CDD) Final Rule; proposed Beneficial Ownership legislation; and proposed regulations related to foreign-owned, single-member limited liability companies.

"Together, these efforts target key points of access to the international financial system," Treasury stated, "when companies open accounts at financial institutions, when companies are formed, or when company ownership is transferred, and when foreign-owned U.S. companies seek to evade their taxes." Costco Anywhere Visa Business Card by Citi
The standard variable APR for purchases is 16.49%. The standard variable APR for cash advances is 23.24%. Variable penalty APR up to 29.99% and applies if you pay late or your payment is returned. Minimum interest charge – $0.50. Fee for foreign purchases –None. Cash advance fee – either $10 or 5% of the amount of each cash advance, whichever is greater. No annual fee with paid Costco membership. New cardmembers only. Subject to credit approval. Additional limitations, terms and conditions apply. You will be given further information when you apply. Variable rates shown above are based on the 4.50% Prime Rate as of 2/1/2018.

Costco Cash Rewards Program Terms:
Your Costco Anywhere Visa® Card by Citi and/or Costco Anywhere Visa Business Card by Citi account ("Card Account") will earn Costco Cash Rewards based on your purchases that can be redeemed for merchandise or cash back at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including Puerto Rico ("Costco Cash Rewards").

Earning Costco Cash Rewards on Purchases: You'll earn Costco Cash Rewards for purchases using your Card Account, minus returns and refunds, as follows:

- 4% cash back on eligible gas worldwide, including gas at Costco, for the first $7,000 per year in gas purchases and then 1% thereafter.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1% cash back, not 4%, for gas purchased at superstores, supermarkets, convenience stores and warehouse clubs other than Costco or for fuel used for non-automobile purposes.
- 3% cash back on restaurant (including cafes, bars, lounges and fast food restaurants) and eligible travel purchases worldwide, including airfare, hotels, car rentals, travel agencies, cruise lines and Costco Travel.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1%, not 3%, for purchases made at bakeries and certain restaurants/cafes inside department stores, grocery or warehouse clubs.
- 2% cash back on all other purchases from Costco and Costco.com.
- 1% cash back on all other purchases, including the non-qualifying purchases listed above.

Merchant Classification: Each merchant - that is a retailer, business or any other place where you can make a purchase - is assigned a code that indicates the merchant's area of business. For example, restaurants are generally assigned a specific merchant code. We don't assign or have any control over merchant codes. Codes are chosen and assigned by a third party, who may change the codes from time to time. When you make a purchase at a merchant, we're provided the code for that merchant. If the code matches a category that gives you additional Costco Cash Rewards - for example, if the merchant code tells us that you made a purchase at a restaurant - we'll give you the additional Costco Cash Rewards for that purchase. Because we don't control what code a merchant is assigned, sometimes a purchase that you think fits a certain category may not earn additional Costco Cash Rewards. For example, a restaurant located within a large retail outlet may not be assigned a "restaurant" code, but rather a "retailer" code. This means that even though you receive additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at "restaurants," you won't earn additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at that restaurant.

What doesn't qualify as a purchase?: The following types of transactions don't qualify as purchases that earn Costco Cash Rewards:

- Use of checks that access your Card Account
- Balance transfers
- Cash advances
- Travelers checks, foreign currency purchases, money orders, wire transfers and similar cash-like transactions
- Lottery tickets, gaming chips and similar betting transactions
- Interest and account fees
- Unauthorized charges
- Items returned for credit

Returns: Returned items may result in credits being applied to your Card Account which will reduce or may eliminate accumulated Costco Cash Rewards and may result in a negative cash rewards balance. If your Card Account has a negative Costco Cash Rewards balance, any newly earned Costco Cash Rewards will be used to offset such negative Costco Cash Rewards balance until such balance has been brought to zero.

Redeeming Costco Cash Rewards: Your reward is distributed annually, in the form of a credit card reward certificate, once your February billing statement closes, and is redeemable through December 31 of the year issued in a single transaction at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including in Puerto Rico, for merchandise or cash back. The credit card reward certificate will contain your Costco Cash Rewards balance based on your eligible purchases during the annual reward period. The annual reward period is based on January through December billing statements. Should you choose to redeem only a portion of the certificate for merchandise, you will receive the remaining balance in cash at the Costco warehouse register upon checkout. Some warehouses may not permit the credit card reward certificate to be redeemed for alcohol purchases. Requests for cash may be fulfilled in the form of a check at Costco’s discretion. Your credit card reward certificate must be redeemed in person on or prior to its expiration date of December 31 in the year in which it is issued. Any Costco Cash Rewards you have earned on purchases made by authorized users on your Card Account will be added to your Costco Cash Rewards total. Only you, the primary cardmember, are eligible to receive the annual credit card reward certificate; however, you or anyone you authorize may redeem the certificate. You will not receive a credit card reward certificate if your reward is less than $1 or your account is closed at the time your credit card reward certificate is scheduled to be sent; any Costco Cash Rewards that had been accrued at that time will be forfeited. You must maintain your Costco Membership to redeem your credit card reward certificate.

Account Closure: If we close your Card Account, you will no longer be able to earn Costco Cash Rewards, and you will forfeit any Costco Cash Rewards accumulated, but not yet distributed. If you close or convert your Card Account prior to receiving the credit card reward certificate in your February billing statement, any earned Costco Cash Rewards will be forfeited.

Forfeiture: All Costco Cash Rewards not disbursed via an annual credit card reward certificate due to the reward amount being less than $1, the account status (including account closure), or other reasons, will be forfeited. Additionally, any Costco Cash Rewards not redeemed by December 31 of the year of issuance of the credit card reward certificate will be forfeited.

Value of Costco Cash Rewards: Costco Cash Rewards have no cash value until such time as they are redeemed at a Costco warehouse.

Property Rights: You have no property rights or other legal interests in Costco Cash Rewards. Costco Cash Rewards may not be transferred to any other person including through such events as inheritance, bankruptcy or divorce. Costco Cash Rewards cannot be assigned or pledged.

Changes to Program Rules: We may make changes to the Costco Cash Rewards Program at any time without notice. We will give you 30 days' written notice if we make any of the following changes: a change that negatively affects the number of Costco Cash Rewards you can earn, a change that negatively affects how/when you may lose your Costco Cash Rewards, a change that negatively affects how you can exercise your rights with respect to Costco Cash Rewards, or if we cancel the program.

Fraud: If we see evidence of fraud, misuse, abuse, or suspicious activity, we will investigate and, if we determine that fraud, misuse or abuse has occurred, we may take actions against you. These actions may include, without limitation:

- Taking away the Costco Cash Rewards you earned because of fraud, misuse or abuse
- Preventing you from earning Costco Cash Rewards
- Suspending or closing your Costco Cash Rewards Account
- Taking legal action to recover Costco Cash Rewards redeemed because of such activity and to recover our monetary losses, including litigation costs and damages

Some examples of fraud, misuse, abuse and suspicious activity include:

- Using your Card Account in an abusive manner for the primary purpose of acquiring Costco Cash Rewards
- Using your Consumer Card Account other than primarily for personal, consumer or household purposes
- Using your Business Card Account other than for business or commercial purposes

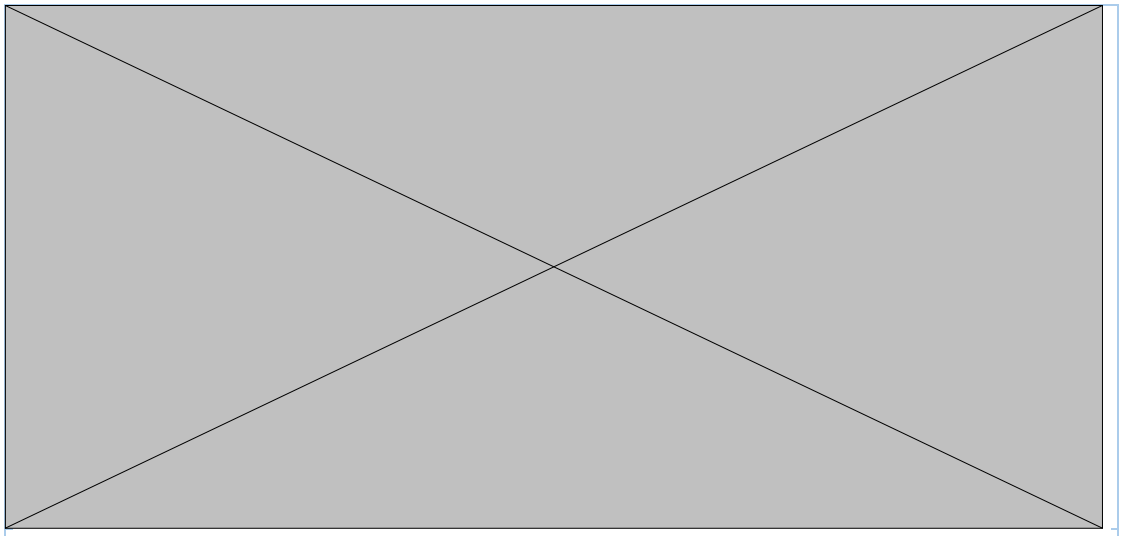
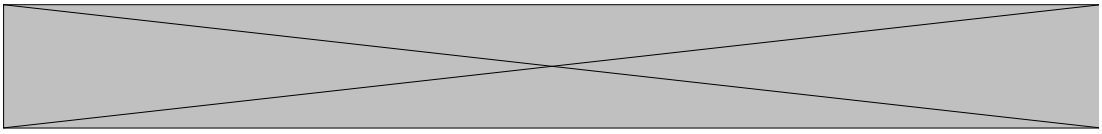
Subject: [Newsletter] [Marketing Mail] Beat Those Post-Holiday Chargeback Blues [Free eBook]





It was a jolly 2015 holiday season, with a record $70 billion in online sales. Total eCommerce sales jumped 14% and mCommerce skyrocketed 47%. Unfortunately, with record sales come projections of record chargebacks. All indications are this holiday season had the highest fraud ever.

In fact, fraud will be responsible for nearly 2 out of every 3 chargebacks in November and December. On top of that, the 60-90 day lag in chargeback reporting only adds to the problem, making "naughty" orders look "nice" until it's way too late. Download this eBook to learn how you can get ahead of the curve and beat those Post-Holiday Chargeback Blues:

- What holiday chargebacks are really costing you
- How the 60-90 day lag in chargeback reporting hides holiday fraud
- How mobile (2X more likely to involve fraud) dominated the holidays
- Key capabilities you need to protect against holiday chargeback fraud

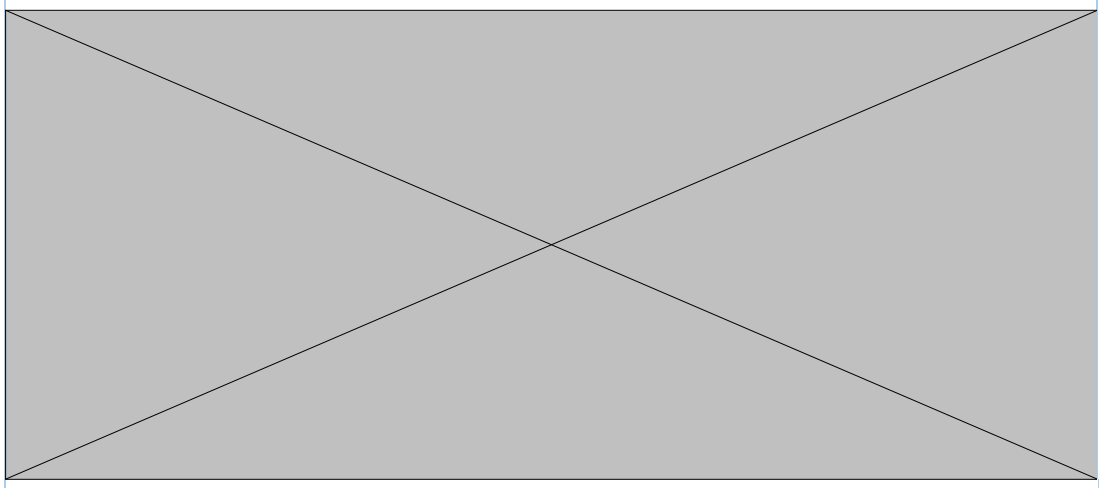
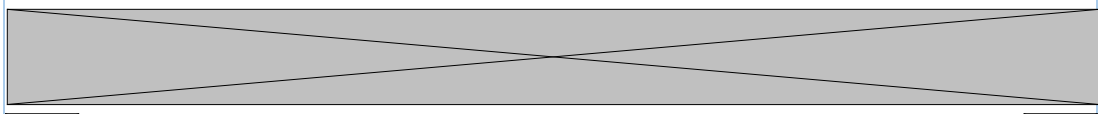
Subject: [Marketing Mail] How Online Merchants Are Approving More Orders [eBook]

This is an WebProNews Sponsor Update

Are Manual Reviews Robbing You of Profits? – Download eBook





More and more merchants are relying on manual reviews as one of their last lines of defense against fraud. Yet even as the use of manual reviews increases, data confirms that the "average" manual review process is taking longer and costing more... with no visible impact on decline or approval rates. What's more, accelerating e-commerce volumes, innovations like mobile wallets, and special requirements like in-game purchasing seem likely to aggravate the problem even further.

Discover six best practices to reduce or eliminate manual reviews from the industry average of 27% of orders to 5% or less — while actually improving fraud prevention and order approval rates. Download this eBook to learn:

- How automated screening reduces the number of manual reviews
- How to best capitalize on artificial intelligence and human insight
- How to reduce time per review from minutes or hours to seconds

Crisis Pregnancy Center Fraud Prevention Act: The City of Oakland, California recently enacted a truth-in-advertising law that addresses fraud by crisis pregnancy centers, which are anti-abortion offices masquerading as medical clinics. The Oakland statute is similar to a 2011 San Francisco law which was upheld in federal court. Our model bill, the Crisis Pregnancy Center Fraud Prevention Act can be adopted at either the state or local level.

Notwithstanding Hillary, why aren't more women in public office? Only 20 percent of the Members of Congress, 25 percent of statewide elected officials, 25 percent of state legislators, and less than 19 percent of mayors are female. Why? Read about it on IdeaLog, our blog intended to raise eyebrows and engage minds.

The Science of Political Persuasion: We won't present a live webinar next week because we'll be at the National Conference of State Legislatures. But let us invite you to watch a pre-recorded 20-minute podcast on the Science of Political Persuasion. It explains how emotion, preexisting beliefs and confirmation bias tend to block your ability to convince others, and how to get around those obstacles.

Early Childhood Education Workforce: The Center for the Study of Child Care Employment issued a study tracking the employment conditions of child care workers in every state. Among other things, the report finds that "early educators are among the lowest-paid workers in the country" with nearly half receiving some form of public assistance.

CEOs make 276 times more than typical workers: The Economic Policy Institute presents a new article showing the increase in CEO compensation compared to company workers. In the 1970s, CEOs made 20-30 times more than workers; in the 1980s it was 30-60 times more. The amount ballooned in the mid-1990s and has since gone up and down with the economy.

White Paper - Mobile Account Opening: Solving The Convenience-Risk Conundrum - Download White Paper Now >

Mobile devices dominate consumer interactions with financial institutions—except account opening, because of fraud and compliance concerns. The solution lies in using mobile's unique capabilities

Most of the alternative financial technology (fintech) service providers that compete with traditional financial institutions offer digital account opening. It's the easiest and most convenient path between consumers and the financial experience they expect. Mercator Advisory Group analyst Alex Johnson believes banks must add this capability or risk losing new accounts. The challenge is how to design a mobile account opening process that is seamless for the applicant and safe for the institution.

In this Mercator Advisory Group white paper, sponsored by Mitek, you will learn:

- The current state of mobile account opening and why the trickle of new account openings will become a flood
- The conflict between greater customer convenience and the challenge of meeting "Know Your Customer" requirements and controlling fraud
- How the embedded capabilities of mobile devices—image capture, biometrics, and geolocation—can resolve this conflict and improve identification and verification
- Three criteria useful in evaluating the optimal mobile solution

Nearly 30 Senate Dems Sign On To Scientific Integrity Bill

A group of Senate Democrats have co-sponsored a bill aimed at protecting scientific integrity within U.S. governmental agencies in the wake of concerns by some about whether the Trump Administration will support the objective scientific process and allow scientists to communicate freely with the public, according to a Thursday announcement.

Pa. Justices Urged To Nix Fracking Rule Injunction

Pennsylvania's environmental regulators urged the state Supreme Court on Wednesday to overturn an injunction blocking new regulations governing surface areas near gas drilling and hydraulic fracturing, saying the lower court erred when it granted the "extraordinary remedy" of a preliminary injunction.

Oil Group Fights EPA 2017 Biofuel Requirements In DC Circ.

The American Petroleum Institute, a longtime foe of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's renewable fuels program, on Thursday challenged the agency's 2017 renewable fuel volume requirements in the D.C. Circuit.

States, Cos. Tell DC Circ. To Uphold EPA Mercury Rule

Several states and local governments, along with two energy companies, on Friday told the D.C. Circuit it should uphold the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's Mercury and Air Toxics Standards rule, arguing the cost-benefit analysis it performed to comply with a U.S. Supreme Court order proves the rule's necessity.

Judge Finds Scant Evidence For Trump's Immigration Ban

A Virginia federal judge battered the Trump administration Friday for lacking a "scintilla of evidence" to justify an immigration ban targeting seven Muslim-majority countries, weighing whether to impose a more lasting block on the controversial policy than that upheld Thursday evening by the Ninth Circuit.

US Trying To Resolve Yemeni Visa Issues, Calif. Judge Told

The federal government is working to settle the legal claims of Yemeni immigrants who say they were issued visas but improperly prevented from coming to the United States because of the Trump administration's travel ban, a Justice Department attorney told a California judge at a hearing Friday.

New Crime-Of-Violence Deportation Case Hits Supreme Court

The U.S. Supreme Court should take up a Third Circuit ruling that a federal statute defining a "crime of violence" is unconstitutionally vague, but delay review until the justices decide another deportation case examining the same question, the federal government has said.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

FCC's Auction Tally Rises To $19.6B As Bidding Ends

The Federal Communications Commission said Friday that it had racked up $19.6 billion in bids for spectrum for wireless use as a portion of the broadcast incentive auction came to an end Friday, with the FCC moving forward in a process to clear the 84 MHz of spectrum set to be repurposed.

Senator Presses FCC To Limit Cable Contract Terms

U.S. Sen. Claire McCaskill, D-Mo., has urged the new Federal Communications Commission chief to act on his predecessor's plan to limit certain provisions in agreements between pay-TV providers and independent programmers, saying a Senate subcommittee investigation shows the move would increase competition and viewer choice.

Next-Gen Broadcasting Perilous For Small Cable, FCC Told

The American Cable Association has urged the Federal Communications Commission to beware of the potential capacity strains that small cable companies could face with the approval of a next-generation broadcasting standard, saying the proposed transition "holds great peril."

Senate Dems Urge FCC To Return Lifeline Eligibility To Cos.

Fifteen senators said they were "deeply troubled" by the Federal Communications Commission's recent decision to strip nine companies of eligibility to provide broadband service under the Lifeline program for low-income users, urging the commission's chairman to reconsider in a letter Friday.

Municipalities Warn FCC Against 5G Infrastructure Mandate

Several city and town leaders from across the country have urged the Federal Communications Commission against a broad federal mandate to clear the way for infrastructure for next-generation wireless technology at the local level, citing existing staffing and other challenges.

FCC Head Says Staff Can't Edit Rules After Passage

Federal Communications Commission chairman Ajit Pai announced a measure Thursday that curtails so-called editorial privileges customarily conferred on agency staff members, prohibiting staffers from substantially changing proposals after the commission passes them.

Trump’s Immigration Orders: A Pillar For Future Policy?

At first blush, President Donald Trump's initial immigration executive orders appeared to cover issues related to illegal immigration and the building of his border wall. But on a closer look, these orders appear to be the key building blocks associated with the Trump administration’s immigration strategy, say Christopher Thomas and Phillip Pemberton of Ogletree Deakins Nash Smoak & Stewart PC.

State AGs Can Enforce Emoluments Clause Against Trump

Many argue that President Donald Trump is violating the Constitution's emoluments clause, because foreign states and officials are making payments to Trump through his businesses. Quo warranto — an obscure legal procedure previously used by "birthers" against President Obama — empowers state attorneys general to pursue Trump's business entities for emoluments clause violations, says Jed Shugerman of Fordham University Law School.

The (Not-So-Certain) Future Of EPA's Vapor Intrusion Rule

If the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, under direction of the new administration, determines its final vapor intrusion rule raises a “substantial question of fact, law or policy,” the issue may be subject to additional rulemaking or other further actions. In other words, the rule's future and potential impact currently are in doubt, say Gabriel Padilla of Bick Law LLP and Nadine Weinberg of ERM Group Inc.

How Open-End Funds Can Utilize Swing Pricing

Swing pricing works by allowing a fund to respond to significant purchase or redemption activity on a trading day by artificially reducing its net asset value. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's recent acceptance of the concept evidences its concern with the risk of shareholder dilution resulting from transaction costs, say Gary Granik and Kim Kaufman of Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP.

In Congress: CRA Disapprovals, Sub-Cabinet, Mnuchin

House Joint Resolution 43 is likely to draw the most public attention of the five Congressional Review Act disapproval resolutions in the House this week, given the political sensitivity of abortion and family-planning services. Across the Capitol, a vote is expected on the nomination of Steven Mnuchin to serve as Secretary of the Treasury. Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP review the full calendar.

Opinion

Lawyers Cannot Stay Silent While Trump Belittles The Courts

This is not the first time that a president has criticized the judiciary. But what is unique about President Donald Trump's attacks is that they target not just a specific decision, but the judiciary and its decision-making power altogether. Every lawyer, regardless of political persuasion, must speak up, says Alexandra Wald of Cohen & Gresser LLP.

LEXIS PRACTICE ADVISOR

Implications Of Closing The 'Carried-Interest Loophole'

Politicians from both major political parties tout closing the “carried-interest loophole” as a primary aspect of their tax reform agendas. Carried-interest legislation, if enacted, would impose questions and challenges not only on private equity firms and their advisers, but on a wide array of businesses, says Robert Starin of K&L Gates LLP.

Trump Names Gen. Kelly To Head DHS, Advocates Worried

President-elect Donald J. Trump on Monday officially nominated Gen. John Kelly to serve as secretary of the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, saying his decades of military service and deep commitment to fighting the terrorism threat inside the nation's borders make him ideal, while immigrants' rights advocates say otherwise.

A Call For Nationwide Consistency On Noncompetes

There is something to be said for and against all of the various approaches taken to address the nettlesome problem of noncompetes. But little can be said to justify what we now have — a complex quilt work of varying laws and rules, say Steven Kayman of Proskauer Rose LLP and Lauren Davis, a law clerk with the New Jersey Superior Court. NY Judicial Nominee Advances To Full Senate

A Senate panel voted through a Gibson McAskill & Crosby LLP partner's nomination to a vacancy on New York's federal bench Thursday, after a six-month wait in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

House OKs Bills Trimming SEC Rules On Small Businesses

The U.S. House of Representatives voted through a series of changes to securities and disclosure laws Thursday in the face of Democratic and White House criticism that the changes meant to ease small businesses' access to capital would destabilize markets and make it easier to swindle investors.

Feds Drop Case Against Ex-Va. Gov. McDonnell And His Wife

U.S. Attorney Dana J. Boente said in Thursday court filings that he will drop his high-profile corruption case against former Virginia Gov. Bob McDonnell and his wife, Maureen, telling the Fourth Circuit that the government wants a dismissal without leave to refile.

Fed Pushes For Tighter Limits On Banks' Commodity Biz

The Federal Reserve on Thursday urged Congress to repeal banks' authority to invest in nonfinancial companies and a grandfathering exemption allowing Goldman Sachs Group Inc. and Morgan Stanley to engage in physical commodity activities, further signaling regulators' unease with bank involvement in energy and other commodity sectors.

High Court Asked For Clarity On EPA Water Rule Jurisdiction

The National Association of Manufacturers has asked the U.S. Supreme Court to review the Sixth Circuit's split ruling that it has jurisdiction to hear challenges to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's and Army Corps of Engineers' controversial Clean Water Rule.

Absence Of Final MLP Status Rules Sowing Uncertainty

Final regulations on how service providers in the oil and gas industry can qualify for preferential tax treatment as master limited partnerships have been anticipated for some time, but experts say their failure to materialize is leaving taxpayers who may be impacted by changes in a state of uncertainty.

Euro Drug Pricing's Tradeoffs May Limit Appeal In US

As U.S. lawmakers call for pharmaceutical companies to rein in drug prices in the wake of Mylan’s EpiPen price increase, experts say consumers will need to weigh whether Europe and Canada's regulated, but cheaper, prices are worth the underdiscussed tradeoffs, including reduced access to some medication and stifled industry innovation.

BANKING & SECURITIES

Divided CFTC Recognizes Japanese Swap Margin Rules

The U.S. Commodity Futures Trading Commission on Thursday voted to recognize Japanese rules on swap margin requirements as compatible with the American rules that went into effect last week, despite a stern dissent from one commissioner and another’s concerns over the implementation of the regime in general.

Hong Kong Exchange Signs Memorandum With Shandong

China continued its push to internationalize its capital markets on Thursday with the signing of a memorandum of understanding, aimed at supporting and promoting future capital markets and commodities market developments, between the People’s Government of Shandong Province and the Hong Kong Stock Exchange.

SEC Judge Rebukes Tilton's 'Fishing Expedition'

A U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission judge on Thursday said the agency doesn't have to turn over notes and audio related to witness interviews in its $200 million fraud case against private equity magnate Lynn Tilton, saying Tilton seems to be on a fishing expedition.

AT&T Tells DC Circ. Local Carriers Can't Collect VoIP Fees

Telecommunications giant AT&T Inc. urged a D.C. Circuit panel Thursday to toss a decision that would allow local carriers to collect local access fees for sending calls "over-the-top" of internet service providers' equipment, arguing the agency would allow carriers to collect for services they did not perform.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

There's A New Sheriff In Town For AD And CVD Orders

If you import goods subject to anti-dumping or countervailing duty orders, get ready for potentially tougher investigations. The release of new enforcement regulations signals the latest of U.S. Customs and Border Protection's efforts to increase its focus on investigating potential instances of evasion by importers and enforcing trade remedy laws, say attorneys with Venable LLP.

NAIC's New Cybersecurity Model Law Draft Is Still Flawed

While the National Association of Insurance Commissioners' latest draft of its revised cybersecurity model law addresses some concerns that insurers previously raised, other fundamental problems remain, including surrounding uniformity and superseding of other state notification laws, says John Pitblado of Carlton Fields Jorden Burt PA.

Finding The Right Way To Deal With Patent Demand Letters

How best to respond to demand letters from nonpracticing entities remains a challenging question for many companies. A recent case brought by a Maryland company that received a demand letter from a well-known NPE provides a window into some pros and cons of different approaches, say Joshua Dalton and Sarah Paige of Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

Legal lions from Littler Mendelson PC and Gibson Dunn were steady at the wheel for ride-hailing giant Uber, winning a major federal decision on the future of labor claims brought by drivers. Our legal lambs are led by an inventor and lawyers who pressed "bad faith" patent suits and will end up footing their opponent's legal bills.

Rainmaker Q&A: Morgan Lewis' Anne Marie Estevez

Never say no if someone needs a favor or you can proactively help a company avoid a significant issue or risk. It takes time, but “what goes around, comes around” more frequently than many think, says Anne Marie Estevez, a labor and employment partner at Morgan Lewis & Bockius LLP.

Rainmaker Q&A: Much Shelist's Mitchell Roth

Part of remaining a rainmaker is surrounding yourself with a great team. You can’t continue to build a larger practice if you have to do all the work. Behind every great rainmaker is a great team, says Mitchell Roth, a managing partner and principal at Much Shelist PC.

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI).

Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Good morning, everyone. In case you missed it, Donald Trump said on "Today" this AM that he wants to be more understated and more of a statesman. Shortely thereafter, he unleashed a Tweetstorm accusing Ted Cruz of fraud in Iowa and calling for a new election. I'm not kidding. Oh, and in case you missed it, Rand is out.

Tonight on "Ralston Live," we have Sunrun's Bryan Miller (taped yesterday, see below). Last night, we had Labor Secretary Tom Perez.

What's below: TV spending in WH race, Adelson News reveals itself, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Strip hotel rebranding.

COMING UP

Watch "Ralston Live" tonight to see some pretty remarkable statements from SunRun's Bryan Miller. Not only did he guarantee a lawsuit against the PUC for "breaking the law" if it does not reverse its entire net metering decision (not just the grandfathering part), but he called Gov. Brian Sandoval a liar and said the governor's undue political influence on the regulators will be the first line in his bio. It is something else, dear Flashees.

WHO'S SPENDING WHAT ON TV HERE?

Bernie is outspending Hillary on TV in Nevada, but she is catching up. And Marco is all in here. The details.

MORE OMINOUS DOINGS AT THE ADELSON NEWS

Yes, it's embarrassing to put a sports column about the Sheldon Raiders on Page One. But here's something more scary: I am reliably told that Alan Snel, who announced this week he is leaving the newspaper, wrote a strong story featuring critics of the stadium's public financing scheme and it was spiked. "I cannot really confirm or deny anything," Snel told me in a brief conversation Tuesday.

But one source with knowledge of what occurred told me the story was killed. Editor Glenn Cook did not respond to an inquiry, and my usual RJ peeps were silent, too.

So: Fluffy columns, reversed editorial positions, overplayed stuff in the newshole. Meet the Adelson News, dear Flashees.

A QUINTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Astrid Silva endorses Hillary today, along with other DREAMers. We. Matter.

Nugget No. 2 – Congressional candidate Lucy Flores keeps tweeting about her Sanderslove. But her latest campaign manager, Monica Perez, is a huge Hillary supporter and keeps tweeting about how wonderful she is. Awkward.

Nugget No. 3 – ICYMI, Catherine Cortez Masto and Joe Heck raised about the same last quarter, but Heck has a million dollars more on hand. Not insignificant, but not determinative.

Nugget No. 4 – The RCG jobs report has lots of good stuff.

Nugget No. 5 – Keep an eye on that adverse taxi regulatory audit and the companies fighting back. Owners considering legal action, hiring financial analysts to do audit of audit. Ugly.

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Megan Messerly on the Tom Perez visit.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Early Nevadans had a difficult time understanding or trusting the Asian population, which of course was comprised mostly of Chinese and Japanese immigrants. In early 1900s, in California, the growth of the Japanese population was viewed as a "problem" by many. Japanese immigrants moving to the United States for more opportunity were even buying land. The California legislature in January 1909 was considering anti-Japanese legislation. US President Theodore Roosevelt was against such legislation as bad for business and international relations. But, Nevada followed California's lead. On February 2, 1909 the Nevada State Legislature was considering Assembly Joint and Concurrent Resolution #1. In the final amended Resolution in the Nevada Assembly, the words remained harsh. Some Nevada legislators felt Japanese immigrants were agents of the Japanese Government sent to the US to acquire lands and therefor gain a foothold for some future takeover. The Resolution in its form on February 2, 1909 resonated genuine fear, and berated the Federal Government for interfering with the rights of the States. The considered Resolution included, "Whereas, agents of the Japanese Government are acquiring wheat and grain lands with which Nevada is so bounteously supplied…" This was right after the initial implementation of the Newlands Act through which irrigation was reclaiming arid lands. They may actually have believed that 1) the Japanese were coming to take over, and 2) than Nevada actually had lots of farmland. The considered Resolution referenced the "Japanese peril," "the Japanese invasion," and "the encroachment of the Japanese." When the Resolution mentions pending legislation in California, it refers to the Japanese, or at least the presumed Japanese agents, as "parasites of the world."

US President Theodore Roosevelt spoke to the US Senators representing the western States, including the US Senator for Nevada, George Nixon. Senator Nixon then sent a telegram to the Nevada Legislature on February 3, 1909. Though Nixon declined to include his own view of the alleged problem, he did express that after speaking with the President that passing such anti-Japanese legislation, though well intended, could bring unwanted results. Nixon said "the very object of the Resolution may be injured by radical action at this time." The Nevada State Assembly passed the Resolution on February 3, 1909 by a vote of 44 for, 1 against, and 3 not voting. A telegram was sent to Senator Nixon advising him of the Assembly's actions.

"… now is a better time than ever to lay down terms to that Empire and teach those arrogant people that American rights cannot be encroached on…" – proposed Assembly Joint and Concurrent Resolution #1 as amended February 2, 1909 for consideration by LegislatureFebruary 3, 1909.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

On this day in history, a Strip hotel re-opened as a nationally known brand, one perhaps most famous for its t· shirts. What hotel was it before it re-opened, and what was the new name?

Tuesday’s winner: NV Energy’s Tony Sanchez

The question: On this day in history, a letter arrived in one rural city from another. In it was a name that would become forever famous, ready to be printed for the first time. What name?

The answer: Mark Twain

Carolyn —

Big news – the White House Budget Office and Congress have each launched anti-fraud initiatives that will have a big impact on all government programs.

OMB is requiring risk assessments and fraud detection/reduction targets from each agency, while Congress has created a Commission to deal with legislative changes to target specific programs. With billions in potential fraud happening across government, these initiatives will receive a ton of oversight.

On October 23, 2017, the Performance Institute is convening the Government Fraud Analytics Summit to cover the latest mandates and present the best practices in fraud assessment, detection, mitigation and reporting.

Would you like to see the agenda and consider attending? If not, who in your agency would be the best person to follow-up with?

Thanks,

Mob involvement in Las Vegas casinos.docx

Hi Mayor and David!

I wanted to pass this along before we tape on Tuesday. Geoff typed this up for us so we all had some mob history (just in case). I will be passing this along to Bob, John and Mayor Oscar.

I hope to have a script done before the end of the day.

Thank you.

History of Mob involvement in Las Vegas casinos

The Mob's foray into Las Vegas started slowly. Bootlegging was rampant in downtown Las Vegas during Prohibition, but there is no definitive evidence that that mobsters, centered in New York and Chicago, had any interests in the isolated, small, desert town during the era of the 1920s to early 1930s.

In 1930, the first nightclub to open on the Los Angeles Highway (later Las Vegas Boulevard) was the Pair-O-Dice, a speakeasy (owned by Frank and Angelina Detra) that offered illegal alcoholic drinks and illicit gambling. The next year, when Nevada legalized casino gambling, the Pair-O-Dice obtained a license to operate casinos games. According to at least one historian, Frank Detra traveled to Northern Nevada to spread bribe money – provided by Chicago mobsters -- to Nevada legislators in exchange for voting in favor of the gambling bill, then maintained a secret partnership with the mob at the Pair-O-Dice. In 1932, a former California bootlegger, Tony Cornero, and his two brothers opened The Meadows hotel-casino off of Boulder Highway. In the late 1930s, the Detras sold the Pair-O-Dice to Guy McAfee, a former Los Angeles policeman who quit the force in the 1920s to run illegal casino bars in Los Angeles, then moved to Las Vegas. Both Cornero and McAfee likely had at least loose ties to the L.A. underworld, however, not with the major crime families in East and Midwest.

But the first "real" mobster to enter the Las Vegas gambling scene was Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, in 1941, the year Nevada legalized bookmaking by permitting the dissemination of out-of-state horse and other racing results by phone, known as the "race wire," to service legal bookmaking in the state. Siegel had been sent by the New York mob family combine, the "Commission," out West in the late 1930s to establish a mob presence in the Hollywood movie industry. Siegel's interest in Las Vegas gambling started after he stayed at the El Rancho Vegas, the first hotel-casino resort on the L.A. Highway that opened in 1941. That set up the mob's first real investment in a Las Vegas casino. Siegel and other mob-tied investors – including Gus Greenbaum, Moe Sedway, Davie Berman and Meyer Lansky -- bought shares in the El Cortez hotel-casino downtown in 1945.

The Mob hits stride with the Flamingo

Siegel watched as his L.A. friend, William "Billy" Wilkerson struggled to build a hotel-casino project, the Flamingo, on the Highway. When Wilkerson, a heavy gambler, found himself unable to continue to finance the project, Siegel entered the picture with a large investment and soon took over with the blessing and additional cash from New York mob members, including Frank Costello. But Siegel demanded expensive luxury features and could not control expenses, which rose to about $6 million, angering his mob benefactors. When it opened on Dec. 26, 1946, the Flamingo (with its hotel rooms still under construction) made a big splash but lost money in the casino and had to close. Siegel's mob friends decided he had to be eliminated in favor of new management. He was killed by a hit man in June 1947, and within minutes, Greenbaum, Sedway and Morris Rosen walked into the casino to announce they were now managing the place. Other investors included Berman, hired killer Israel "Ice Pick Willie" Alderman, convicted bookmakers Jack Burke and Sam Diamond and convicted pimp Albert C. Abrams. The Flamingo, already running a profit before Siegel's death, continued to pay off for its mob backers, making an estimated $4 million in that first year.

Thunderbird

Next on the mob's plate in the Las Vegas area was the Thunderbird hotel-casino, which debuted in 1948. Two seemingly legitimate partners, Nevada Lt. Gov. Cliff Jones and businessman Marion Hicks, were the licensees. Few knew that Hicks, in desperate need of cash to back construction of the Thunderbird, secretly received a loan of $160,000 to $190,000 from infamous New York mob executive Meyer Lansky, through Lansky's front man, George Sadlo. At the time, Lansky and his brother Jake Lansky received their shares of the under the table "skim" of casino proceeds from the Flamingo as well. Once the Nevada Tax Commission learned of Jake Lansky's presence in the Thunderbird's count room (to collect the brothers' hidden payments), and about Sadlo's role, the Lanskys were forced out. The controversy led the state to create the Nevada Gaming Control Board to regulate the industry. Jones and Hicks were kicked out, too, but won their licenses back on appeal.

Desert Inn

In the late 1940s, former bellman turned investor Wilbur Clark ran out of funds while constructing his resort project, the Desert Inn. Clark – desperate after a two-year fruitless search for legitimate sources -- sought out help from mobsters to inject the cash required to complete the project. This time the crime group hailed from Cleveland – former Prohibition-era bootleggers, known as the Mayfield Road Gang, headed by Moe Dalitz, and including Sam Tucker, Morris Kleinman, Thomas McGinty, Ruby Kolod and Lou Rothkopf. With Clark serving as the "front," Dalitz and his crew invested from $1.5 million to $5 million to finish what was dubbed "Wilbur Clark's Desert Inn." Dalitz would pay his hidden partners Meyer Lansky, Costello and Chicago's Sam Giancana their cuts of the skim into the 1950s.

Sands

In 1952, the Sands hotel, what would soon be one of the most celebrated casinos on the Las Vegas Strip, opened with a nod to expensive, high-class entertainment, arranged by Jack Entratter, former entertainment chief of the mob-controlled Stork Club and Copacabana, famous nightclubs in New York. Entratter held a two percent interest in the Sands and oversaw the skim for hidden investors who owned another 10 percent. The list of the Sands' secret investors also included New York mobster Vincent "Jimmy Blue Eyes" Alo, and Joseph "Doc" Stacher, who was a close associate of Meyer Lansky and Frank Costello (Stacher also held secret interests in Binion's Horseshoe and Fremont casinos in downtown Las Vegas).

Riviera

The Riviera would stand as the first high-rise hotel-casino in Las Vegas when it opened in 1955, at a then-expensive cost of $10 million. But soon hit by money problems, its legitimate owners, based in Florida, retained the hotel section and sold the casino rights to mob investors, headed by former Flamingo manager Gus Greenbaum. Living in semi-retirement in Arizona, Greenbaum did not want to return to casino management, but relented after Chicago mobsters Tony Accardo and Jake "Greasy Thumb" Guzik threated harm to him and his family. The mob men sought Greenbaum for his abilities as a casino manager. He hired his Flamingo crewmen including Alderman, Berman, Charles "Kewpie" Rich and Ben Gofstein. Greenbaum supervised the skim to provide cash for the Riviera's hidden Chicago mob investors, but in 1958, after going against the mob's wishes and quitting to return to Arizona, Greenbaum and his wife were brutally killed in their Phoenix home. In the 1960s, ex-Cleveland mobster Moe Dalitz would run the Riviera's casino in secret with the assistance of a front man.

Dunes

One of the Las Vegas hotel-casinos to open in 1955, the Dunes landed on the Strip thanks to two legitimate business investors, Alfred Gottesman and Bob Rice, and another man thought to be without mob ties, Joe Sullivan. But Sullivan turned out to be a pawn for the Raymond Patriarca crime family based in Providence, Rhode Island. The following year, the partners sold the Dunes to James "Jake" Gottlieb, a front man for the Chicago mob who had dealings with corrupt Teamsters union boss Jimmy Hoffa. In 1963, local banker E. Parry Thomas took over the Dunes after his Bank of Las Vegas loaned $14 million to the hotel. Thomas then sold it, making more than $7 million on the deal, to Leonard J. Campbell Enterprises with Charles "Kewpie" Rich, a front for St. Louis mob boss Tony Giordano, serving as the broker. Rich and mob associate Sid Wyman retained hidden interests in the Dunes. Other shady sales deals for the Dunes in the late 1960s led to the indictment of six partners on skimming and tax evasion charges. In the 1980s, Morris Shenker, the elderly lawyer for Jimmy Hoffa and an associate of Meyer Lansky, took ownership prior to the property's sale to Steve Wynn.

Fremont

A new hotel-casino completed in downtown Las Vegas in 1956, the Fremont, essentially served top mob figure, Miami-based Meyer Lansky, as a so-called "clearing house" for funds skimmed from Vegas casinos for eventual delivery to him and other mob investors. The casinos included the Sands and Flamingo on the Strip and the Fremont's downtown neighbor, Binion's Horseshoe. Skimmed cash was picked up from the casinos and dropped off at the Fremont. Some say that a hotel bakery delivery truck was used to help ferret the money. The FBI estimated that Lansky controlled a combined 42 points of the Vegas casinos. The points, worth $52,500 each, were used to calculate the shares of the skim (estimated at about $2,000 per point per month). Lansky invested about $2 million and earned about $1 million annually from the casinos. A woman named Ida Devine, married to the Fremont's meat vendor, is alleged to have served as cash courier – at $100,000 per delivery – by traveling by train from Las Vegas to Chicago, Arkansas and Miami. Ed Levinson, a close Lansky associate who earlier ran Lansky's Havana Riviera casino in Cuba, operated the Fremont for years. The FBI, though a listening device planted in the Fremont, overheard Ben Siegelbaum, an associate of Levinson, tell him that Lansky requested a "breakdown" on cash to be sent to Lansky and other hidden interest holders: New Jersey-based hoodlums Gerry Catena and Longie Zwillman, Siegelbaum himself and "J.B" whom investigators surmised was New York mobster Vincent "Jimmy Blue Eyes" Alo. The FBI heard Catena was getting around $150,000 a month from his secret Vegas casino holdings. However, since the listening devices, or "bugs," were not planted legally, the information could not be used in court.

Tropicana

The next major Strip hotel opening was the Tropicana, on April 4, 1957. The hotel's principal owner, Ben Jaffe, sold off his interest in the Fontainebleau hotel in Miami to invest $5 million into ensuring completion of the Tropicana. But little more than three weeks after the opening, an incident in New York City would reveal that hidden interests were siphoning the hotel's earnings. An associate of a rival New York mobster shot and wounded veteran crime boss Frank Costello. While investigating the shooting, police found in Costello's jacket a written note detailing the take, as of April 27, of a hefty $651,284 from the Tropicana's casino. There were notations of $30,000 to "L" and $9,000 to "H." Investigators interpreted "L" as meaning Meyer Lansky and "H" for Jimmy Hoffa, the mob-connected head of the Teamsters Union who had started doling out Teamster pension fund loans to build hotel-casinos in Las Vegas, including the Tropicana. The $9,000 was Hoffa's kickback. Costello's contact at the Tropicana was Phil Kastel, Jaffe's pick to run the Tropicana's casino, but who was denied a state gaming license. Jaffe had to agree to appoint a licensee acceptable to state gaming officials, the veteran casino owner J. Kell Houssels who had no discernable mob ties. But that wasn't the end to the Tropicana's brushes with the mob.

In 1970, Houssels sold out to Trans-Texas Airways which in turn sold to Minnesota man Deil Gustafson. But within a few years, the gaming board learned that some mobsters from Detroit had refused to pay the hotel back for losing money in the casino. Under pressure, Gustafson sold a 51 percent majority stake to a "clean" investor, the wealthy Stauffer Chemical heiress, Mitzi Stauffer Briggs. But in 1975, some other investors joined the fray, and a man named Joe Agosto was named head of the hotel's Folies Bergere dance show.

The FBI began Operation Strawman, an investigation of mob ties in Las Vegas casinos, starting with the Tropicana. Even state gaming officials were caught unaware that Agosto was a front for the Kansas City mob's skimming operation at the Tropicana, which sent the proceeds to mob boss Joseph Aiuppa in Chicago and other mobsters in Kansas, City and Milwaukee. The FBI later found out that Agosto communicated with the Kansas City mob figure Carl DeLuna about the skim at the Tropicana and with Chicago boss Tony Accardo about the skim at the Stardust casino on the Strip. In 1978, the FBI, listening to a hidden microphone in the home of Kansas City boss Nick Civella, heard Civella's brother Carl authorize a mob hit. Agents then heard Agosto associate and veteran Vegas casino manager Carl Thomas describe how skimming works – the so-called "21 holes in the bucket," or ways to steal casino money prior to the count for tax purposes.

The FBI also found out that a courier, Carl Caruso, had been flying back and forth from Las Vegas and Kansas City to drop off cash for Kansas City and Chicago mobsters. Nevada then forced Briggs and Gustafson out and the Ramada hotel chain bought the Tropicana.

In the end, on Nov. 5, 1981, a federal grand jury in Kansas City indicted 11 people, including the Civellas and DeLuna, in the skimming at the Tropicana. That same day, another grand jury in St. Paul, Minnesota, indicted Agosto, Gustafson and others in a check fraud scheme at the Tropicana. In the next phase of Operation Strawman, the FBI targeted Chicago boss Accardo's dealings with casinos owned by Agent Corp. in Las Vegas.

Stardust

The last of the venerable Strip resorts completed in the 1950s, the Stardust was the dream project of Tony Cornero, the former rumrunner and part owner of The Meadows in Las Vegas. But while the Stardust was in its early stages, Cornero died of a heart attack in the casino of the Desert Inn, run by Moe Dalitz's group. Three Chicago mobsters, Johnny Rosselli, Jake Guzik and Murray Humphreys, all interested in the Stardust, convinced a wealth investor, Jake "The Barber" Factor, to obtain ownership. The Stardust opened in 1958. Among those in on the skim at there was Chicago mobster Sam Giancana. Tony Accardo and mob associate Johnny Drew hired Dalitz and his crew to manage the casino.

Caesars Palace

Jay Sarno was the owner of a chain of motels when he arrived in Las Vegas in the early 1960s, and decided to build a lavish hotel-casino. Sarno would seek financial help from Hoffa's Teamsters via the union's pension fund through Hoffa's contact with the Chicago mob, Allen Dorfman. Sarno opened his Caesars Place in 1966, but it wasn't until he sold out to Clifford and Stuart Perlman in 1969 that federal investigators discovered that Chicago mobsters Accardo and Giancana, Vincent Alo and Tony Salerno of New York's Genovese family, plus New England mobsters Ray Patriarca, Joseph Anselmo, Jerry Angiulo and Joseph Palermo, were skimming shares of the casino's proceeds at Caesars.

Aladdin

Legitimate businessman Milton Prell, who built the Sahara hotel, opened his latest casino project, the Aladdin, in 1966. But after suffering a stroke a year later, Prell decided to sell out. In the coming years with new management teams at the Aladdin, federal investigations learned that the hotel had been giving comps to mobsters from Detroit and St. Louis. Nevada gaming officials probed possible hidden interested in the Aladdin held by Detroit mob associate Charles Goldfarb, mob boss Vito Giacalone and mob associate James Tamer. Later, it came out that Goldfarb owned a secret interest in the Aladdin and gave orders about it to Tamer, who ran the hotel's showroom. Tamer would be convicted in Michigan of conspiring to hide the secret interests and Goldfarb and Giacalone were convicted of holding the interests.

Circus Circus

Jay Sarno, as he did two years before with Caesars Palace, used a loan from Hoffa's Teamsters pension fund to complete his Circus Circus hotel-casino in 1968. One of the casino's employees was Carl Thomas, who learned how to skim money at Circus Circus for Chicago mob interests. Others in Circus Circus were Anthony Spilotro, the Chicago mob's designated enforcer in Las Vegas who owned a small shop inside the casino, and Chicago mob associate Frank Rosenthal, who at one time held a small interest in the casino.

Argent Corporation: The Hacienda, Stardust and Fremont in the 1970s

In the early- to mid-1970s, California real estate man Allen Glick put together a deal to buy the Hacienda, Stardust and Fremont casinos with $146 million in loans from the Teamsters pension fund. His company was known as Argent Corp. Chicago mob boss made Glick hire Frank Rosenthal as an executive so that – allegedly without Glick's knowledge – Rosenthal could make sure that the secret casino skim to pay mob investors operated smoothly. With the FBI's probe into the Tropicana finished, the agency put into motion Operation Strawman II, an investigation of the Argent casinos. Glick claimed the Chicago mob threatened him and his family members if he talked. Finally, in 1983, a litany of mobsters was charged for their part in the skimming at the Argent casinos – Nick Civella and Carl DeLuna of Kansas City, Milwaukee mob boss Frank Balistreri, Carl Thomas, Anthony Spilotro, and Chicago mobsters Joseph Aiuppa, Jackie Cerone and Joe Lombardo.

Rosenthal miraculously survived after a bomb planted under his car exploded in Las Vegas in 1983. The case was never solved, and he left town not long afterwards. Spilotro, who took orders from the Chicago mob since he arrived in Las Vegas in 1968, was lured by the mob to Chicago in 1986 with the promise of a promotion in mob ranks, and his brother, Michael, becoming a "made" guy. However, their fellow mobsters beat both men to death and had them buried at a farm in Indiana, where the bodies were recovered days later. The Chicago mob installed Don "Wizard of Odds" Angelini, as their new representative in Las Vegas, he did little to revive what Spilotro had accomplished. Angelini was sentenced to federal prison for racketeering in 1993, and the mob appointed no one to replace him.

“President Donald Trump will be returning to Nevada within weeks to campaign in advance of the midterm elections”

— Las Vegas Review-Journal, August 21, 2018

DONATE

Robert & Alice —

The Las Vegas Review-Journal is reporting that Donald Trump is coming back to Nevada to support his lackeys like Adam Laxalt. We've seen this before and we know how it goes, and this time, we'll be ready — with your help.

Robert & Alice, we can't wait until Trump leaves to offer our rebuttal to his lies and propaganda, so we're building resources now. Chip in today >>

When Trump holds his rallies, he says whatever he wants with little to no consequences. He's lied, he's threatened protesters with violence, and he's mocked people with disabilities.

We can't let him come here and spread propaganda about his allies running for office here in Nevada — or smear his political opponents. We've got to be ready, and we've got to fight back by getting the truth out.

Will you help us prepare for Trump's visit?

Adam Laxalt has used his taxpayer-funded position to be a lackey for dark-money special interests and political allies. And every Nevadan needs to know it.

That's why we just launched LackeyLaxalt.com. Go check out the new site >>

Lackey Laxalt

Lackey Laxalt puts his big backers and political allies ahead of Nevada's families. Nevadans deserve better.

LEARN MORE

Dear Robert & Alice,

The evidence is staggering. From serving special interest donors and shielding political allies to ignoring the will of Nevada voters, Adam Laxalt is no friend to everyday Nevadans.

That's why we've launched LackeyLaxalt.com to get the truth out about Adam Laxalt's record. No Nevadan should vote without knowing the facts.

We need you and all of our other supporters to share the facts on Facebook and Twitter.

Laxalt has continually put the needs of the Kochs, Donald Trump, and his special interest backers ahead of Nevada voters. Nevadans deserve better than Lackey Laxalt.

It's important that all Nevadans know the real Adam Laxalt. Meet Lackey Laxalt and learn more about how he's used his taxpayer-funded position to be a lackey for his dark-money donors. Then, share the truth with your friends.

Thanks,

3 Signals From USCIS About H-1B And L-1 Visas

Recent announcements reinforce the administration’s focus on policing abuses and preventing fraud in the H-1B and L-1 visa programs. Employers can expect U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services not only to second-guess the validity of H-1B and L-1 petitions, but to search for opportunities to investigate and penalize employers, say Elizabeth Espín Stern and Maximillian Del Rey of Mayer Brown LLP. How Mass. Can Prepare For Cannabis Industry Energy Use

Massachusetts' legalization of recreational marijuana is creating a new industry, but given the amounts of energy and water needed to cultivate the crop, significant environmental impacts are anticipated. The state's new Cannabis Control Commission would be wise to take note of the practices adopted in pioneering states such as Colorado and Oregon, say consultants with ML Strategies LLC. Read more »

Proportionality, Not Perfection, Is What Matters

A few jurists and commentators have recently caused a stir in the e-discovery community by arguing that litigants should avoid using keyword searches to filter or cull a document population before using predictive coding. This "no-cull" rationale undermines the principle of proportionality at the heart of the recent changes to Federal Rule 26, say John Rosenthal and Jason Moore of Winston & Strawn LLP. Read more »

"Driver" Requirements - Section 30 (2 -3)

2. Before a transportation network company allows a person to be connected to potential passengers using the digital network or software application service of the company pursuant to an agreement with the company, the company must:
(a) Require the person to submit an application to the company, which must include, without limitation:
(1) The name, age and address of the applicant.
(2) A copy of the driver's license of the applicant.

(5) Proof that the applicant has complied with the requirements of NRS 485.185.
(6) Any other information required by the company or any regulations adopted by the Commission pursuant to section 46 of this act. (b) At the time of application and not less than once every 3 years thereafter, conduct or contract with a third party to conduct an investigation of the criminal history of the applicant, which must include, without limitation:
(1) A review of a commercially available database containing criminal records from each state which are validated using a search of the primary source of each record.
(2) A search of a database containing the information available in the sex offender registry maintained by each state. (c) At the time of application and not less than once every year thereafter, obtain and review a complete record of the driving history of the applicant.

3. A transportation network company may enter into an agreement with a driver if:
(a) The applicant is at least 19 years of age.
(b) The applicant possesses a valid driver's license issued by the Department of Motor Vehicles unless the applicant is exempt from the requirement to obtain a Nevada driver's license pursuant to NRS 483.240.
(c) The applicant provides proof that the motor vehicle operated by him or her is registered with the Department of Motor Vehicles unless the applicant is exempt from the requirement to register the motor vehicle in this State pursuant to NRS 482.385.
(d) The applicant provides proof that the motor vehicle operated by him or her is operated and maintained in compliance with all applicable federal, state and local laws.
(e) The applicant provides proof that he or she currently is in compliance with the provisions of NRS 485.185.
(f) In the 3 years immediately preceding the date on which the application is submitted, the applicant has not been found guilty of three or more violations of the motor vehicle laws of this State or any traffic ordinance of any city or town, the penalty prescribed for which is a misdemeanor.

(g) In the 3 years immediately preceding the date on which the application is submitted, the applicant has not been found guilty of any violation of the motor vehicle laws of this State or any traffic ordinance of any city or town, the penalty prescribed for which is a gross misdemeanor or felony.
(h) In the 7 years immediately preceding the date on which the application is submitted, the applicant has not been found guilty of any violation of federal, state or local law prohibiting driving or being in actual physical control of a vehicle while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a controlled substance.
(i) In the 7 years immediately preceding the date on which the application is submitted, the applicant has not been found guilty of any crime involving an act of terrorism, an act of violence, a sexual offense, fraud, theft, damage to property of another or the use of a motor vehicle in the commission of a felony.
(j) The name of the applicant does not appear in the database searched pursuant to subparagraph (2) of paragraph (b) of subsection 2.

Insurance Requirements for a "driver" Sec. 10.
1. Every transportation network company or driver shall continuously provide, during any period in which the driver is providing transportation services, transportation network company insurance provided by an insurance company licensed by the Division of Insurance of the Department of Business and Industry and approved to do business in this State or a broker licensed pursuant to chapter 685A of NRS or procured directly from a non-admitted insurer, as defined in NRS 685A.0375:
(a) In an amount of not less than $1,500,000 for bodily injury to or death of one or more persons and injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident that occurs while the driver is providing transportation services;
(b) In an amount of not less than $50,000 for bodily injury to or death of one person in any one accident that occurs while the driver is logged into the digital network or software application service of the transportation network company and available to receive requests for transportation services but is not otherwise providing transportation services;
(c) Subject to the minimum amount for one person required by paragraph 35 (b), in an amount of not less than $100,000 for bodily injury to or death of two or more persons in any one accident that occurs while the driver is logged into the digital network or software application service of the transportation network company and available to receive requests for transportation services but is not otherwise providing transportation services; and
(d) In an amount of not less than $25,000 for injury to or destruction of property of others in any one accident that occurs while the driver is logged into the digital network or software application service of the transportation network company and available to receive requests for transportation services but is not otherwise providing transportation services, for the payment of tort liabilities arising from the maintenance or use of the motor vehicle.

Seattle Mulls Delay Of Landmark Uber Driver Union Law

The city of Seattle told a federal judge Thursday that it may delay by six months implementing a new ordinance allowing Uber and Lyft drivers to unionize, saying that could affect whether the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's antitrust challenge to the first-of-its-kind ordinance should be dismissed.

New Audit Rule Limits Tax Discharges By Partnerships

A new rule forcing partnerships to declare they won't voluntarily file for bankruptcy as a prerequisite for electing a revamped tax audit regime is being billed by experts as an unexpected move by the Internal Revenue Service to prevent the new regime from being abused to avoid tax liabilities.

EPA Won't Review Power Plant Startup-Shutdown Regs

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency on Friday denied a petition by environmental groups to reconsider changes to the Mercury and Air Toxics Standards rule that give power plants a little more leeway when starting up or shutting down.

Pa. AG Loses State Supreme Court Bid To Nix Criminal Counts

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court on Friday shot down an emergency petition filed by Attorney General Kathleen Kane seeking to toss criminal charges she is facing over her alleged role in leaking confidential investigative material to the press, clearing the table for a trial next week.

Calif. Lawmakers Want Judicial Discipline Commission Audit

Four California state lawmakers are pressing for an audit of the Commission on Judicial Performance following a recent report that it tossed a majority of the 1,245 complaints it received last year against active and former judges.

Massive Gulf Separates Trump And Clinton On Energy Policy

The energy policy gulf between U.S. presidential candidates Hillary Clinton and Donald Trump is nothing short of historic, leaving the fate of sweeping regulatory initiatives, such as the Clean Power Plan, hanging in the balance when voters go to the polls this November, policy experts say.

Amtrak's STB Preference Win Tees Up Legal Challenges

The Surface Transportation Board's recent decision confirming that Amtrak has the right of way over cargo traffic on the nation's railways is a major win for the passenger railroad, but experts say it will set off even more battles with freight railroads concerning train delays on limited track.

ENERGY & ENVIRONMENTAL

Greens Urge Judge Not To Toss Aircraft Emissions Suit

Two environmental groups on Friday asked a D.C. federal judge not to dismiss their lawsuit to force the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to promulgate long-awaited carbon emissions standards for aircraft.

FERC Commissioner Clark Stepping Down Next Month

Tony Clark, the sole Republican on the currently four-member Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and whose term at the commission expired June 30, said he would step down following FERC's September monthly meeting.

EPA Risk Management Rule May Help Terrorists, AGs Say

Eleven attorneys general have asked the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to reconsider its recently proposed changes to a chemical facility risk management program rule, saying some public disclosure requirements could assist terrorists in planning attacks.

Nevada Top Court Strikes 'Misleading' Solar Ballot Measure

The Nevada Supreme Court has struck down a ballot measure that would have eliminated a new tariff on rooftop solar customers, finding the measure's description was "not only inaccurate and misleading, but also argumentative."

HEALTH & LIFE SCIENCES

Genetically Modified Mosquitoes' Trial Run Inches Closer

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration on Friday denied two citizen petitions asking the agency to conduct further environmental analysis for a proposed Florida Keys field trial of a genetically engineered mosquito designed with the aim of combating Zika and other diseases, saying that it has done all it must do.

EMPLOYMENT

Houston Schools' Chief Auditor Files Whistleblower Suit

The former chief audit executive of Houston Independent School District who was suspended with pay in March and told to come back to work this week filed a whistleblower lawsuit against the school district Friday in state court in Houston, arguing he was fired for pointing out violations of law he uncovered.

Bangladesh Garment Sector Still Needs Labor Reforms: EU

The government of Bangladesh has taken positive steps to improve labor conditions in the wake of a 2013 garment factory collapse that killed more than 1,000 workers, but there is still considerable work to be done, according to a European Union report issued Friday.

NATIVE AMERICAN

EPA Presses To Slim Down Maine's Tribal Water Row

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency continued to press a federal court Thursday to pare down Maine's suit to compel the agency to recognize the state's authority over tribal waters, saying the court lacks jurisdiction over a Clean Water Act claim.

Proposed Tribe Claims BIA Failed To Call For Election

The proposed Ukiah Valley Pomo Indian Tribe lobbed a complaint against the Bureau of Indian Affairs in a California federal court Thursday, accusing the government of violating the Indian Reorganization Act by refusing to allow the group to vote on organizing as a half-blood Native American tribe.

TELECOMMUNICATIONS

FCC Grants School Emergency, Utility Exceptions To Robocalls

The Federal Communications Commission clarified on Thursday the scope of consent required from consumers before schools or utility companies can send automated text messages and robocalls to wireless numbers, saying such communication during emergency situations and service notices doesn't break the law.

Broadcast Standard Concerns 'Unfounded,' NAB Says

The National Association of Broadcasters pushed back Thursday against concerns about a proposed broadcast television standard's effect on wireless communication interests, telling the Federal Communications Commission the new means of signal transmission will not interfere with spectrum licenses purchased in the incentive auction.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

FDA Claims Jurisdiction Over All Tobacco Products

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration's new rule regulating all tobacco products, including e-cigarettes, has been met with significant pushback by the industry. But all court proceedings remain pending and until a court or the FDA says differently, the new rule will take effect as scheduled, on Aug. 8, 2016, says Paul Cicelski at Lerman Senter PLLC.

5th Circ. Haze Ruling May Cloud Clean Air Act Litigation

The Fifth Circuit, in State of Texas v. U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, recently issued an important decision on venue and jurisdiction in challenges to EPA rules promulgated under the Clean Air Act. However, the issues addressed in the court's ruling potentially have ramifications beyond this litigation and could also affect other suits under different provisions of the CAA, say attorneys at Jackson Walker LLP.

It's Time To Loosen The Limitations On BDC Investors

Business development companies face challenges raising money due to a quirk in the federal securities laws that limits how much mutual funds can invest in them. But if participants in the capital markets raise their voices, there is some hope that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission will ease the restriction, says Kelley Howes, of counsel at Morrison & Foerster LLP and former general counsel of Janus Capital Group Inc.

Song Stays Pretty Much The Same For ASCAP, BMI

The U.S. Department of Justice's decision to keep the core of the ASCAP and BMI consent decrees intact sidesteps a closely watched, hotly contested issue that has captured the eyes, ears and keyboards of music industry titans and digital music entrepreneurs alike — whether to permit “partial withdrawals,” says Daniel Vitelli of Constantine Cannon LLP.

5 Open Questions On Risk Retention

Almost two years have passed since final rules for asset-backed securities risk retention were released. However, a number of important questions regarding the scope of the rules and the ways in which they can be complied with still lack definitive answers, says Ariel Kronman of Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP.

9 Tips For Becoming A Legal Pundit In The Media

3 Ways Firms Got A Leg Up In The First Half Of 2016

In today's cutthroat legal market, law firms have to be creative to get ahead, ushering in a new era where old-school ideas and traditions are eschewed and innovation is imperative. Here are three big changes firms have made in 2016 to get a leg up on the competition.

3 UK Firms Hit Attys With Pay Freezes, Layoffs Over Brexit

Attorneys with London-based firms Simmons & Simmons, Addleshaw Goddard and Gowling WLG got some unpleasant news this week in the form of pay freezes and layoffs as a result of the uncertainty facing the legal profession in Britain since the country voted to leave the European Union.

Legal Sector Still Lethargic, Loses 200 Jobs In July

Legal sector jobs in the U.S. continue to stagnate, with employment in legal services declining slightly in July following a monthslong plateau, according to the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics’ monthly jobs report, released on Friday.

9th Circ.'s Kozinski Slams Calif. AG For Overlong Brief

Ninth Circuit Judge Alex Kozinski took a hard line on too-long briefs on Thursday, saying in a fiery dissent accompanying an otherwise routine order allowing California’s attorney general to file an oversized brief that submitting verbose papers has become a “common and rather lamentable practice.”

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

This dispatch prepared for .

DAYS UNTIL THE THIRD VEGAS PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE: 84

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 104

Good morning, everyone. I have seen some rave reviews of Bill Clinton's speech last night, but I don't agree. Yes, his peroration and conclusion (after he realized he blew past his time limit) were excellent, and he is one of the greatest orators in American history. But his awkward recitation of his early dating life with Hillary while reading what sounded like her CV, not to mention what he elided, struck me as….odd. I am told the conventioneers were rapt, but it was not his best speech. And "change-maker" seems lame. Good news: Most of these addresses will disappear into the ether as Crooked Hillary and Teflon Don begin their positive campaign about the country's future.

ICYMI, my Channel 13 hits Tuesday on Hillary, Bill, a new poll and Barbara Boxer. I talked to Boxer about Bernie, DNC leaks and Prince Harry.

What's below: Goodman's quixotic quest, new poll numbers, Reid's swan song, Morning Flash nuggets and a trivia question about a Nevada pioneer.

COMING UP

Don't forget the school choice hearing is Friday. And tonight: Will Harry Reid overshadow the president? Also: Ruben Kihuen gets his moment in the national spotlight.

THE MAYOR'S DREAM THAT WILL NEVER COME TRUE

The city of Las Vegas has written a letter to the stadium committee asking for a presentation on the Cashman site, which has no chance of being selected. And stay tuned for some poll results that could affect the issue. Or they should…...

POLL: POT AHEAD, BACKGROUND CHECKS WAY AHEAD

KTNV/Rasmussen looked at the pot and background checks ballot questions and found support for both. The numbers indicate what people generally think: The pot question has a chance -- although starting at 50 percent is problematic if Gondolier Numero Uno decides to write a check – and the gun control question is winning big. The latter is going to be the focus of more spending on anything this cycle in Nevada except the presidential and U.S. Senate races.

REID'S VALEDICTORY (ONE IN A SERIES)

Love the Nancy Pelosi allusion in the video here to Hang Up Harry. I don't think I have seen Reid choke up too many times – the only time I recall was at ex-Gov. Mike O'Callaghan's funeral. But he's clearly starting to get emotional about leaving – I still believe he would rather stay! His speech will be something. (Hope the Bernie delegates don't remember he tried to help Hillary in the caucus with that call to the Culinary…..)

A TRIO OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Hmm: Ex-California gaming regulator penned a piece about a potential death knell for that state's card rooms.

Nugget No. 2 – I told you Tuesday about Sheriff Joe Lombardo helping Rep. Joe Heck against a former law enforcement officer. A friend reminds me there might be a reason why. I had forgotten whom Catherine Cortez Masto supported in that race. Payback?

Nugget No. 3 -- This tweet from state Sen. Ben Kieckhefer brings tears to my eyes.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

When we think of the mob in Las Vegas, we generally think of the famously famous Chicago Outfit, or the Kansas City mob. Organized crime families from other cities sent operators to southern Nevada as well, including New York and Los Angeles. Anthony Milano was a longtime underboss of the mob in Cleveland, OH. Anthony had two sons – Peter and Carmen. Carmen was born on July 27, 1929 in Cleveland, OH, where he would become a lawyer (and get disbarred). The Milano brothers moved to southern California and began muscling in operations in Los Angeles. Peter became the boss of the Milano family mob out of Los Angeles, CA, and Carmen, nicknamed Flipper after the dolphin, would become the Los Angeles mob's underboss in Las Vegas, NV. Carmen Milano (the George Costanza of the LA Mob) moved to Las Vegas, NV in the early 1990s to manage the Los Angeles mob's Las Vegas interests.

After the Milanos were indicted in Los Angeles in 1987, family moved into Las Vegas involved forging partnerships with existing mobsters rather than establishing competing businesses. Their biggest partner was Herbie "Fat Herbie" Blitzstein. Blitzstein's business was also their goal. Milano planned a shakedown of Blitzstein to take over his operations. The other mobsters that Milano partnered with to carry out the threats had their own plan, and killed Blitzstein in his home on January 6, 1997. The planning meetings for the Blitzstein takeover had been infiltrated by the FBI, who had plenty of informants after Blitzstein was murdered, as mob factions fought over Blitzstein's "assets." Milano had not intended to murder Blitzstein, but his family, already reeling from indictments in Los Angeles, were further decimated. Carmen Milano plead guilty to money laundering and his part in a diamond fraud scheme that never materialized (selling Blitzstein's diamonds, but switching for a fake after the buyer paid). Milano served almost two years in prison from 2000 into 2002, and remained in Las Vegas after his release. Milano died in Spring Valley Hospital in Las Vegas, NV on January 3, 2006.

Side note: In the 1970s, the Milano brothers established a Las Vegas-style casino operation in southern California (on Sunset Blvd). The games were rigged. They got caught, and were charged. John Ludlow Dubeck helped set up some of the rigged table games for the Milanos. Dubeck became a key witness for the government against the Los Angeles mob family. Late on March 18, 1974, John Ludlow Dubeck, who was by this time working as a shift manager at a Las Vegas casino, was shot and killed (along with his wife) near their apartment in Las Vegas before he could testify. It was generally considered against mob rules to murder someone in Las Vegas at the time, as it would bring unwanted attention to the mob. The double murder was never solved.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

Today is the birthdate of someone who served only one term in the Legislature and in a special session that was part of a country-changing event, but was a seminal figure in Nevada history? Who was it, and what was this lawmaker's significance?

Tuesday's winner: KLAS's George Knapp

The question: Today is the birthday of a former Nevada legislator who reached national prominence and who twice ran for the same higher office, once losing in the general and once losing in a primary?

The answer: Sharron Angle

DAYS UNTIL EARLY VOTING BEGINS IN NEVADA: 15

DAYS UNTIL THE 2016 GENERAL ELECTION: 32

Good morning, everyone. Is Donald Trump taking Nevada from a close state for him to helping Hillary over the top here? First, there was Pronounciationgate, which was beautifully lampooned by "Veep" star Julia Louis-Dreyfuss. And then, Patrick Healy of The New York Times reported Thursday: "At his New Hampshire town hall, Trump makes this point about Hispanics in Las Vegas: 'Latinos, they like to be called in that area.'" Oh? My God he is amazing. I feel like the "Mission: Impossible" music should be playing and the voice comes in: "This Trump will self-destruct in….."

ICYMI, I talked about Tim Kaine's visit and the special session on 13 Action News on Thursday.

Today I am taping my new Sunday show, "Ralston Reports," which will air Sunday on KTNV. The first one will have a lot of stuff from Steve Wynn you have not seen before, including his description of Sheldon Adelson and his feelings about economic anxiety and African-Americans. Set aside the time. Tell your friends. Watch!

What's below: Sandoval for Heck, special stadium nuggets, possible GOP dominance, Morning Flash nuggets and repeating a trivia question about a national news segment.

COMING UP

I will raise the curtain on the Sheldon-Sandoval-stadium-special-session in my Sunday column.

SANDOVAL GOES BIG FOR HECK

A positive ad in the Nevada U.S. Senate race? Really? This one could help.

A QUARTET OF SANDOVAL-SHELDON-STADIUM-SPECIAL-SESSION NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – The blowback from Northern Nevada is coming from all sides and both parties. I am told Democrats up there are upset about the possible cloud over the Washoe schools initiative and are privately saying they will not vote to fund the stadium. (We'll see.) And with Jim Wheeler trying to get ESAs into the session (not gonna happen, wouldn't be prudent) and Ira Hansen now a definite NO after previously saying he was leaning yes, problems are coming. Can they get to two-thirds without the North? Or mostly without the North because it appears Sands got two of the vacancies filled? Sure. Margin for error? Slim.

Nugget No. 2 – This morning, both Vegas newspapers breathlessly reported Majestic is out of the stadium deal. Flash subscribers knew this….Sept. 20.

Nugget No. 3 – This is what happens when a total pro named Sandy Chereb writes about the stadium in The Adelson News.

Nugget No. 4 – A couple of national clips: A regular Nevada contributor to the New York Times derides the stadium, and another fine stadium story from afar.

FIRST LATINA SENATOR OR GOP DOMINANCE

There's been a lot of chatter about Catherine Cortez Masto being the first Latina senator should she win. But

I did not know until the great Eric Ostermeier pointed it out, how long it has been since the GOP has held all statewide offices, which is what would happen should Joe Heck win.

A QUINTET OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 – Victoria Seaman continues to pile up endorsements in that key state Senate race. This week: Latin Chamber, HIP and just yesterday, the Asian American Group. I don't put a lot of stock in each one, but if the race is close…. I wonder if Dems try to extend the special for a couple of weeks to keep Seaman from knocking on doors….

Nugget No. 2 – In the first week of October, the Democrats have added 2,000 to their voter registration edge in Clark County. They may just get to 85,000 or so statewide by the end of registration Oct. 18.

Nugget No. 3 – This is interesting via DailyKos: "● NV-03, NV-04: There's more reshuffling on both sides in Las Vegas, and we also have an answer to a mystery. Last week, we noted that the DCCC appeared to cut back its reservations by about $1 million here, but it turns out those funds were shifted to "hybrid" ads, which allow the committee to coordinate directly with campaigns. Such spots have to focus on an opponent's political party as much as the candidate itself in order to get around anti-coordination rules, and you can see a good example of it with this ad here, which attacks 'Republicans' even more than it does GOP Rep. Cresent Hardy. Obviously, this kind of approach only works in places where one or the other party is unpopular, but Las Vegas is surely one such locale for the GOP."

Nugget No. 4 -- "And then he hung up." Classic Buregess Everett on Prince Harry. I still don't understand how no one focused on Reid PRAISING Mitt Romney for releasing his taxes during his anti-Trump rant: "So, Donald Trump is a problem. First president in modern history – it wasn't even an issue 60 years ago, but in the last 60 years it's been an issue. Richard Nixon showed us his tax returns. Hillary Clinton's given us ten years of hers, or maybe even more than that. Romney gave us tax returns, so I don't know why Donald Trump thinks he's above the requirement of being candid with the American people because he is a complete – what is he? I guess he's a complete fraud. "

Nugget No. 5 – WaPo's Aaron Blake name-checks Gov. Brian Sandoval as popular governor not embracing Trump.

FLASH FACTS OF THE DAY

Robert E "Bob" Rose was born in Orange, NJ on October 7, 1939. He received his Bachelor's degree in 1961 at Juniata College (where he is included in their list of Distinguished Alumni) in Huntingdon, PA, and his Juris Doctor degree at New York University in 1964. Rose worked as a law clerk at the Nevada Supreme Court in Carson City before entering private practice. He was elected to the office of Washoe County District Attorney, where he served from 1971 through 1974. Then, Rose succeeded Harry Reid for the office of Lieutenant Governor of Nevada, elected in 1974. Rose served as Nevada's 26th Lieutenant Governor for a single four year term. Rose returned to private practice until then Nevada Governor Richard Bryan appointed Rose as Judge in District Court, Eighth Judicial District in Las Vegas, NV in 1986. In 1988, Rose was first elected to the Nevada Supreme Court. He was re-elected in 1994 and 2000, serving from 1989 into 2007. Justice Rose served as Chief Justice of the Nevada Supreme Court for five of those years and participated in over 1,000 written decisions for the court. In 1993, Justice Rose sponsored the Nevada Judicial Assessment Commission (sometimes called the Rose Commission) to look at improving the court system. Former Justice Rose still works as a mediator and arbitrator for a variety of disputes.

TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE DAY

No one knows this? Come on! This is the anniversary of one of the most famous national TV segments ever broadcast about Nevada entitled, "XXXX and The Law." Fill in the blank, and tell me what happened after it was broadcast.

Thursday's winner: No one.

MOVIE TRIVIA QUESTION OF THE WEEK

Name the actress and the movies: She plays the girlfriend of a guy who gets scarred; she plays the sister of a playwright falling for a guy who dated her daughter; she plays a woman who solves a kidnapping/murder mystery; and she plays a shrink who analyzes an accused murderer.

Quotes of the day

"I have no problems with federal funding for Planned Parenthood."
--- Sen. Dean Heller at a Monday town hall

"While he doesn't have a problem with many of the health care services Planned Parenthood offers to women, he is opposed to providing federal funding to any organization that performs abortions and is supported by taxpayers' dollars; he has a long record that reflects his position."
-- Heller spokeswoman Megan Taylor on Tuesday

Video made the Indy a star

As you can see below, our intrepid Carson trio got some exclusive video -- and made some news -- with Rep. Dina Titus after her speech in Carson City to lawmakers. As the editor knows from interviewing people for 15 years in front of a camera, there is something about seeing people, their reactions, their body language that cannot be duplicated by mere words. That's why we at The Indy will continue to make use of videos to capture newsmakers and important events. Just this week, Jackie Valley caught a deputy secretary of state on camera and her responses to questions about a voter fraud probe were very telling. Send us your ideas for video, too. We want to do more.

Today's stories

Leading the site this morning: Lots of bills went through both houses Tuesday, and our team was there.

We also have a spreadsheet showing you the votes and which ones were party-line.

Rep. Dina Titus spoke to the Legislature, and our Carson team got some news out of her -- after the speech.

Tweets of the Day

We always appreciate it when elected officials read and respond to our content. Trustee Wright was reacting to Jackie Valley's eye-opening story about how the district uses a computer system that is two decades old, which in the tech world means it's essentially from the Mesozoic Era. The real story here is who is suffering because of this: A generation of kids.

Subject: Federal litigation impacting OON providers - Understanding balance billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment

Ted burton

1-866-458-29
customerservice@aud
om

Dear colleague,

Out of Network (OON) providers have been facing a slew of lawsuits from ínsurance companies for failure to balance bill and for indiscriminate fee forgiveness.

Some Facts:

- HCA Health* v. Aetna, it was held that ínsurance companies must establish a procedure for requesting waiver of co-ínsurance or co-payments, without which they cannot hold a healthcare service provider liable for waiving co-payments.
- North Cypress* v. *Cigna, it was held that the ínsurance plans of the patients must be interpreted as they are likely to be understood by an average plan participant.

Fee Forgiveness has provided practitioners and providers in the healthcare system an ability to attract more patients to them; however, the same has brought legal challenges and other complications to the practice. The best way to understand the strategies of insurers is to carefully monitor federal litigation. The motions and memoranda within these cases outline the various positions of the health plans on risk areas such as balance billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits. As an OON provider, you can't possibly hope to obtain proper reimbursement and remain compliant in the current climate without understanding relevant federal laws and cases interpreting these laws.

Join us for this On Demand Webinar (available all day)—"Update on Federal Litigation Affecting out of Network Providers", on Thursday, June 28, 2018, where expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., reviews these recent set of lawsuits with in-depth case studies to unearth what will not. Out-of-network providers have been battling it out with well-known insurers like Cigna and Aetna – there's a lot you can learn from examining the decisions of these lawsuits. This session provides detailed case studies on these lawsuits and examines the decisions on balance billing, fee forgiveness and excessive fees – information that you need to ensure that your practice is compliant in balance billing, careful in fee-forgiveness, and prudent in documentation. You'll get all the guidance you need to avoid legal liabílity and improve profitability.

You'll get 1 AAPC CEU per registration.

Session Highlights:

- Type of disclosures that must be provided by the OON provider to their patients prior to rendering of services.
- Written policies that must be in effect so as to assist the practice succeed against healthcare audits.
- The purpose of patient assignment and benefit forms.
- The impact of anti-assignment provisions in healthcare plan documents.
- The danger of not collecting call ínsurance, deductibles or otherwise balance billing out of network patients.

Session Agenda:

- Network Participation
  - In-network vs. Out-of-Network
  - Patient Cost Sharing
  - Balance Bill
- Best Practices
  - Transparency and Disclosure
  - Practice Management
- Case studies
  - Out-of-Network Reimbursement
  - Fee Forgiveness
  - Excessive Fees
  - Assignment on Benefit Cases

Why Attend?

This session will help you learn strategies to avoid health plan audits and litigation based upon fee forgiveness and failure to balance bill patients. You will be provided disclosure and other patient forms, and practice policies which will assist you (out of network provider) to remain in compliance with state federal laws. You'll also get best practices for compliance.

Your registration includes:

- 1 AAPC CEU
- Complímentary attendee package, including the speaker's complete presentation handouts.
- Additional handouts on cases studies. Keep this quick reference tool close by for future use!

Please apply "INDEPENDENCE50" at check-out to get $50 off on registration.

Quote of the Day

“Based on the margin of defeat, I have no doubt that what the RNC was able to do with the Nevada GOP and with the campaigns made it as close as it was. ...We kept it a lot closer than it could have been.”

From the Editors

Why did top-of-ticket electoral races that were polling as very close break for the Democrats, by quite a lot? Megan Messerly and Michelle Rindels decided to talk to operatives on both sides for an autopsy report. (Three, actually.)

One of congressional candidate Danny Tarkanian's campaign team members is the latest Nevada Republican to allege that widespread voter fraud occurred last week — which apparently, supposedly happened with the help of a Republican Secretary of State. When asked whether that was true, she said, "Um, no." (We're paraphrasing only slightly.)

With the recently released model tax treaty, the U.S. Department of the Treasury's continued focus on international tax evasion, particularly through anti-treaty abuse measures, is clear. Less clear is whether the revised model's provisions will find favor with treaty partners, say Heather Ripley and Edward Tanenbaum of Alston & Bird LLP.

Proposed Bill Would Upend Status Quo For H-1B Visas

The proposed H-1B and L-1 Visa Reform Act threatens to disrupt the United States' employment-based immigration system. The implications of the proposed bill go far beyond a simple change from a lottery system to a tier-based approach and would inherently change the landscape of hiring foreign workers in the United States, say Scott FitzGerald and Stephanie Pimentel at Fragomen Del Rey Bernsen & Loewy LLP.

What Community Bankers Must Ask Washington

Even though the Dodd-Frank Act purports to exempt community banks from many of its provisions, managers of small banking institutions believe they have been subjected to dramatically increased compliance costs and significantly restricted investment opportunities. This is particularly galling to bankers who universally believe their segment of the industry contributed virtually nothing to the financial collapse, says Larry Lavender of Jones Walker LLP.

Mandatory Inclusionary Housing: Future Of NY Redevelopment

The passage last week of New York Mayor Bill de Blasio's mandatory inclusionary housing amendment raises two critical issues for real estate developers — the expiration of the 421-a tax exemption under New York state law and the doctrine of vested rights, say attorneys at Stroock & Stroock & Lavan LLP.

Costco Cash Rewards Program Terms:

Your Costco Anywhere Visa® Card by Citi and/or Costco Anywhere Visa Business Card by Citi account ("Card Account") will earn Costco Cash Rewards based on your purchases that can be redeemed for merchandise or cash back at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including Puerto Rico ("Costco Cash Rewards").

Earning Costco Cash Rewards on Purchases: You'll earn Costco Cash Rewards for purchases using your Card Account, minus returns and refunds, as follows:

- 4% cash back on eligible gas worldwide, including gas at Costco, for the first $7,000 per year in gas purchases and then 1% thereafter.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1% cash back, not 4%, for gas purchased at superstores, supermarkets, convenience stores and warehouse clubs other than Costco or for fuel used for non-automobile purposes.
- 3% cash back on restaurant (including cafes, bars, lounges and fast food restaurants) and eligible travel purchases worldwide, including airfare, hotels, car rentals, travel agencies, cruise lines and Costco Travel.
- Certain Non-Qualifying Purchases. You will only earn 1%, not 3%, for purchases made at bakeries and certain restaurants/cafes inside department stores, grocery or warehouse clubs.
- 2% cash back on all other purchases from Costco and Costco.com.
- 1% cash back on all other purchases, including the non-qualifying purchases listed above.

Merchant Classification: Each merchant - that is a retailer, business or any other place where you can make a purchase - is assigned a code that indicates the merchant's area of business. For example, restaurants are generally assigned a specific merchant code. We don't assign or have any control over merchant codes. Codes are chosen and assigned by a third party, who may change the codes from time to time. When you make a purchase at a merchant, we're provided the code for that merchant. If the code matches a category that gives you additional Costco Cash Rewards - for example, if the merchant code tells us that you made a purchase at a restaurant - we'll give you the additional Costco Cash Rewards for that purchase. Because we don't control what code a merchant is assigned, sometimes a purchase that you think fits a certain category may not earn additional Costco Cash Rewards. For example, a restaurant located within a large retail outlet may not be assigned a "restaurant" code, but rather a "retailer" code. This means that even though you receive additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at "restaurants," you won't earn additional Costco Cash Rewards for purchases at that restaurant.

What doesn't qualify as a purchase?: The following types of transactions don't qualify as purchases that earn Costco Cash Rewards:

- Use of checks that access your Card Account
- Balance transfers
- Cash advances
- Travelers checks, foreign currency purchases, money orders, wire transfers and similar cash-like transactions
- Lottery tickets, gaming chips and similar betting transactions
- Interest and account fees
- Unauthorized charges
- Items returned for credit

Returns: Returned items may result in credits being applied to your Card Account which will reduce or may eliminate accumulated Costco Cash Rewards and may result in a negative cash rewards balance. If your Card Account has a negative Costco Cash Rewards balance, any newly earned Costco Cash Rewards will be used to offset such negative Costco Cash Rewards balance until such balance has been brought to zero.

Redeeming Costco Cash Rewards: Your reward is distributed annually, in the form of a credit card reward certificate, once your February billing statement closes, and is redeemable through December 31 of the year issued in a single transaction at any U.S. Costco warehouse, including in Puerto Rico, for merchandise or cash back. The credit card reward certificate will contain your Costco Cash Rewards balance based on your eligible purchases during the annual reward period. The annual reward period is based on January through December billing statements. Should you choose to redeem only a portion of the certificate for merchandise, you will receive the remaining balance in cash at the Costco warehouse register upon checkout. Some warehouses may not permit the credit card reward certificate to be redeemed for alcohol purchases. Requests for cash may be fulfilled in the form of a check at Costco’s discretion. Your credit card reward certificate must be redeemed in person on or prior to its expiration date of December 31 in the year in which it is issued. Any Costco Cash Rewards you have earned on purchases made by authorized users on your Card Account will be added to your Costco Cash Rewards total. Only you, the primary cardmember, are eligible to receive the annual credit card reward certificate; however, you or anyone you authorize may redeem the certificate. You will not receive a credit card reward certificate if your reward is less than $1 or your account is closed at the time your credit card reward certificate is scheduled to be sent; any Costco Cash Rewards that had been accrued at that time will be forfeited. You must maintain your Costco Membership to redeem your credit card reward certificate.

Account Closure: If we close your Card Account, you will no longer be able to earn Costco Cash Rewards, and you will forfeit any Costco Cash Rewards accumulated, but not yet distributed. If you close or convert your Card Account prior to receiving the credit card reward certificate in your February billing statement, any earned Costco Cash Rewards will be forfeited.

Forfeiture: All Costco Cash Rewards not disbursed via an annual credit card reward certificate due to the reward amount being less than $1, the account status (including account closure), or other reasons, will be forfeited. Additionally, any Costco Cash Rewards not redeemed by December 31 of the year of issuance of the credit card reward certificate will be forfeited.

Value of Costco Cash Rewards: Costco Cash Rewards have no cash value until such time as they are redeemed at a Costco warehouse.

Property Rights: You have no property rights or other legal interests in Costco Cash Rewards. Costco Cash Rewards may not be transferred to any other person including through such events as inheritance, bankruptcy or divorce. Costco Cash Rewards cannot be assigned or pledged.

Changes to Program Rules: We may make changes to the Costco Cash Rewards Program at any time without notice. We will give you 30 days' written notice if we make any of the following changes: a change that negatively affects the number of Costco Cash Rewards you can earn, a change that negatively affects how/when you may lose your Costco Cash Rewards, a change that negatively affects how you can exercise your rights with respect to Costco Cash Rewards, or if we cancel the program.

Fraud: If we see evidence of fraud, misuse, abuse, or suspicious activity, we will investigate and, if we determine that fraud, misuse or abuse has occurred, we may take actions against you. These actions may include, without limitation:

- Taking away the Costco Cash Rewards you earned because of fraud, misuse or abuse
- Preventing you from earning Costco Cash Rewards
- Suspending or closing your Costco Cash Rewards Account
- Taking legal action to recover Costco Cash Rewards redeemed because of such activity and to recover our monetary losses, including litigation costs and damages

Some examples of fraud, misuse, abuse and suspicious activity include:

- Using your Card Account in an abusive manner for the primary purpose of acquiring Costco Cash Rewards
- Using your Consumer Card Account other than primarily for personal, consumer or household purposes
- Using your Business Card Account other than for business or commercial purposes

NLRB On Right Path With Joint Employer, Elex Regs: Ex-Chair

Turning to agency rulemaking — a mechanism the National Labor Relations Board has used just a handful of times in its 82-year history — to resolve when businesses can be deemed joint employers was the right move, as was the NLRB's call for input on whether to scrap Obama-era regulations meant to streamline the union election process, former NLRB chair and current Morgan Lewis partner Philip Miscimarra told Law360 in an exclusive interview. This is the first article in a two-part series. Read more »

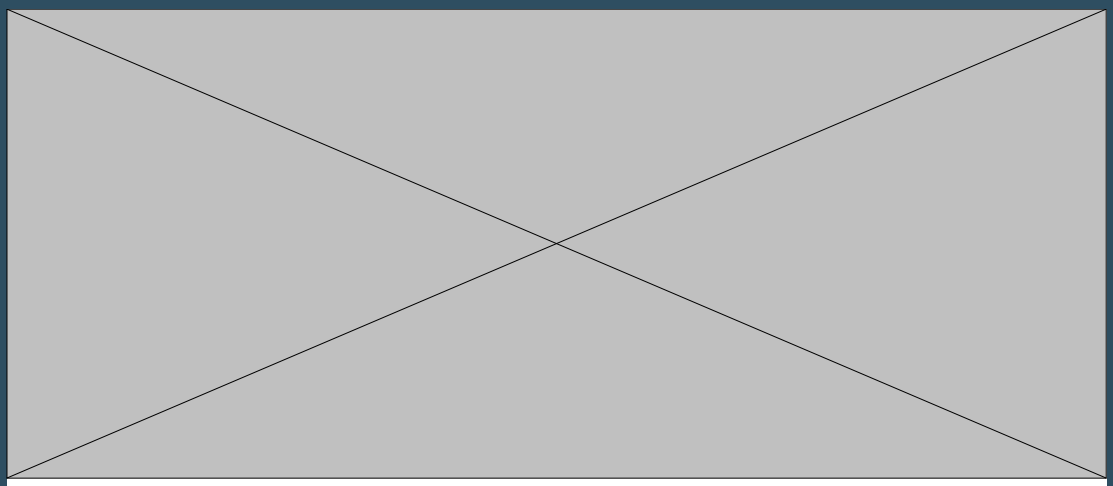
LAS VEGAS CONVENTION AND VISITORS AUTHORITY

LVCVA.COM



Las Vegas is Talk of the Sports World

I am excited to provide you with an update on the great success Las Vegas experienced with the first celebration of the Ultimate Vegas Sports Weekend. From March 2-5, the destination hosted four major sporting events, including NASCAR weekend, the USA Sevens rugby tournament, UFC 222 and the Vegas Golden Knights game with the Ottawa Senators. We estimate these events attracted approximately 150,000 visitors and added an additional $150 million in local economic impact. Many attendees were international visitors as NASCAR and the USA Sevens have large global followings.

The LVCVA coordinated with the four sports entities to come together and celebrate the incredible weekend and promote in partnership to fans around the world. We kicked off the weekend with a pep rally for fans at Toshiba Plaza in front of T-Mobile Arena. Each sport brought athletes and personalities to host a free program, along with interactive experiences and provided giveaways to attend the sporting events.

Media coverage of the pep rally was outstanding locally and led to national and international outlets picking up the news and using the Ultimate Vegas Sports Weekend theme in their highlights of the individual sports throughout the weekend. We also hosted a media familiarization tour with nine international and US-based journalists. The weekend's events garnered more than 10 million impressions, including coverage in all local outlets, USA Today and the Associated Press which garnered articles in the Washington Post, Newsday and more. Click HERE for the Associated Press article.

This inaugural celebration is just another step in our effort to increase the visibility of Las Vegas as a sports town. We will continue these efforts with the incredible lineup of sports still to come this month, including three conference basketball tournaments, Big League Weekend with the Cubs and Indians, the World Men's Curling Championship, and more.

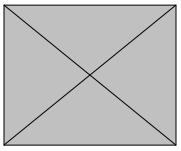
This is just one month of our sports offerings, and we look forward to welcoming back some of our long-time athletic events, including the NBA Summer League, the Professional Bull Riders, and the National Finals Rodeo. And we're very excited for the inaugural seasons of the Las Vegas Lights and the Las Vegas Aces, and look forward to this September when we welcome NASCAR back for a second race weekend.

Las Vegas continues to evolve and sports is the next big thing for our destination.

Sincerely,



Rossi Ralenkotter

The acting head of the environmental division of the U.S. Department of Justice said Friday that enforcement will continue to be a priority under the Trump administration, but he signaled that there may be some areas in which it's less inclined to act.

EPA Yanks CPP-Related Proposals After Trump's Exec. Order

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is abandoning two Obama administration proposals related to the Clean Power Plan under President Donald Trump's executive order directing the agency to consider rolling the plan back and to reduce regulatory burdens on domestic energy development, saying the measures may not mesh with its working understanding of its authority.

Judge Remands Flint Crisis Suit To Mich. Court Of Claims

A Michigan federal judge on Friday sent a lawsuit against current and former employees of Michigan's Department of Environmental Quality over the Flint lead contamination crisis back to the Michigan Court of Claims, saying the employees weren't acting under any federal agency.

Shiloh Breached Fluor Enviro Deal With Cleanup Request

A California federal judge ruled Friday that The Shiloh Group breached an environmental remediation settlement over a site formerly owned by construction company Fluor Corp. when it asked state environmental regulators to order additional cleanup of the land, saying the remediation deal waived all claims against Fluor.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has urged the U.S. Supreme Court not to upend a Ninth Circuit decision backing the agency's critical habitat designation for the polar bear, saying that the agency properly applied federal standards in designating a massive land area for the endangered animal.

HEALTH & LIFE SCIENCES

Judge Lets Ky. Abortion Clinic Stay Open During Suit

A Kentucky federal judge on Friday blocked the state from enforcing a law which would shutter its only licensed abortion facility, finding the clinic, backed by the American Civil Liberties Union, is likely to prove the law's requirements are unconstitutional.

Planned Parenthood Tells 6th Circ. To Require Ohio Funding

Two Planned Parenthood affiliates have urged the Sixth Circuit to uphold an Ohio federal court's decision that the state couldn't cut off the organization's funding just because it offers abortions, saying the loss will gut other services that are vital to the community.

Health, Pharma Sectors Will Be FTC Focus, Ohlhausen Says

In the midst of uncertainty about the direction antitrust and merger policy will take under the Trump administration, the acting head of the Federal Trade Commission said Friday it will prioritize enforcement in the health care and pharmaceutical sectors.

COMPETITION

Politics Won't Play A Role In FTC Antitrust, Official Warns

The Federal Trade Commission's top antitrust official on Friday cautioned that politics would play no part in the agency's antitrust enforcement under the Trump administration, emphasizing that decades of case law keep U.S. competition enforcement tied to sound economics.

DOJ Defends Antitrust Leniency Policy Amid Uncertainties

Antitrust practitioners have questioned whether the U.S. Department of Justice has shifted its stance on leniency for whistleblowers after the DOJ revised a set of frequently asked questions, but a top agency official maintained Friday that the policy has not changed.

Ex-Philly US Atty Predicts No Falloff In FCA Enforcement

Drug and device manufacturers and other players in the health care world should not expect relief in enforcement of the False Claims Act with Jeff Sessions as attorney general, Zane David Memeger, former U.S. attorney for the Philadelphia region, told Law360 in a wide-ranging recent interview that also touched on the region's ongoing legacy of public corruption.

Tillerson Wants Pledge To Boost NATO Defense Spending

Secretary of State Rex Tillerson on Friday urged most NATO members to either boost, or develop plans to boost, their defense spending by the end of 2017, arguing the U.S. is paying a "disproportionate share" of the total defense spending of the alliance.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

Series

Advocate For An Agency: Ex-CPSC GC Cheryl Falvey

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission is tasked with regulating a wide range of products, while operating with only narrow rulemaking authority and a tight budget. Cheryl Falvey, general counsel of the CPSC from 2008 to 2012, describes how she and agency staff responded creatively to the Chinese drywall crisis and other urgent problems that required coordination across multiple agencies and governments.

Financial Reform: Let's Not Toss Out What's Working

Those who criticize Dodd-Frank's implementing regulations as either unnecessary or overly complex — pointing to rules regarding conflict minerals in the Congo, disclosure rules for oil companies' dealings with foreign governments, or expensive stress testing — cannot ignore the unique and central role of regulated banking for the American economy, says Patrick Richard of Nossaman LLP.

A Sign Of Targeted Patent Reform In Congress?

Three months into the 115th congressional term, no patent bill has been proposed yet. However, the Lawsuit Abuse Reduction Act, passed by the House in early March and not specifically targeted at patents, hints at what might come next, say attorneys with Finnegan Henderson Farabow Garrett & Dunner LLP.

Trump's EO: What's Next For Energy, Enviro And Climate?

President Trump's recent executive order, "Promoting Energy Independence and Economic Growth," is not limited to climate-related initiatives. Rather, it calls for a sweeping re-examination and potential rebalancing of U.S. policy regarding energy and the environment, say attorneys at Arnold & Porter Kaye Scholer LLP.

In Congress: Gorsuch And The 'Nuclear Option'

There remain institutional voices seeking to avoid a showdown over the nomination of Judge Neil Gorsuch, but for now it is likely that by the end of the week the nation will have a new member of the U.S. Supreme Court and the Senate minority will have lost another tool, say Richard Hertling and Kaitlyn McClure of Covington & Burling LLP.

Louisiana's Judicial Crisis

The Western District of Louisiana is supposed to have seven district judges. But for a year, most of the courthouses were operating without a single Article III judge. As usual, magistrate judges picked up the slack. (This article is part of a series on the lack of new judgeships in the federal judiciary).

Mayor's Fund for Las Vegas LIFE

Dear XXX,

As one of our community's great leaders, I'm writing to invite you to serve on my Inaugural Advisory Committee for the Mayor's Fund for Las Vegas LIFE. Your ideas, input, and enthusiasm are needed to help launch this important initiative that has achieved great success in other cities.

The Advisory Committee of the Mayor's Fund for Las Vegas LIFE ("the Fund") will consist of a diverse mix of community leaders and professionals and serve as the Fund's advisory body. The Committee will provide vital guidance and strategic advice to facilitate the Fund's multi-sector efforts, and help build support for public-private partnerships that will promote systemic change and have a lasting, positive impact on the lives of Las Vegas residents.

Advisory Committee members will provide support by:

- Acting as an ambassador and advocate for the Fund, sharing enthusiasm for its mission and projects
- Making recommendations and providing key information and materials to ensure the success of the Fund
- Serving as an example for prospective partners by making or securing a donation to the Fund
- Identifying community-oriented individuals, companies and organizations within your personal network who may be interested in joining you in supporting the Fund
- Reaching out to those you've identified to encourage their involvement and "open the door" for further conversation
- Bringing unique knowledge and skills to more effectively guide the Fund
- Providing a photo and biographical information for inclusion on the Advisory Committee section of the Fund's website
- Allowing the organization to publicize your name and participation on the Advisory Committee, as well as listing your name on letterhead and other communications
- Attending and participating in triannual meetings, as well as Fund-related events throughout the year to build a dynamic spirit of community between donors

DRAFT

Important dates:

- August 16, 2018, 11:30am: First Advisory Committee Meeting – City Hall
- September 12, 2018, 10:30am: LIFE Event – Location TBD

I hope you'll join us with this important work! Please RSVP to Wendy Fortunato, wendy@moonridgegroup.com and advise by August 1, 2018 if you will join the Committee!

Warm Regards,
Mayor Carolyn G. Goodman
City of Las Vegas

Hi Mayor! Two years ago (yes he kept the email!) Jon Ralston asked us about this whether you were considering returning the money he gave your campaign, and after talking with you we responded you were aware of the issue and would wait and see what the outcome of the investigation is,
Now that he has been indicted Jon wants to know whether you are planning to return the money he donated to your campaign.
Feel free to call me if you want to chat, I wanted to email you this so you had the PDF.

INVESTMENT COMPANY EXECUTIVES INDICTED FOR $1.5 BILLION PONZI SCHEME

WASHINGTON – The president and chief executive officer and two former Asia-based executives of a Las Vegas investment company were indicted today for their roles in an alleged $1.5 billion Ponzi scheme.

Assistant Attorney General Leslie R. Caldwell of the Justice Department's Criminal Division, U.S. Attorney Daniel G. Bogden of the District of Nevada and Special Agent in Charge Laura A. Bucheit of the FBI's Las Vegas Division made the announcement.

"The defendants allegedly preyed on thousands of unsuspecting Japanese victims to enrich themselves by operating a billion-plus dollar Ponzi scheme," said Assistant Attorney General Caldwell. "This prosecution shows that the Criminal Division will pursue not only those who victimize American citizens, but also those who use the U.S. as a home base to defraud victims abroad."

"Investment fraud and other financial fraud cases are a high priority for the U.S. Attorney's Office in Nevada," said U.S. Attorney Bogden. "These defendants are accused of using a Nevada corporation to conduct their $1.5 billion fraud scheme and falsely telling thousands of overseas victims that their investments would be safely held and managed by an independent, third-party escrow agent in Nevada. Fraudulent ruses and schemes perpetrated by Nevadans using Nevada corporations and entities will continue to be addressed by this office."

"These indictments are a reminder of the FBI's determination to identify, investigate and bring to justice those who are committing financial crimes against innocent consumers," said

Special Agent in Charge Bucheit. "We are appreciative of the continued support we receive from our international, federal, state and local law enforcement partners."

Edwin Fujinaga, 68, of Las Vegas; Junzo Suzuki, 66, of Tokyo; and Paul Suzuki, 36, of Tokyo, were charged in an indictment with eight counts of mail fraud and nine counts of wire fraud. Fujinaga also is charged with three counts of money laundering. The indictment seeks from all three defendants forfeiture of the proceeds from the alleged crimes.

Fujinaga was the president and CEO of Las Vegas-based MRI International Inc. (MRI). Junzo Suzuki previously was MRI's executive vice president for Asia Pacific, and Paul Suzuki previously was the company's general manager for Japan operations. MRI purportedly specialized in "factoring," whereby the company purchased accounts receivable from medical providers at a discount, and then attempted to recover the entire amount, or at least more than the discounted amount, from the debtor.

According to allegations in the indictment, from at least 2009 to 2013, Fujinaga and the Suzukis fraudulently solicited investments from thousands of Japanese residents, and MRI currently owes investors over $1.5 billion. Specifically, the indictment alleges that Fujinaga and the Suzukis promised investors a series of interest payments that would accrue over the life of the investment and that would be paid out along with the face value of the investment at the conclusion of the investments' duration. The defendants allegedly solicited investments by, among other things, promising investors that their investments would be used only for the purchase of medical accounts receivable (MARS) and by representing that investors funds would be managed and safeguarded by an independent third-party escrow company.

The indictment further alleges that MRI operated as a Ponzi scheme, wherein the defendants used new investors' money to pay prior investors' maturing investments. According to the indictment, the defendants also allegedly used investors' funds for purposes other than the purchase of MARS, including paying themselves sales commissions, subsidizing gambling habits, funding personal travel by private jet, and other personal expenses.

The charges contained in an indictment are merely accusations. A defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

This case is being investigated by the FBI's Las Vegas Division. Significant assistance was provided by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, the Criminal Division's Office of International Affairs and Japanese authorities. This case is being prosecuted by Assistant Chief Albert B. Stieglitz Jr. and Trial Attorney Melissa Aoyagi of the Criminal Division's Fraud Section and First Assistant U.S. Attorney Steven W. Myhre of the District of Nevada.

Subject: How this agency saved $670 million in cost avoidance in 3 years

Dear Carolyn,

In 2016, the federal government paid out $144 billion in improper payments, according to the Government Accountability Office. Much of this can be attributed to nefarious activity.

Government human service dollars intended to help the most vulnerable of our citizens are being swindled by fraudsters intent on stealing these funds for their own use. Entitlement programs like Medicaid, Social Security and unemployment are particularly susceptible to identity-based fraud.

Join us on Dec. 7 at 11 a.m. Pacific/2 p.m. Eastern to learn how government HHS agencies like the Florida Department of Children and Families (DCF) are using identity-focused strategies to detect and stop identity-based fraud and preventing improper payments from going out the door.

Register now for the webinar, Identity Management: The Key to Alleviating Fraud from Entitlement Programs, to hear more about:

- How identity management is evolving to stay ahead of sophisticated identity fraud
- Florida DCF's story – How the agency saved $670 million in cost avoidance in 3 years

Voting Reform Enters 2016 Debate

 In the wake of Hillary Clinton's speech urging universal registration, voting reform is now at the center of public debate. "Automatic, permanent registration as Clinton proposes would add up to 50 million to the rolls," Michael Waldman wrote in Politico Magazine. "It would cost less than today's paper-clogged system. And it would curb the potential for fraud." Voter Registration Modernization, the Brennan Center's signature proposal, has been moving forward in the states with bipartisan support. The most recent reform came in Oregon, which passed a breakthrough law in March to automatically enroll citizens. See the Center's analysis of voting laws in the 2015 legislative session. Kansas Moves to Defund Court System

 Kansas Gov. Sam Brownback (R) signed a judicial budgeting bill that could plunge the state into a constitutional crisis. The measure contains a clause that strips the court of its entire budget if any Kansas court strikes down a 2014 law that removed the Kansas Supreme Court's administrative authority over lower courts. "It seems pretty clear that these mechanisms have been an effort by the governor and the Legislature to try and get a court system that is more in line with their philosophy," Matthew Menendez told The New York Times. The Brennan Center is part of a legal team challenging the 2014 law.

'Nuclear Option' Won't Cure Fraught Confirmation Process

The U.S. Senate's move Thursday to invoke a rule change to defeat a Democratic filibuster of U.S. Supreme Court nominee Neil Gorsuch succeeded in clearing a path for President Donald Trump's high court pick, but the so-called "nuclear option" is unlikely to change the reality of today's politically explosive confirmation processes.

Senate Advances Gorsuch After Invoking 'Nuclear Option'

Senate Republicans have exercised the so-called nuclear option by changing the body's rules to advance the nomination of Tenth Circuit Judge Neil Gorsuch to the U.S. Supreme Court on Thursday, after a blockade by Democrats halted the nomination.

Opinion

ABA Needs A New Model Legal Ethics Rule

Perhaps lost in the presidential post-election tumult was a report issued in late 2016 by an international body evaluating U.S. compliance with anti-money laundering and counter-terrorist financing standards. Considering repeated criticisms of the legal profession, the American Bar Association should seriously consider a new model legal ethics rule, says Kevin Shepherd of Venable LLP.

Why FCC Cannot Require Opt-Out Language In Solicited Faxes

The D.C. Circuit's ruling in Bais Yaakov v. FCC takes some wind out of the sails of would-be plaintiffs seeking to capitalize on the nuances of Telephone Consumer Protection Act and Federal Communications Commission rules. The ruling shows the court's willingness to hold the FCC accountable when it takes actions outside of its authority, say attorneys with Eversheds Sutherland (US) LLP.

ACA Repeal And Replace: Down, But Not Out

Although the American Health Care Act was withdrawn from a U.S. House of Representatives vote scheduled last month, major Affordable Care Act changes for employers and group health plans remain possible this year, says Eric Schillinger of Trucker Huss APC.

Compliance Front And Center As HHS Keeps Up HIPAA Heat

For many, the first quarter of 2017 was spent ensuring proper documentation of Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act compliance programs. As a result, the industry has seen, among other things, an increase in the use of third-party compliance companies to conduct HIPAA risk assessments and a shift to more comprehensive business associate agreements, say David Saunders and William Pericak of Jenner & Block.

Solving Pay Equity Questions With Regression Analysis

All types of companies, including law firms, often wonder how a pay analysis can be beneficial if there are so many factors that can't be captured in a statistical model. The good news is that regression analysis is quite adequate in modeling the quantitative factors that drive pay, but can also be used to understand and isolate nonquantitative factors, say Charles Diamond and Rick Holt of Resolution Economics LLC. Subject: FRA canceling California HSR funding

FRA pulls funding plug on California HSR

On Feb. 19, one week after California's Democratic Governor, Gavin Newsom, announced that the State would build only the 119-mile Central Valley portion of the HSR system, the Federal Railroad Administration issued a Notice of Intent to Terminate Cooperative Agreement No. FR-HSR-0118-12-01-0 1, and de-obligate nearly $1 billion in funding, effective March 5. FRA also said it is "actively exploring every legal option to seek the return from California of $2.5 billion in Federal funds FRA previously granted for this now-defunct project." Full Article

Riyadh metro sprints for the finish line

2018 was another year of milestones for the Riyadh metro project, with infrastructure taking shape, the awarding of operating contracts and the start of test running. America without Greyhound—and no replacement passenger trains

We are not usually concerned with buses at Railway Age, but what would happen if Greyhound buses suddenly disappeared from American roads, and Amtrak became the only provider of passenger transportation with a nationwide reach? That speculation is not as far-fetched as it would appear at first blush, as a similar scenario is being played out at this writing in much of Canada.. Full Article

Subject: Jan 17, Out of Network Revenue Optimization, Appeals and Recovery

Ted Burton

Good morning,

Many out-of-network (OON) providers today wish they had a business degree to go with their medical one. The increasing cost of treatments and procedures coupled with reduced reimbursements from ínsurance companies—as well as Medícare and Medicaíd—are putting a major squeeze on many practices, bringing the question: What can I do to stop this significant reduction of revenue?

To increase your chances of getting paid accurately as an OON provider, it is vital that you implement some best practices before, during and after providing services. Once you have implemented them, you need to know how to appeal claims timely and to the proper authority. Not being aware of these best practices will severely limit your ability to contest deníed and under-reimbursed claims and optimize payments in the current climate.

Join us for this On Demand Webinar, "Nuts and Bolts of Out-of-Network Revenue Recovery," with expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., on Wednesday, January 17, 2018, (available all day), for a comprehensive overview of what an OON provider needs to be doing for proper reimbursement and appeal success. Get strategies and techniques that will prepare you to treat OON patients while maximizing reimbursements and properly appealing deníed and under-reimbursed claims. Also, you will get a complete list of patient forms that are essential and learn about the current best practices in detail.

Session Highlights

This session will cover:

- Issues that OON providers face when dealing with health plans
- An overview of OON reimbursement/charge analysis
- List of patient forms and disclosures essential to appeals and fraud audit defénse
- A review of eligibility issues
- Techniques to appeal deníed and under-reimbursed claims
- Techniques to write an effective appeal letter/objection letter to audit
- ERISA protections and obligations of plan administrators
- Prompt payment law and insurers' obligations
- Clinical denials, how to handle external appeals/independent medical reviews
- Balance billing and recoupment strategies
- Current best practices in dealing with OON claims
- And more!

Apply "SAVE20" at check-out and get $20 off on registration.

Set-Top Plan Alternative Is Only Way Forward, FCC Told

The National Cable and Telecommunications Association told the Federal Communications Commission on Thursday that the agency’s plan to unlock set-top boxes is not workable or lawful, despite “sloganeering” from the proposal’s defenders, and that an industry-backed apps-based alternative is the only real option.

EXPERT ANALYSIS

How McDonnell Changes Public Corruption Prosecution

The U.S. Supreme Court's decision in McDonnell represents a continuation of the pullback from unfettered prosecutorial power begun in Skilling relating to “honest services” mail and wire fraud, say Henry Hockeimer and Thomas Burke of Ballard Spahr LLP.

Brexit: UK Trades Bargaining Power For Autonomy

Once the United Kingdom leaves the European Union it will regain exclusive competence in negotiation and implementation of international trade rules, but may lose much of its bargaining power when negotiating those agreements and enforcing those rules, say attorneys at Crowell & Moring LLP.

Puerto Rico And The Importance Of Legislative History

The U.S. Supreme Court’s enunciation of the clear limits of Puerto Rico’s power and its ability to restructure municipal debt made the bipartisan negotiation and passage of the Puerto Rico Oversight, Management and Economic Stability Act crucial. It also highlighted that the process and manner in which the legislation was passed will be an essential component of PROMESA for posterity, say attorneys with Steptoe & Johnson LLP, including former Puerto Rico Gov. Luis Fortuno.

California's Anti-SLAPP Law Is Not Systematically Abused

The real problem with California's anti-SLAPP law is not systematic abuse by litigants. It is contradictory appeals court opinions construing critical portions of the statute, say attorneys at Horvitz & Levy LLP.

NY Should Unify Standards For Atty Fees Against State Agency

Two bills introduced in the recently ended New York legislative session, if adopted into law, will provide government entities and Freedom of Information Law practitioners with the mooring of predictable and consistent outcomes in FOIL proceedings by changing the standard for determining attorneys’ fee awards, say Matthew McLaughlin and Benjamin Argyle of Venable LLP.

Law360's Weekly Verdict: Legal Lions & Lambs

It was another big week for the lions of the U.S. Supreme Court, where BigLaw teams took down a Texas abortion law and the corruption conviction of a former Virginia governor. Our legal lambs are led by a pair of DLA Piper attorneys who broke a federal court order in a drug benefits case, then lied under oath about it.

Scalia's Death To Loom Over High Court's Next Term

The death of Justice Antonin Scalia reverberated this year in deadlocked decisions and refusals to review important cases, a partial paralysis that is likely to endure for much or all of the U.S. Supreme Court's upcoming term, attorneys say.

Texas Firm, Undeterred By Brexit, Merges With UK Boutique

Texas BigLaw firm Haynes and Boone LLP said Thursday that it plans to enter the U.K. — just days after the country voted to exit the European Union — through a merger with London-based shipping boutique Curtis Davis Garrard LLP.

DLA Piper Strikes Merger Deal With Swedish Firm Gronberg

DLA Piper LLP is set to merge with Swedish corporate law outfit Gronberg Advokatbyra, the firms announced Thursday, in a move that will further expand the global firm's Scandinavian footprint following its tie-up with Finnish firm Peltonen LMR earlier this year.

UK Law Firms Believe Talent Pool Has Shrunk, Report Says

More than half of United Kingdom law firms polled in a new report believe that the talent pool of skilled legal professionals has decreased over the past year, a British legal recruiter said.

Calif. Bar Unveils 1st Major Conduct Rules Revamp Since 1987

The State Bar of California on Thursday unveiled a proposal for the first major revision to its attorney conduct rules in 30 years, including new guidelines for advertising, conflicts of interest and sexual relations with clients and a new numbering system that matches what's in the regulations used by the rest of the nation.

Hello Carolyn,

. My name is Tamara Higgins. My father was Howard Hargett. He used to be Oscars legal researcher before he passed away in 1989.

1 year ago today his sister passed away. Our entire family legacy...is now being robbed from us for lack of a better term, by the exetrix.In a nutshell, estate is located in Monroe, NI have pointed out fraud, deceit etc. But being a little town where everyone grew up and just stayed...
she is being able to get away with it.

I did hire an attorney. However he has done nothing. Now a year later, in the dark, we are being told if we dont settle he will withdraw as counsel.
I am in desperate need to be pointed in the right direction from someone I can trust.

I do apologize for reaching out to you at work. But can you please give Oscar this email. And ask him if he could suggest what steps to take.

With the utmost appreciation,
Tamara Higgins

Subject: Trump's voter fraud commission implodes

A rousing win for democracy!

[redacted]

Dear Friend,

We kick off 2018 with encouraging news: last night President Trump shut down the sham voter fraud commission. Amid many challenges for the institutions of American democracy, this was a rousing win.

The panel was convened to try to justify the spurious claim of millions of illegal votes in 2016. Instead it exposed the hollowness of that charge.

Voting rights advocates, state and local officials from both parties, and scholars united in criticism of this misguided effort. You can read more in USA Today, Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, Vox, The Atlantic, CNN, and Dallas News.

We are proud to play a central role in this fight. As The Guardian reported, "the Brennan Center was at the forefront of resistance to the commission's work." The Washington Post called us "fierce critics," an adjective we wear proudly. We challenged the commission in court ... leveraged our longstanding, rigorous research ... issued new reports rebutting its false findings ... and waged a top-flight communications campaign, including this one-stop website. All to subject it to the ridicule and opprobrium it deserved.

No doubt, there is fallout to come. As I note in the Washington Post, the commission has vanished, but its pernicious objectives persist. The White House has asked the Department of Homeland Security to take up the commission's work – a dangerous and appalling idea. Earlier this morning, the President took to Twitter to renew calls for voting restrictions. And we continue to challenge the voter ID law in Texas, a case expected to soon land before the U.S. Supreme Court. In the lead-up to November 2018, the stakes couldn't be higher.

Many thanks for your partnership in these critical times.

Best regards,

Michael Waldman
President

This dispatch prepared for .

DAYS UNTIL THE FIRST SPECIAL SESSION BEGINS: 112

Good morning, everyone. Happy Valentine's Day to all. It's not really a big deal to me because, as you all know, I spread love around every day. It's a tough job, but someone's gotta do it. My Valentine's poem for you: The governor is red, the Legislature is blue, the Senate is not sweet, the Assembly has lots to do. (Yes, I'll keep my day job.)

What's below: Immigration impact, Dems vs. Heller, legislative nuggets, Morning Flash nuggets and repeating a trivia question about Harry Reid (remember him?).

COMING UP

Former Gov. Bob List celebrates the 55th (!) anniversary of his admittance to practice law in Nevada.

NEW STUDY LOOKS AT IMMIGRATION IMPACT

This Wallet Hun study on immigration's impact on the states has some good information. Nevada is ranked 19th, but look at the disparate scores. The state scores high in workforce rank and socioeconomic contribution but low in brain gain rankings and international students. Check it out.

THE NEVERENDING CAMPAIGN

I still wonder about the enduring potency of the almost-daily stunts to go after Sen. Dean Heller and his support of President Trump (still a 100 percenter). But it is endless so far. To wit:

----Progressive groups sticking around NV after the election cycle: "On February 14th at 1 pm, a group of Senator Heller's constituents along with the Sierra Club and For Nevada's Future will visit his office…. in person to deliver letters from 700 of constituents calling on him to reject Scott Pruitt, Donald Trump's corrupt nominee to head the Environmental Protection Agency."

----From the Progressive Campaign Change Committee: "We want to run TV ads in Nevada, holding Dean Heller accountable. Nevada had massive foreclosures during the financial crisis, due to Wall Street fraud and greed. Your neighbors must know that he betrayed them."

----Via American Bridge: "Dean Heller Votes For Foreclosure King Mnuchin -- And Against Nevada Families"

----And this: "RELEASE: SENATE MAJORITY LEADER AND SPEAKER OF ASSEMBLY PRESS U.S. SENATOR HELLER FOR ANSWERS ON WASHINGTON REPUBLICANS ATTEMPTED REPEAL OF NEVADANS' HEALTHCARE" So this is going to be a thing: The Democratic leaders of the Legislature are going to keep the pressure on and create/highlight issues.

Only about 600 days left…

A COUPLE OF LEGISLATIVE NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 -- Pretty strong comments from the rookie senator to the minority leader .

Nugget No. 2 – Indie Sen. Patty Farley is maintaining regular email contact with folks, sending out missives with headers such as “The Welfare of Nevada's most Vulnerable Citizens” and “2017 Bills focused on Nevada's Drug Abuse Crisis.” Smart.

A COUPLE OF MORNING FLASH NUGGETS

Nugget No. 1 -- Hutch gets something to do.

Nugget No. 2 -- CCM gets some good pub in Marie Claire.

FAST FLASHES

Click and enjoy.

Big number.

The onion peels.

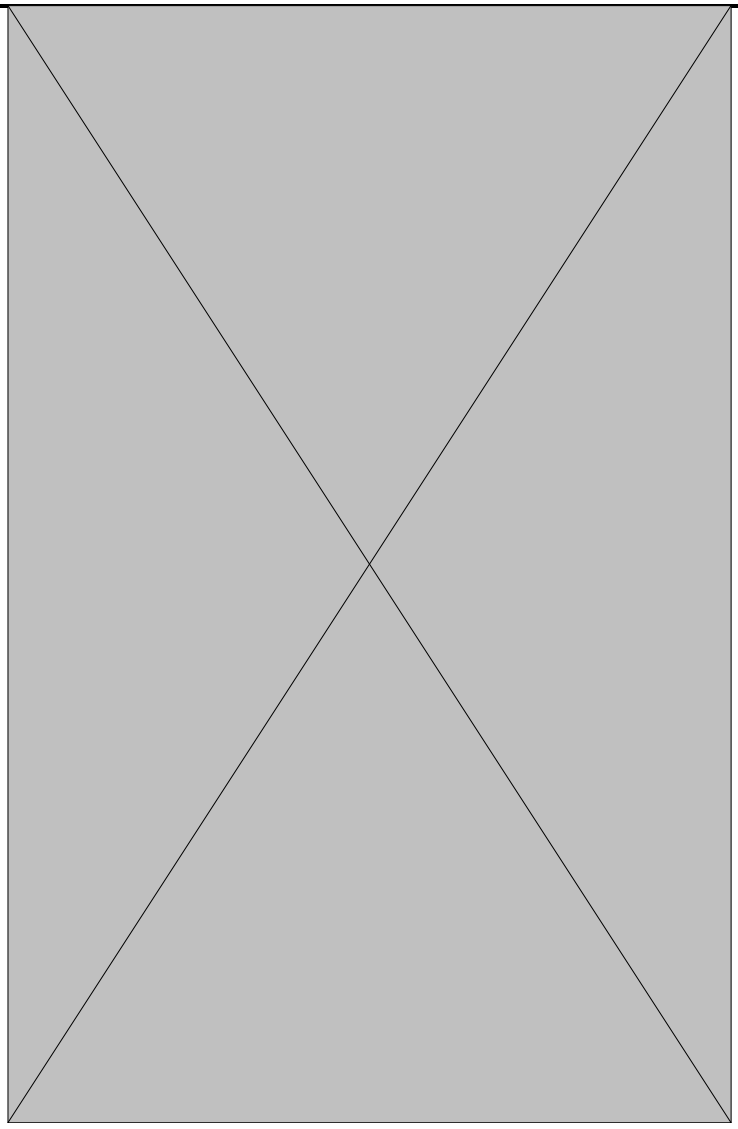
Nevada lawmaker takes issue with Clark County tax revenue claim

Michael Scott Davidson
Las Vegas Review-Journal
February 15, 2017

A Republican state senator said Wednesday that Clark County understated the annual growth of its property tax revenue during testimony to Nevada Legislature members.



READ MORE HERE

Keystone's Mission:

To recruit, support and advocate for candidates for public office who support private sector job creation, low taxation, a responsible regulatory environment, and effective delivery of essential state services.

Keystone's Mission:

- To focus on candidate support on state legislative races and the governor's office.
- To oppose any form of corporate income taxes or other business taxes that discourage capital investment and therefore job creation.
- Support limiting Nevada state government spending to the rate of population growth.

A slideshow accompanying a presentation by County Manager Yolanda King stated property tax revenue grew 1.4 percent from fiscal year 2015-2016 to the current fiscal year. But statistics from the county's budget show the revenue grew 4.7 percent, Sen. Ben Kieckhefer, R-Reno, said.

"They've significantly undercut that growth rate in support of a policy that undermines taxpayer protections, and I see that as a serious problem," Kieckhefer told the Las Vegas Review-Journal.

On Wednesday night, King said the 1.4 percent growth rate was correct.

The county's presentation Tuesday was to help prepare state lawmakers to discuss Assembly Bill 43, a proposal to amend the property tax cap law.

Kieckhefer said he does not support AB43, but the alleged misrepresentation — intentional or not — of revenue growth could hurt the bill.
"I certainly don't want to assign intent because I don't know, but this was sort of the launch point for the entire effort for their (the Nevada Association of Counties') property tax bill. And to start that entire effort with faulty data is very disturbing," Kieckhefer said.

The discrepancy in the revenue growth rates appears to stem from annual tax revenues the county cited during a joint meeting of the Senate Committee on Revenue and Economic Development and the Assembly Committee on Taxation.

Hello Brad,

Hope all is well.
I have attached a working draft proposal for the City of Las Vegas branded My GameRoom which includes donations to local shelters and a risk free, cost free revenue vertical for the city. We are launching a large campaign in July across GreaterGood and Cumulus/Westwood One and would love to include promotion of a CLV branded MGR.

Please feel free to email, text or call me if you have any questions.

Look forward to your feedback.

Hello Mayor Goodman and team,

Was great spending time with you today.

I appreciate your accommodating the meeting at City Hall.

Below is a link (same as earlier with additional information that will be update daily) including audio spot demos.

Bradford,
To answer your question, our main ask is to be be the " Official City of Las Vegas" social free to play game room and have a presence / integration through your online footprint (i.e. events, website, twitter, etc).
In exchange for that we will promote your City and brand on all levels nationwide while creating significant positive social impact locally. Additionally we are willing to pay a profit share to the City of Las Vegas from our advertising revenue.

I will be in LV through Wednesday if you would like to meet again and work through any questions you may have. My cell is below, feel free to reach out anytime.

Thanks,
Phillip

In summary, I have developed a gaming brand called www.mygameroom.com that gives back to people, pets and the planet though an organization called www.greatergood.org. We have multi-platform distribution including but not limited to 400 + Cumulus radio stations including 8,500 WestWoodOne radio stations reaching 250m people per month (i.e. Examples- Houston: http://krbe-fm.mygameroom.com Los Angeles: http://kabc-am.mygameroom.com)

I am in the process of developing a Las Vegas branded gaming experience across our network and would love, in a collaboration with your office, to make it the "Official City Of Las Vegas gameroom."

Along with developing the platform to house the games we also create many of our own:

- EXAMPLE OF LV MGR PLATFORM: http://www.legendshill.com/vegas/
- EXMAPLE OF LV BRANDED GAME: http://www.appa11y.com/desktop/lv1/index.html

Mayor Goodman,

As you know I work with Larry King (www.kinginteractive.com), and produce interactive content for large organizations such as Cumulus/Westwood One and I am a huge supporter of the city LV and the work you are doing.

Liz Baker, who is flying in this morning for our lunch, is executive director for GreaterGood.Org, an organization that has given over $100 million in cash and product grants to charity partners and programs worldwide.

- http://greatergood.org/2018boardmeeting/pre-read-2018.pdf
- https://greatergood.org/about-us/

Liz Baker joined GreaterGood.org as Executive Director in 2012 working to protect people, pets & the planet. Liz has overseen the creation of Greatergood.org signature programs that address multiple issues ranging from hunger (Operation Sandwich), education (Girls Right to Opportunity Worldwide, Girls Voices, and A Safe Ride to School), land conservation (Project Wildcat and Madrean Discovery Expeditions) and animal welfare (Cats R Cool, One Picture Saves a Life, Rescue Rebuild, Rescue Bank) and veterans (Pets & Vets).

RJ Demman, a Las Vegas native, is a 20+ year casino veteran who is currently the Vice President of Player Development for Viejas Casino & Resort in San Diego, Ca. He spent most of his career at the same title working for the Hard Rock Hotel, Red Rock Resort and the Golden Nugget.

We all look forward to seeing you at lunch today where we can do a deeper dive into all of the aforementioned and enjoy your company.

Best regards,
Phillip

Trump's Budget Doesn't Make Sense

May 24, 2017

The following op-ed by Maya MacGuineas, president of the Committee for a Responsible Federal Budget, wa the New York Times today.

President Trump entered office facing the worst ratio of debt to gross domestic product of any new presiden history except Harry Truman — an onerous 77 percent. So, like many presidents before him — including, n President Barack Obama, who had to respond to the economic crisis he inherited — President Trump is faced of whether and how to confront a looming situation not of his own making.

To his credit, the president put forth the goal of balancing the budget over a decade and starting to reduce t goals don't balance budgets, tough choices do. President Trump's budget sticks to his campaign promises increasing military spending, investing in infrastructure, talk of tax cuts without specific offsets and "protecting" and Medicare, a reassuring political promise that removes over one-third of the budget from conside

The problem is, those promises didn't add up on the campaign trail, and they don't now.

On paper, the $1.3 trillion deficit projected for 2027 would be erased under the Trump budget. But there are assumptions made to get there. A full $300 billion, including interest, comes from a 40 percent cut to nonmilita spending, with much of the savings coming from simply assuming non-specified reductions. An additional $10 from timing shifts, one-time payments and an ambitious estimate for reducing waste, fraud and ab

The largest savings come from aggressive growth assumptions, which would generate $500 billion in a s Exaggerated growth assumptions in presidential budgets are an age-old tradition, but this budget takes it t assuming we reach 3 percent growth, a full percentage point above what the Congressional Budget Office fore baby boomers leaving the work force, demographics are destiny, and there just is no reliable plan to increas much. We should do everything we can to try, including pursuing many of the president's policy priorities — and smarter spending and regulations — but we should be realistic about expectations, and sustained 3 per almost certainly unobtainable.

Furthermore, these numbers come before incorporating what the White House has promised to be "one of the in American history," which is conspicuously missing from the budget altogether. Indeed, the budget seems reform will increase revenues, at odds with everything the administration has proposed and said on th

There are plenty of hard choices the budget proposes, for which the administration deserves credit. But many cuts fall disproportionately on public investments, support for families and assistance for low-income Ar

While there are potential savings to be found in all areas of the budget, this pressure on a relatively small sliv not where the spending growth comes from, results from trying to square the circle of balancing the budget w largest contributors to spending growth — Social Security and Medicare — off the table and simultaneously r don't need to consider raising taxes. This approach is likely not only to receive pushback from Democrats bu considerable consternation in President Trump's own party.

The president has proved repeatedly that he is his own thinker and not beholden to the traditional views of ei heterodoxy is appealing in certain situations, but when it comes to tough budget choices, he is eschewing th both parties have traditionally been at least willing to consider.

Yes, Republicans have a blind spot when it comes to acknowledging that revenues must be a part of the fi credit, many Republicans — including, notably, Paul Ryan, the speaker of the House — have made the case f to reform our largest entitlement programs, including Social Security and Medicare (though there has rece disquieting silence on the topic). And many Republicans are taking the responsible position that tax reform sh revenue neutral.

Democrats, many of whom too often act as demagogues on entitlement reform, are clear that taxes must inc they also must stop pretending it is just millionaires who will be affected). They also have been admirable in th to the pay-as-you-go principle in recent major legislation, which at least keeps us from digging the hole

President Trump doesn't align with either camp. If he continues to maintain that none of the big-ticket items in on the table, there is little hope that his budget could actually achieve balance.

Fixing the budget will require presidential leadership. If President Trump plans to leave office not having adc dollars more to the debt, he is going to have to reconsider some of his promises.

Hello Carolyn,

. My name is Tamara Higgins. My father was Howard Hargett. He used to be Oscars legal researcher before he passed away in 1989.

1 year ago today his sister passed away. Our entire family legacy...is now being robbed from us for lack of a better term, by the exetrix.In a nutshell, estate is located in Monroe, NI have pointed out fraud, deceit etc. But being a little town where everyone grew up and just stayed... she is being able to get away with it.

I did hire an attorney. However he has done nothing. Now a year later, in the dark, we are being told if we dont settle he will withdraw as counsel.
I am in desperate need to be pointed in the right direction from someone I can trust.

I do apologize for reaching out to you at work. But can you please give Oscar this email. And ask him if he could suggest what steps to take.

With the utmost appreciation,

Rigging an Election? No, Protecting Voters.

Donald Trump said the 2016 election would be “rigged” because of recent court rulings blocking restrictive voting laws. His campaign warned of “massive fraud.” But research shows you are more likely to be struck by lightning than commit in-person voter impersonation. In rolling back strict requirements, courts found little evidence of fraud — and substantial evidence of disenfranchisement.

Carolyn —

Following up on my email from earlier this week — can I get you an agenda on our upcoming Government Enterprise Risk Management Summit July 25-25? We've had a lot of positive response to it, and I'd love to get you or your team members registered.

Thanks,

Carolyn —

New mandates have been announced under OMB Circular A-123 that require every government program to conduct a formal risk assessment and submit mitigation plans to the White House budget office.

To learn how to meet these new mandates, would you like to join us on July 24-25 for the Government Enterprise Risk Management Summit (Gov-ERM)?

Gov-ERM provides comprehensive coverage of the latest mandates and best practices for conducting risk assessments, integrating performance management with risk management, mitigating risks through improved internal controls, and changing the culture of your agency to be more aware of risks.

This year Gov-ERM will spotlight strategies for three common government risk areas: Cyber Risk, Fraud and Improper Payments, and Operational Risk.

Space is limited so let me know asap if you want to see the full agenda and if you want to register yourself or a colleague!

Friends,

We're well into the holiday season, and this time immediately after Thanksgiving marks the advent of a nearly month-long shopping spree to find the perfect gift for family and friends. The month is often stressful, but always rewarding with the warm smiles of loved ones and thoughtful gifts.

While we may like to complain about the difficulties and inconveniences this season provides, so many unfortunate families do not experience the same love and warmth that comes naturally this time of year. In the midst of the craziness of the season, we hope you can find it in your heart to give to families and individuals in need, because no one should be alone this time of year.

I learn more about prospects, referral sources and opportunities by listening than I do by talking. Being 100 percent present and paying attention is the first step. The second is to focus on key words and subjects that come up multiple times, says Andrew Apfelberg, a partner at Greenberg Glusker Fields Claman & Machtinger LLP.

Rainmaker Q&A: Levine Kellogg's Jeffrey Schneider

Too many attorneys think the proverbial “pitch” is about what the attorney says and the way in which he or she says it. I disagree. A lot of attorneys make the mistake of talking all about themselves and not about the challenges the client faces, which is, at the end of the day, why we are there in the first place, says Jeffrey Schneider, a founding partner at Levine Kellogg Lehman Schneider and Grossman LLP.

Subject: RE: Senior Center info

First, I have attached a couple releases about upcoming senior special events just to give you an idea of the breadth and scope of our programming. These releases just feature a couple of the dozens of programs and activities at each center.

Second, LVSC (Las Vegas Senior Center) will be undergoing a large capital improvement project this summer. Some of the refurbishments will include making the building more accessible and the removal of asbestos. Because asbestos removal is part of the project the city determined that the space will have to be closed while the work is happening. The capital improvement project will also move the reception desk closer to the front door at LVSC and patrons who enter can access both the center and the Dula gymnasium next door. This will allow us to have one entrance for both facilities and provide better service to our guests.

Cost of the project is about $1.8 million.

As for your question about how many senior centers did we have circa 2008 and 2010… we had six senior centers then and we still have six today. Interestingly, during that time in 2008-2010, the Derfelt Center was closed as part of the massive Lorenzi Park renovations, so we only had five operating in that time frame. Also when I mentioned Doolittle and East Las Vegas as centers in close proximity to LVSC, I should have also mentioned Derfelt at 3343 W. Washington Ave. So there are three centers all in close proximity to LVSC.

The Las Vegas Senior Center, 451 E. Bonanza Road. What is happening is that the city is planning to do some renovation work at this center. It is one of the city's oldest facilities. Currently the city is in the design process for that project. The soonest it would close for the work to begin would be this summer, and the project could take four months or more. So we are still early in the process on this.

The reason for the project is to improve this older facility for all who use it in the community. While this center is closed, other nearby centers such as Doolittle, 1950 N. J St. & East Las Vegas, 250 N. Eastern Ave. will be available for our residents.

Also the city has several senior centers see here https://www.lasvegasnevada.gov/Residents/Parks-Facilities

Subject: Federal litigation impacting OON Providers - Understanding balance Billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits

Good morning,

Fee forgiveness is a major compliance problem faced by out-of-network healthcare providers today. Recently, health plans have been increasingly targeting OON providers that don't balance bill, and suing them for ínsurance fraud. In the past 2 years alone, Cigna, Aetna and other health plans have sued several providers on varying cases of fee forgiveness.

For providers, the best way to understand the strategies of insurers is to carefully monitor federal litigation. The motions and memoranda within these cases outline the various positions of the health plans on risk areas such as balance billing, fee forgiveness, recoupment and fraud audits. As an OON provider, you can't possibly hope to obtain proper reimbursement and remain compliant in the current climate without understanding relevant federal laws and cases interpreting these laws.

Join expert speaker, Thomas J. Force, Esq. in this Live Audio Conference—"Update on Federal Litigation Affecting out of Network Providers" on Thursday, Nov 3 at 1 pm ET, to get valuable insights on OON risk areas through recent federal litigation between health plans and out-of-network providers. Get strategies and techniques to assist in appealing out-of-network denied and under-reimbursed claims. Learn to defend yourself in fraud audits such as fee forgiveness audits and get a list of patient forms essential to the appeals process.

Session Highlights:

- Case summary of all federal lawsuits against and brought by health plans against OON providers in the last two years.
- Patient forms and disclosures essential to appeals and fraud audit défense.
- Techniques to defèat a fee forgiveness audit.
- Ways to defèat an audit based upon clinical reasons and poor documentation.
- How to write an effective appeal letter/objection letter to audit.
- Why is out-of-network reimbursement on the decline?
- Best practices for OONs
- Update on an interesting new law!
- In-Network and Out-of-Network Basics
- Balance Billing Requirements
- ERISA Preemption
- OON Fee Forgiveness Cases by Cigna, Aetna and Other Health Plans

Subject: Out of Network Providers: Maximize recovery against health plans and generate more revenue

Good morning,

Patients are increasingly seeking out-of-network (OON) services and this trend is expected to continue. As consumer demand drives out of network activity, ínsurance companies are coming up with OON benefits integrated in their policies.

Since OON reimbursement tends to be higher than in-network reimbursement, payers use different strategies to discourage it, including bill reduction tactics, limits on benefits policies and third-párty rental agreements that lower reimbursement. Out-of-network represents the last great opportunity for many providers to increase their reimbursement. But remember, what has worked for you in the past is no longer effective in recovering revenue for your practice. The climate has changed and so must you!

Join expert speaker Thomas J. Force, Esq., in this On-demand Webinar—"Everything the Out-of-Network Provider Needs to Know to Generate More Revenue for its Practice" tomorrow, Wed, Mar 23, 2016, to get deeper insights on effective revenue recovery techniques for your out-of-network services. Get strategies to maximize recovery against health plans while ensuring that your patients pay their fair share of charges. Thomas will analyze and discuss in detail the procedures necessary to be successful as an OON provider—starting with scheduling and involving the entire revenue cyclè.

Plus, you will receive instructions for revising patient forms, drafting appeals and balance bill letters, and steps necessary in holding the health plan accountable to the law.

Session Highlights:

- Discussion on Out-of-Network claims
- Out-of-Network v. In-Network—the advantages and disadvantages
- The importance of patient disclosures and upfront estimates of charges
- ERISA: Friend or Foe?
- How to use ERISA law to appeal deníed and under-reimbursed claims for employer-sponsored plans
- Are You Getting an Appropriate Response From the Health Plan?
- What is a recoupment and what to do when faced with one?
- How to get a full and fair review in case of a recoupment?
- Affordable Care Act (ACA) Emergency Services Mandate
- How to object to and defend health plan recoupments
- The importance of Charity Care Program/ Financial Hardship Policy
- Review of dispute resolution for emergency services
- Review of dispute resolution for non-emergency "Surprise Bills"
- Timing of Benefit Determination
- Manner and Content Rules
- Fee Forgiveness (ínsurance fraud)—how to avoid them
- Interplay with State Insurancè Laws
- Disclosure rules
- Dispute Resolution for Emergency and Non-Emergency Services
- Insights on Affordable Care Act and the emergency services mandate
- Mandatory disclosures for OON providers
- Expanded consumer protections

Attorney General Laxalt Launches "AG for a Day" Tour in Southern Nevada.pdf
AG FOR A DAY One Pager (South).docx

I am writing to remind you of Attorney General Laxalt's invitation to the southern portion of the "AG for a Day" tour occurring September 19–22, 2016. The northern tour earlier this month was a big success with state, town and county officials, as well as with members of the public. We hope to enjoy the same success next week as Attorney General Laxalt and members of his staff visit Mesquite, Laughlin, Boulder City, Pahrump and Henderson. AG Laxalt encourages anyone from those towns or the surrounding areas to attend the events to learn more about the services of the Attorney General's Office and to interact with his staff.

I am attaching some information about the tour and would greatly appreciate your help in disseminating the information to everyone in your office and especially to the public.

To those of you who have already RSVPd, we greatly appreciate your support. Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions.

Attorney General Laxalt Launches "AG for a Day" Tour in Southern Nevada

Las Vegas, NV – Today, Nevada Attorney General Adam Paul Laxalt announced the schedule for the southern portion of his "AG for a Day" statewide Nevada tour beginning on September 19 in Mesquite. The tour brings the Office of the Attorney General to Nevadans all across the State. Although the office represents the interests of all Nevadans each and every day, the "AG for a Day" tour provides an additional opportunity for AG Laxalt and his staff to hear the concerns of residents in each county and to be directly responsive to them. The idea for bringing the office to different locations originated in November of 1968 when Nevada Governor Paul Laxalt, AG Laxalt's grandfather, created his "Capital for a Day" tour. Governor Laxalt traveled the State with members of his cabinet to identify and address issues of concern. In keeping with grandfather's tradition, AG Laxalt will be accompanied by members of his staff representing major divisions within the Office of the Nevada Attorney General on his "AG for a Day" tour.

"I strongly believe that the closer the government is to the people, the more effectively we can meet their needs," said Laxalt. "That is why this 'AG for a Day' tour is dedicated to bringing the Office of the Attorney General directly to the people of Nevada."

Collectively, the Office will present on topics affecting local residents such as open government, trends in consumer fraud, domestic violence, guardianships and elder abuse, taxation and local government finance, and military legal services. Following the presentations, AG Laxalt and his staff will listen to the concerns of residents and be there to answer any questions.

"Each county, city and town in Nevada has unique needs and is impacted differently by decisions made at the state level," Laxalt continued. "This is why it is so important for state agencies to listen to their concerns and identify issues that matter to the people they serve. The 'AG for a Day' tour allows Nevadans to learn about the Office, and plays an important role in providing what Nevadans need, expect and deserve from their elected leaders."

Beginning in Fallon, the tour began in northern Nevada. Southern tour stops will include Mesquite, Laughlin, Boulder City, North Las Vegas, Pahrump and Henderson, respectively.

For more information on tour dates and stops, please refer to the attached flyer.

ATTORNEY GENERAL LAXALT'S

AG FOR A DAY

"I strongly believe that the closer the government is to the people, the more effectively we can meet their needs. That is why this AG FOR A DAY tour is dedicated to bringing the Office of the Attorney General directly to the people of Nevada."

— Attorney General Adam Paul Laxalt

HISTORY

In November of 1968, Nevada Governor Paul Laxalt embarked on a Capital for a Day tour with members of his cabinet to identify concerns and create responsive solutions for the State.

In the spirit of Governor Laxalt's Capital for a Day tour, AG Laxalt and members of his staff will present on topics including open government, trends in consumer fraud, domestic violence, guardianships and elder abuse, taxation and local government finance, and military legal services.

The AG FOR A DAY tour is designed to take state government directly to the people of Nevada's communities. Beginning on September 6th, AG Laxalt will tour Nevada's cities and counties accompanied by various members of his staff who represent major divisions in state government.

5 New Noncompete Developments Attys Should Know About

Noncompete agreements can be crucial to a company's bottom line, but drafting and enforcing those pacts is tricky business, requiring that attorneys know legal standards that vary state by state and stay abreast of rulings and legislative changes that may happen without much fanfare. Here, Law360 rounds up the recent developments on the noncompete front that attorneys need to know about. Read more »

It's Time To Improve Voir Dire In Federal Court

During the jury selection process, many times parties submit proposed voir dire questions, but the court ultimately chooses the questions to be asked and does all of the questioning of the jury panel. While this approach is judicially efficient, rarely do we learn anything meaningful from the panel members, say Lisa Blue of Baron and Blue and Robert Hirschhorn of Cathy E. Bennett & Associates. Enter the "Focus on Nevada" Photo Contest by March 21st!

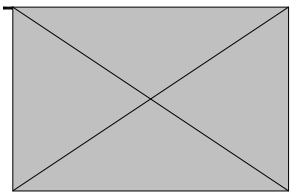
Nevada Is A Top State For Fraud, Scams

Even if you haven't fallen for a scam, we've all encountered them - on the phone, online, and sometimes even in person.

Nevada is the third most fraudulent state after Florida and Georgia, according to a 2018 report by the Federal Trade Commission.

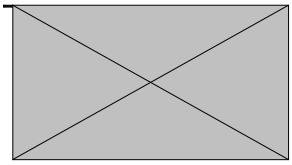
Attorney General Aaron Ford said part of the reason for that is Nevada's pro-business climate. "In our state, it is very easy to create a business here," he said. "We're very business friendly ... That creates other opportunities for nefarious activities as well."

Aaron Ford, Nevada Attorney General and Laura Tucker, Senior Deputy Attorney General talk to State of Nevada about common scams and how to avoid them.



That's Eatertainment

Atmosphere is on the menu at a new wave of Las Vegas eateries. As the March issue of Desert Companion reports, restaurants like Catch, Best Friend, and Hamburger Mary's are perfect for the Instagram era. Colorful employees and lots of ambiance bring an entertaining dimension to a meal.



NPR's Tiny Desk Contest is Back!

We at Nevada Public Radio want to see a Nevada musician win NPR's Tiny Desk Contest! You could play your own Tiny Desk if you submit a video of you performing an original song!

Enter NPR's Tiny Desk Concert before 11:59 p.m. April 14 for a chance to:

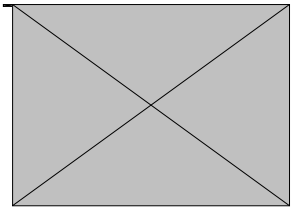
1. Play a Tiny Desk concert at NPR in Washington, D.C.
2. Tour the United States with NPR and Blue Microphones.

Enter the contest!



Enter the Photo Contest by March 31!

Share your vision of Nevada in our seventh annual "Focus on Nevada" Desert Companion Photo Contest. Whether it's a landscape, portrait or an eye-catching candid that captures Nevada, we want to see it!

We've got a refreshed set of categories to inspire your eye, and a hand-picked panel of judges from the community. Winners' and finalists' photos will be published in the June 2019 issue of Desert Companion, and be featured in an upcoming Desert Companion photography exhibit. Best of all, entry is free!

The Rule Of Law Is The Best Medicine: Part 2

In a recently issued rule, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration asserts that a company's truthful, nonmisleading statements about off-label use can be evidence of an intended use outside the label. But the FDA's rule wrongly relies on the totality of the evidence standard, which is — as noted by the Advanced Medical Technology Association — more outcome-determinative than prescriptive, says Stephen McConnell of Reed Smith. Making Good Better: How To Improve Medicare Part D

The Medicare Part D program is widely recognized as a success. But one component of the law, the Secondary Payer Program, has never served beneficiaries, the government or taxpayers well. Fortunately, Congress has begun to take action to fix this problem, with legislation that brings transparency, efficiency and fairness to Part D's secondary payer process, says David Farber of King & Spalding LLP. What Does Trump's Raise Act Support Mean For Employers?

While the recently introduced Reforming American Immigration for a Strong Economy Act is not currently expected to be approved by Congress, the Trump administration's endorsement of the bill signals transformative changes for employer sponsorship of foreign workers. Elizabeth Espín Stern and Paul Virtue of Mayer Brown LLP discuss the most significant changes for employers. Read more »

Type C: The Antitrust Division's Newest Leniency Program

The U.S. Department of Justice's recent "clarification" of a significant aspect of the corporate leniency program might appear to reinforce a long-standing approach to employees of Type B leniency applicants, but it also introduces uncertainty — and might create an entirely new type of leniency, say former federal prosecutors Mark Rosman and Jeff VanHooreweghe of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati PC.
